POINTS WAY TO 'END DRY LAW DEMAGOGUERY'

Congress Stirred by Speech of Beck.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Representative James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.], former solicitor general and one of the leading constitutional authorities of the country, told the house today in a remarkable speech that the "gigantic folly" of prohibition can be undone without repealing the eighteenth amendment.

JAMES M. BECK.
[Harris & Ewing.]

Representative Beck contended that the eighteenth amendment is not self-enforcing and that it is up to congress to determine whether there shall be affirmative legislation for its enforcement, whether there shall be no enforcing statutes, or whether methods of enforcement and actual enforcement shall be left to the states.

"Non-Exercise Not Challenge."

"When the American people thus recognize that the non-exercise of a power is not necessarily a challenge to the constitution," asserted Mr. Beck, "they will, in due time, wholly sweep away that monstrous compound of iniquity and folly, the Volstead law, and upon its ruins build afresh."

"The living generation," Mr. Beck maintained, can without any violation of the constitution "mitigate the intolerable evils under which we are suffering."

Sounding a warning to the Republican party, which, he said, "can no longer afford to sell its soul to the fanatical drys," Mr. Beck insisted that the party cannot hold forever a large number of self-respecting men and women to whom the intolerance of prohibition is a moral affront," and that unless it changes its policies it may meet the fate of the Whig party, which perished after it had attempted to make the fugitive slave law more obligatory.

Attracts Keen Attention.

The Beck speech came in the midst of consideration by the house of the administration bill for the transfer of the prohibition bureau from the treasury to the department of justice.

Seldom has any speech, either by wet or dry, gained such attention by members of the house. Announced in advance that Mr. Beck would deliver an address on prohibition, there was a full attendance, on floor and in galleries. The speech was frequently punctuated by applause from the wets. The drys sat in respectful silence.

The house concluded general debate on the prohibition bureau transfer bill and its passage tomorrow by an overwhelming majority is conceded.

Threat Fails to Gag Beck.

Representative Beck, in concluding his speech in the house, said that during the last few days he has had many letters, "one of them a letter threatening me in the most striking way, that, if I dared to make this speech, I need not expect to return to congress."

In asserting that the 18th amendment is not self-enforcing, Mr. Beck said that "a clear distinction must be made between the clauses of the constitution that in themselves are a mandate to congress and a mere delegation to congress of power to do a thing."

"It must be conceded that the first section of the 18th amendment does contain prohibition, which, however, is a mere brutum fulmen without enforcing statutes," said Mr. Beck. "But the second section shows that the 18th amendment is not self-enforcing, for it vests in congress and the several states concurrent power 'to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.'

Congress Can Decide Methods.

"The means, therefore, of enforcing this statute, or, indeed, the duty of enforcing it at all, rests in the political discretion of congress, and its members are only responsible to the American people. Therefore, while the constitution is a 'sacred compact between the dead, the living, and the unborn,' as Burke said, yet the living generation can determine whether such grants of power shall be exercised, and if so, in what manner.

"Even if this were not so, congress could, without any violation of the constitution, reach the conclusion that the methods of enforcement and the

THE DESERT DREAM

Political Foes Shoot Brazil's Vice President

RIO DE JANEIRO, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Vice President Mello Vianna of Brazil was wounded three times and several persons were killed today in the course of a political dispute arising from the presidential election campaign in the state of Minas Geraes.

The vice president was shot in the neck and in the head, but his three wounds were considered not to be serious.

Two Women Among Wounded.

Five persons were killed and 14 wounded in the fight, which occurred at Montes Claros, a mountain town 440 miles north of Rio de Janeiro. Among the wounded were two women. The vice president's secretary, Rafael Flery, was reported to be among the dead. Moafyr Dolabella, a well known engineer and sportsman of Rio de Janeiro, was reported in dispatches from the town of Corintho to have died of his wounds.

The vice president had just arrived at the head of a delegation to launch the presidential campaign of the Conservative candidate, Julio Prestes. The presidential election is scheduled for March 1.

The wounded were rushed by special train to Bello Horizonte, capital of Minas Geraes.

President Calls Conference.

On receiving news of the attack President Washington Luis hastened from Petropolis, his summer capital, to Rio de Janeiro for an immediate conference with the minister of justice and other members of the cabinet.

Minas Geraes is the stronghold of the opposition party, whose candidate is Getulio Vargas, and there has been frequent talk of federal intervention in the state's administration during the last few weeks.

Conflicting reports about the place of the fight were received from Montes Claros. One version said that the shooting broke out in a banquet hall after a violent political discussion. Another said that the vice president and his party had been attacked while passing in front of the homes of the chiefs of the "Allancista" party.

Is Second Election Clash.

The reported wounding of Vice President Mello Vianna is the second political clash that has stirred Brazil during the present preliminary presidential campaign. On Dec. 26 Deputy Souza Filho of Pernambuco was shot and killed by Deputy Simoes Lopez, former minister of agriculture, after a violent political discussion in the corridors of the chamber.

Deputy Filho was one of the foremost leaders of the administration group in the chamber, while Deputy Lopez is the chief of the Liberal party's executive committee. Lopez was arrested.

PARENTS DECIDE TO TAKE SCHOOL ISSUE TO COURT

Parents of sixty children, part of a group recently transferred from the Lovett to the Burbank school, today will seek a court injunction to compel the board of education to restore the seventh and eighth grades to the Lovett school. This was decided at a massmeeting last night following a week of unsuccessful efforts to have the order, under which the pupils must cross sixteen railroad tracks to reach the Burbank school, rescinded.

At the same time the parents ended the strike which was ordered last Monday. Only eighteen of the original number of strikers were absent from classes yesterday. Sixty of the children, now assigned to the Burbank school, will assemble in the vacant rooms at the Lovett school Monday morning and resume their studies under the tutelage of ten mothers who have volunteered their services.

WOMAN SEEKS COURT ACTION FOR SNOW BATH

Mrs. Martin Reeves, 417 Ridge road, Kenilworth, wife of a La Salle street broker, procured a warrant last night from Justice of the Peace Harry H. Porter of Evanston, charging Robert Johnston, 60 years old, retired Evanston policeman, with disorderly conduct. A week ago, Mrs. Reeves said, she was driving past Johnston's apartment at 525 Howard street, Evanston, when he heaved a shovelful of snow through her sedan window into her lap while cleaning the sidewalk. Mrs. Reeves said she demanded the warrant only because Johnston refused to apologize.

Armed with a writ of injunction and a padlock, Deputy United States Marshal Michael Centanno set out yesterday afternoon to close the twenty-four flat building at 1101-1107 Taylor street, duly impressed with the importance of his undertaking. For months the government had been compiling evidence as a basis for a permanent injunction against the building, which was regarded by dry agents as a breeding place of prohibition lawlessness.

Within the last year twelve stills had been seized in raids on the building. Out of it, the dry agents claimed, poured a steady stream of alcohol, flooding the city with bootleg booze.

Order Speed Ahead.

The permanent injunction was obtained yesterday. Federal Judge Wilkerson signed the padlock order and the wheels of the government were accelerated to speed the padlocking. Two clerks were assigned to issue the writs that there might be no loss of time in plastering the injunction notice on the front of the building. Assistant United States Attorney La-Verne Norris impressed upon Centanno the importance of his mission and Centanno went forth on his crusade to make the structure safe for prohibition.

Centanno arrived in front of the building and he blinked. The magnitude of his task was even greater than he had supposed. Indeed, he decided it was almost impossible. He looked at the lone padlock in his hand, the symbol of prohibition cloture, and looked back at the building, wondering just where he would start padlocking.

Building Is in Ruins.

Above him rose the walls of the three story building, sagging in the last stages of decrepitude. The roof had given up sagging long ago and had collapsed. Every window in the structure was devoid of glass and the fronts of the store rooms on the first floor were gone. Not a single door was left on its hinges, and most of the floors had fallen. The sidewalks were still intact, but were fenced off to protect pedestrians from falling timbers and bricks.

Centanno left without placing his padlock and last night the building was plastered only with posters of burlesque shows.

Prohibition enforcers won another moral victory yesterday when Judge Wilkerson issued a permanent injunction against the Club Royale, 426 South Wabash avenue, former playground of Texas Guinan. The place has been out of business for several weeks and was deserted when Deputy Marshal Joseph Spizzirri posted the padlock notice. Nineteen other injunctions were issued against saloons and speakeasies.

POLICE SNATCH SUSPECTS FROM BOXING BOUTS

FIGHT ON CRIME

While police squads were seizing known hoodlums as they emerged from the Coliseum last night Commissioner Russell was said to be planning a continuous harassing of gangsters.

In Rockford yesterday the Illinois judicial advisory council was told that the Illinois law is set up to free criminals. Page 4.

Endeavoring to surmount such difficulties as an undermanned police department and the maze of legal technicalities which open the way to freedom for criminals, Police Commissioner Russell last night laid down a departmental policy of harassing all persons with unsavory records.

The policy was initiated following a meeting of the executive committee of the Association of Commerce, at which business leaders pointed out the seriousness of the present situation and criticized the several law enforcement agencies of Chicago and Cook county.

In line with the commissioner's policy, Chief of Detectives John Egan sent forty picked men last night to raid a boxing show in the Coliseum.

Robberies Mount Up.

As the first example of the new policy was in progress the complaint books at the city's forty-two police stations were receiving a heavy grist of stickups. Drug stores, shoe stores, and grocery stores were hard hit as the total number of robberies passed the half century early this morning.

In one case the robbers invaded a residence. Three gunmen posing as parcel post delivery men entered the home of Erwin Wagner, president of the Wagner Sign Service, Inc., at 3215 Washington boulevard while Mr. and Mrs. Wagner were at the theater. The robbers tied the Wagners' son, Frank, 18 years old, with towels and locked him in a bedroom with his sister, Louise, 16, robbing the apartment of $50 in cash and jewels valued at $545.

Few Hoodlums Found.

The performance at the Coliseum drew small patronage from the sporting crowd and there was a dearth of hoodlums at the ringside. Seven men, apparently all there were in the crowd of 4,000 spectators, fell into the hands of the raiders, however, and were whisked away to the detective bureau. Two were jailed for the night and the others dismissed with a warning by Chief Egan that to avoid future discomfiture they had best leave town.

Elaborate precautions were taken to guard against a tipoff of the raid. Twenty-five detectives chosen to mingle with the Coliseum crowd and assembled for roll call in the La Salle Street railroad station, and none knew his mission until Lieut. Maurice Byrne had distributed the boxing tickets. These tickets, incidentally, were purchased from Commissioner Russell's private funds, there being no money in the city treasury for police salaries or entertainment.

Russell Watches Raid.

Half an hour before the show opened the detectives began filing in unobtrusively to well scattered seats. Commissioner Russell and Chief Egan were on hand to observe the working of the raid.

The first man seized was Benjamin (Buddy) Jacobson, former henchman of Morris Eller and one of those tried in the primary day disorders which were marked by the murder of Octavius Granady. Jacobson, sensing policemen in the crowd, slipped out during the windup boxing match and fell into the hands of one of the 15 detectives who had all the exits covered.

Politician Is Seized.

Jacobson, who has split with the Ellers and is himself a candidate against Morris Eller for committeeman of the 20th ward, accused his custodians of seizing him on that account. The disgruntled Jacobson was shouldered into a squad car and taken to the detective bureau.

Radios Make Joliet Cells Jolly as Home

Galesburg, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Gentlemen who enjoy spending their leisure hours sitting about the house in their undershirts listening to the radio's mellifluous strains never heretofore, have enjoyed the privilege of those homey pleasures of the state penitentiary at Joliet, first because there were no undershirts, and, secondly, because there were no radios in the otherwise comfortable cells.

But all that will be remedied soon, Henry C. Hill, warden of the penitentiary, revealed here tonight in an address before the Rotary, Kiwanis, Exchange, and Lions clubs.

Warden Can Broadcast.

In fact, the process of bringing the homelike atmosphere into the prison cell already has started. As an example of what the prison authorities are doing to make life pleasant for miscreants who are forced by their occupations and convictions to remain at Joliet for protracted visits, Warden Hill cited a new radio system which has been installed in the penitentiary, with a connection in each cell. A feature of this radio system is a central connection with a microphone in the warden's office permitting him to address all of the prisoners at any time without taking them from their cells.

The radio set is in operation now, but the underwear will not come until spring, when Warden Hill plans to issue prison made underwear to all prisoners—the first underwear ever given to inmates at Joliet.

Good Food and Magazines, Too.

Other innovations which the warden listed were new feeding arrangements that save 10 per cent on the food bill and give the men their meals while the food is still warm; improved menus; the best medical treatment possible, augmented by a new X-ray machine; a school for illiterates; new barbering facilities, and uncensored newspapers and magazines. The savings from the commissary under the new feeding system, he said, have paid for the radio system.

These improvements, which Warden Hill characterized as "treating the men like human beings," have produced favorable response on the part of the prisoners, the warden exhibiting bundles of hundreds of letters of appreciation from the prisoners in support of his contention that they are less likely to cause trouble as a result of the new treatment accorded them.

Blames Dry Law, Autos, Homes.

The warden blamed prohibition, automobiles and broken homes as the main cause of the great increase in prison population, pointing out that 73 per cent of the prison population are "first termers." Such men are tougher and harder to handle than the old timers who have been mollified by long periods spent behind the prison walls, Hill said.

"Men incarcerated for murder, unless they are Chicago gangsters, are the best prisoners we have," he said.

"Nearly every inmate at Joliet left home between the ages of 14 and 20," Hill said he learned by pursuing the records. "In almost every case we can trace their trouble to broken homes. Last year 13 per cent of the prisoners were under 21 years of age. Most of them couldn't play baseball and knew no games. All they could do was dance and drive cars."

Increase Lake Forest Police Force to Halt Robberies

As a result of recent robberies of wealthy north shore homes, Chief of Police Lester Tiffany of Lake Forest last night added four policmen to his force to patrol the village. The addition of the force was authorized by James Griffis, chairman of the council police committee, after a conference with Chief Tiffany on means of providing greater protection for the many large estates in Lake Forest.

BATTLESHIPS NO GOOD; LET THEM DIE OUT—BRITAIN

Aims to Keep Job as Sea Mistress.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Following the publication by American Secretary of State Stimson last night of America's proposals for naval reduction, Prime Minister MacDonald today published a summary of the British proposals, which are now ready for submission to the conference. The proposals, while not as definite as those of America, at any rate run along the same lines and fully protect Great Britain's sea dominance for years to come.

In effect they provide that the capital ship reductions called for in the Washington treaty, to be made by 1936, should be carried out in 18 months after ratification of the new treaty drawn up by this conference, that no new vessels be built, and, that, therefore, Great Britain's superiority in new capital ships is stereotyped and made permanent. This is secured by the fact that the ships named in the Washington treaty for scrapping are the oldest and least effective.

Proposes New Conference.

Great Britain also proposes that whatever treaty is arrived at as a result of this conference, it should run only until 1936, and that another conference be called in 1935 to consider the naval position at that time.

Stress is also laid on the British-American thesis favoring the category system for limitation and the phrase is used again which has been heard so often in the last few weeks from Prime Minister MacDonald's lips that it is not only the tonnage of a fleet which counts, but the use to which each ton is put. While agreeing to the French demand for the right to transfer tonnage from one category to another, the document declares that Great Britain does not favor its general application.

Great Britain is willing to permit a limited transfer from the eight inch gun cruiser class to the six inch class, but is opposed to the transfer of capital ships, aircraft carriers, and submarines.

How British Plan Would Work.

While the memorandum proposes that the scrapping program of the Washington conference be put into effect in 18 months instead of in 1936, it does not give particulars. These were supplied by a British spokesman, as follows:

Great Britain now has twenty capital ships, America eighteen, and Japan ten. It is proposed to reduce these in 18 months to fifteen, fifteen and nine, respectively. The period of 18 months is taken because the admiralty advised Mr. MacDonald that that is the shortest time in which the work of destruction can be done and the crews provided for elsewhere.

Under the Washington treaty Great Britain was to scrap the Iron Duke, Marlborough, Emperor of India, Benbow, Tiger, Queen Elizabeth, Warspite, Barham, Malaya, Royal Sovereign, and was to build five new ships. Under the proposed arrangement it would scrap the first five of these, which are the oldest, and build none.

Under the Washington treaty the United States was to scrap the Florida, Utah, Wyoming, Arkansas, Texas, New York, Nevada, and Oklahoma, and build five new ships. If the new proposal is adopted it will scrap the first three and build none.

Under the Washington treaty Japan was to scrap the Kongo, Hiyei, Haruna, and Kirishima. Under the new proposal it will scrap one and build none.

Would Cut Battleship Size.

The British proposal also favors a reduction in the size of capital ships from a maximum of 35,000 tons to 25,000 tons, lengthening their age from 20 to 26 years, and cutting down the caliber of guns from 16 inches to 12 inches. It further says that battleships are not much good, anyway, in view of the development of air and submarine warfare, and suggests that they be allowed to die out without replacement.

Great Britain also proposes to limit the tonnage and gun caliber of aircraft carriers and wants to abolish submarines altogether, or, failing in that, to "humanize" their use.

The proposal for dividing cruisers into two categories, 8 inch gun ships and 6 inch gun ships, is already familiar, while it is also proposed to limit the size of destroyers to 1,500 tons and leaders to 1,850 tons, and also limit the guns to five inch.

It will be seen, therefore, that the general lines indicate a close agreement between Mr. Stimson and Mr. MacDonald, which the British admiralty is already hailing privately as a great British victory.

British Admirals Wonder Why.

Several admirals are reported to have declared today that they cannot understand why America capitulated, pointing out that it has given up the original American demand for a reduction in fleets, given up its demand, as expressed at Geneva, for a strict limitation by categories, and has given up its demand for neutralization of British naval bases and for freedom of the seas.

Even Hugh S. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, is reported to have remarked today that if this had been the American position at Geneva he would have been able to put it over easily and save the cost and trouble of the present conference.

It is understood, however, that British spokesmen and the British press have been strictly warned to avoid anything like a song of triumph, and to avoid use of the word "victory." The British now know what they failed to realize at Versailles, that the senate has the final word in treaties to which the United States becomes a party and the time for shouting has not yet come.

FRENCH TURN UP NOSE

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 7.—American Secretary of State Stimson's proposal for the limitation and reduction of navies leaves France cold.

Mr. Stimson's failure to let the French delegates to the naval conference in on his plan until 15 minutes before it was communicated to the press has caused a good deal of indignation here.

Premier Tardieu, who returned to Paris tonight to face a hard fight in the chamber of deputies over domestic legislation, refused to comment on the American offer.

Tardieu Is Angry.

"It wasn't given to me until late last night," he explained, "and I have had no time to study it."

That is all that he would say tonight, but his closest friends disclosed that he was furious at Prime Minister MacDonald and Mr. Stimson for holding out the information on him until the last minute. These friends also say M. Tardieu told the American and British delegates plainly what he thought.

The French press today waxed sarcastic over the American proposal. The semi-official Le Temps laughed at Mr. Stimson, calling his offer a "plan for the reduction of navies," and at the same time pointing out that Uncle Sam will have to build 200,000 tons of cruisers in order to achieve parity with Great Britain.

Jaques Bainville, the noted publicist, sees France in the same hole that she got herself in at the Washington conference. He implores the government to get out, even if it has to thumb its nose at America, Great Britain and Japan.

NAVY MEN GRUMBLE

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 7.—Considerable dissatisfaction exists among the navy department members of the United States delegation to the naval conference owing to the status bestowed on state department attachés, who outrank everybody except Admiral William V. Pratt and Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, the chief naval advisers.

When the state department sent its corps of attachés, clerks, and stenographers abroad it gave them all the rank of commissioners, which, according to the protocol, places them above the rest of the purely naval people, including a half dozen admirals.

The only state department official not enjoying this rank is F. Lammot Belin, first secretary of the American embassy here, who comes last on the list.

Delegates Scatter to Country.

There was a general exodus over the week-end of the chief delegates and their wives. Viscount and Viscountess Astor and Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson are entertaining parties in the country. A party of 20 has been invited to Cliveden, the Astor country place near Tapeow, on the upper reaches of the Thames, from this evening until Monday. They include American Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and Mrs. Adams, Senator Joseph T. Robinson and Mrs. Robinson, J. Theodore Marriner and Mrs. Marriner, Col. and Mrs. Burnett, Tom Jones, member of parliament, Prime Minister MacDonald's private secretary, Sir Owen Seaman, Lady Algernon Gordon-Lennox, daughter-in-law of the duke of Richmond, Lady Laura Graham, and Capt. Eden.

Senator David A. Reed and Mrs. Reed, Ambassador Hugh S. Gibson and Mrs. Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson Page, Mrs. Keith Merrill, and Capt. Eugene Regnier have been invited to spend the week-end at Warren house with the Stimsons.

JAPAN REJECTS OFFER

BY ST. CLAIR McKELWAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 7.—Eventual if not immediate trouble in the London naval conference, so far as Japan is concerned, is generally the forecast of official circles here as a result of the foreign office's receipt of the details of Secretary Stimson's proposal, which the navy office considers ignores Japan's fundamental demaad for a 10-10-7 cruiser ratio.

According to reliable sources, Mr. Stimson proposed to Reijiro Wakatsuki, head of the Japanese delegation, that Japan accept a 60 per cent ratio of the British and American navies, except for submarines, which may be 66 per cent.

An extraordinary conference of all high navy officials was held all day today to discuss the proposal. It is understood they decided on specific instructions to the London delegation to refuse to accept a 10-10-6 ratio under any circumstances.

STIMSON UPSET; HOW WILL U. S. TAKE HIS PLAN?

He Fears Folks at Home Won't Like It So Well.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 7.—This has been a day of suspense for the members of the American delegation. They are waiting to hear how the folks back home feel about the American proposals to the London naval conference. Although Secretary of State Stimson and his colleagues are confident that they have devised a cruiser allocation scheme that the senate will accept as the establishment of Anglo-American parity, they are a bit nervous about the popular verdict on the course they have taken.

They are also nervously watching Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones, one of the two chief naval advisers, whose views on the necessities for national defense the Stimson delegation flouted when it yielded to the British insistence that American big cruisers be limited to 18 instead of the 23 we have built, building, or provided for or the 21 which President Hoover originally held out for as the lowest number that would give the United States parity with Great Britain.

Will Admiral Jones Quit?

During the day all eyes were following the tall, dignified figure of the grand old man of the American navy, with his white hair and mustache, who stood like a rock at the Geneva conference against the British maneuvers to hamstring the American cruiser fleet.

Will Admiral Jones resign and go home in protest against the sacrifice of America's national defense needs and the sacrifice of a real parity, leaving Great Britain still mistress of the seas? That is the question uppermost in the minds, if not hovering on the lips, of almost everybody in and about the headquarters of the American delegation.

Those who know the old warrior best have no doubt but that he was hard hit by Mr. Stimson's abandonment not only of the principles of American national defense, but even of the stand taken by the administration in the Hoover-MacDonald negotiations last summer.

He Refuses to Comment.

But if Admiral Jones contemplates resigning he is keeping his own counsel. He refuses to discuss the American proposals or answer questions on the course he will pursue. The opinion of his friends is that he will stick around awhile longer in any event, from the sailorman habit of sticking to a wreck so long as there is timber afloat.

Inasmuch as Admiral Jones is a retired officer, he is not amenable to orders like the other naval advisers and experts here. He balked last November at coming to London at all when he found the Hoover administration disregarding the national defense policies he deemed vital and excluding authorities on our traditional naval policies from a voice in the delegation. He was finally persuaded to come by President Hoover's inclusion of Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy, in the delegation.

But Mr. Adams has failed Admiral Jones. He fell in line with Mr. Stimson and the other American delegates for the British program to perpetuate the inferiority of the American navy. He is the first Adams who ever surrendered to the British.

Who Wrote the Scheme?

There is great speculation today on the authorship of the ingenious scheme for giving the appearance of parity to the cruiser arrangement, which in reality is acceptance by America of the 18 big cruisers to which the British from the start have sought to limit it.

In some quarters it is believed that this brilliant scheme for cloaking the surrender with the guise of parity was conceived by Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who is generally regarded as the brainiest member of the American delegation. Some say the idea emanated from British sources. Others are convinced that President Hoover is the author. A guess is hazarded that this is his famous yardstick for establishing parity.

Smacks of Engineering Mind.

The device does smack of an engineering mind. It is sort of slide rule for cruisers. Slide the rule this way and you have Great Britain with fewer big cruisers but more aggregate tonnage. Slide it the other way and you have America with fewer big ships but more tonnage. Another slide and the two countries are equal in big ships and tonnage. But Great Britain always has its naval bases.

Not the least interesting disclosure today was that the American delegation made public its proposals prematurely last night to prevent the exclusive publication of their purport by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Seeking confirmation of information that the delegation had completed its proposals accepting a limitation to eighteen cruisers, I interviewed a member of the American delegation Wednesday at midnight. He emphatically denied that the delegation had agreed to any proposals or had come down to eighteen cruisers. He said there was no change in the American demand for twenty-one. At the American delegation's meeting yesterday he stated that THE TRIBUNE had the facts and advised an immediate announcement. Thereupon Mr. Stimson's announcement was hurriedly issued.

CAPITAL DISAPPOINTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The action of the Hoover administration in surrending to the British demand that the United States limit its big gun cruisers to eighteen ships and build up the rest of its cruiser tonnage in smaller vessels aroused widespread dissatisfaction in Washington today.

While naval officers had little to say for publication, several adequate navy men in the senate and house expressed disappointment.

"The Stimson offer involves radical changes in the position heretofore taken by the navy department and the United States government that our further cruiser demands call for vessels of the maximum tonnage and armament allowed under the Washington treaty," Chairman Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.] of the senate naval committee asserted today in a formal statement criticizing the Stimson cruiser concessions.

"If our policy of building only big gun cruisers has been the correct one in the past, and if nothing has occurred to change the wisdom of that policy," Mr. Hale continued, "then the Stimson offer which contemplates the building of at least eleven 6 inch gun cruisers at an additional cost over the 15 cruiser program of at least 58 million dollars, while giving us substantial parity in the types of ships allowed, manifestly does not provide for our American naval needs."

"Should a treaty be negotiated along the lines of the Stimson offer, or indeed, should any treaty be negotiated, the whole matter will be fully threshed out on the floor of the senate and its committees before final action is taken on ratification," he said.

"I have hoped and still hope that an agreement may be reached that will give us the parity that our country demands and, at the same time, will recognize our American needs."

Burton K. French [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the subcommittee, which handles naval finances for the house committee on appropriations, who recently advocated the abolition of battleships, chiefly as a matter of governmental economy, indicated today that he was disappointed with the American proposals in London.

Representative Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.], chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, was cynically hostile to the Stimson proposals.

MacDonald Proposes New Conference in 1935

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The text of Prime Minister MacDonald's statement today, which presented the British viewpoint on naval reduction, was as follows:

"His majesty's government in the United Kingdom considers the naval conference of supreme importance. It believes the conference ought not only to reduce existing fleets and building programs but put an end finally to competition in naval armaments and thus constitute an important step towards the ultimate elimination of the causes of war and towards establishment of peace on an unassailable foundation.

"The policy of his majesty's government in the United Kingdom is to keep the highway of the seas open for trade and communication and, in relation to the political state of the world, to take what steps are necessary to secure this. In estimating its naval needs, the government has also to take into account its obligations under the covenant of the league of nations, partly offset though they are by the security afforded under the covenant by its provision of mutual support.

Must Estimate Chances of War.

"There are also other commitments which have to be fulfilled in relation to the present state of the world. In deciding what these commitments amount to in terms of naval strength, the government has to estimate the chances of war breaking out, because, unless this is done, fleets will be built which will never be of any use; will threaten rather than protect, and will at best be a waste of national resource.

"The government feels that if naval establishments are not to be a menace, an equilibrium must be maintained between them by means of international agreement. It feels, moreover, that this equilibrium will not be secured by mere numerical equality in ships and tonnage, but only by adoption of agreed programs based in considerations of requirements affecting dispersions, et cetera, and in which the menace will be reduced as much as possible.

"This cannot be done by any general formula or ratio. It must be the subject of conferences such as this, and of agreements made for periods at the end of which they should be reviewed, and during which governments should be engaged in strengthening the foundations of peace.

Calls New Parley in 1935.

"It is, therefore, proposed that the general agreement resulting from this conference should run until 1936 and that in 1935 a further conference should be called to review the situation in relation to world relations.

"In view of these considerations, his majesty's government in the United Kingdom suggests the following proposals for the conference:

"The agreement should be not upon global tonnage but upon the size of individual ships in the various categories and upon the tonnage used by each nation in each of these categories.

"The categories should be capital ships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, and submarines.

Right to Transfer Tonnage.

"An agreement by categories is necessary in order to obtain elimination of competitive building and the maintenance of equilibrium between fleet and fleet. These two points are essential if security is to be obtained. It is not only the total tonnage of a fleet which counts but the use to which these tons are put, and an agreement on the latter point is called for.

"At some time it might be convenient to allow a percentage of tonnage assigned to different categories to be transferred to other categories. The British government, however, does not favor a general transfer. It is opposed to transfer in regards to capital ships, aircraft, and submarines. In regards to cruisers, it would permit the transfer out of the 8 inch class into the 6 inch class on a percentage which remains to be arranged. The object of this arrangement would be to take into account the special needs of countries which require a large proportion of small cruisers.

No Battleship Replacements.

"The government proposes that the number of capital ships for each signatory fixed by the Washington treaty should be reached within eighteen months of ratification of the treaty resulting from this conference instead of by 1936. It proposes that no replacement of existing ships should take place before the next conference in 1935 and that in the meantime the whole question of capital ships should be the subject of negotiation between the powers concerned.

"The government will press for reduction, though, of course, without disturbing the Washington equilibrium. Its experts favor a reduction in size from 35,000 tons to 25,000 tons and of guns from 16 inches to 12 inches. The government also favors a lengthening of age from 20 to 26 years.

"The government hopes that there will be an exchange of views on this subject during the conference, indeed, it would wish to see an agreement by which battleships will in due time disappear altogether as it considers them a very doubtful proposition in view of their size and cost and of the development of efficacy of air and submarine attack.

Reduction in Aircraft Tonnage.

"The government would further limit the tonnage and gun caliber of aircraft carriers and suggests that ships of 10,000 tons and under should be included in the total tonnage of this category if used as aircraft carriers.

"It proposes a reduction of total aircraft tonnage for the British and United States navies from 135,000 tons under the Washington treaty to [say] 100,000 tons and an adjustment of that assigned to other nations in the Washington treaties ratios. It further proposes that the maximum size of aircraft carriers should be reduced to 25,000 tons and that their age should be 26 years instead of 20.

"It was assumed during the recent conversation between the governments of the United States and Great Britain that cruisers should be grouped in one category which in turn should be divided into cruisers carrying 8 inch guns and cruisers carrying 6 inch guns and under. It was also assumed during the negotiations that the requirements of the British commonwealth would consist of a total tonnage of 339,000 tons, divided into 50 cruisers.

Fixes Cruiser Life at 20 Years.

"A final arrangement will be governed by the decision of the conference regarding limitation in the size of units. The British government proposes that the tonnage limit of 8 inch cruisers should remain at 10,000 tons as provided for in the Washington treaty and that there should be a tonnage limit for smaller vessels at about 6,000 or 7,000 tons. It suggests that only a fixed proportion in the latter class should be built up to that limit and that the life of cruisers should be 20 years.

"In regard to destroyers, it is proposed that the limit assigned should be, for leaders 1,850 tons, and for destroyers 1,500 tons. The maximum size of guns for both classes of destroyers should be 5 inches. The present British building program of destroyers is for 2,000 tons ultimately, but this can be reduced if the submarine programs of other powers are reduced, for it is obvious that the size and total tonnage of destroyers must largely depend upon the size and total tonnage of submarines.

"The government proposes the abolition of submarines. Its experts feel that the argument that the submarine is an arm solely of defense was destroyed by the experience of the late war, and that in war conditions it is an arm of attack. If abolition cannot be agreed upon, the British government will put forward proposals limiting submarines rigidly to defense requirements.

"In any case, it will press for limitation of the submarine to the lowest possible limit, and it proposes to urge revival of the agreement, signed at Washington in 1922 but not ratified by all the signatory powers, which would regulate in the interests of humanity the use of submarines against merchant ships.

"In regard to auxiliary vessels not strictly entering into fleet strength, the government proposes that they should be specified and that each government should publish yearly lists of vessels of this class in commission as laid down."

MOVED WAY OUT TO 30TH and MICHIGAN

Way out to the sands! 30th and Michigan was at the edge of town in the early eighties, when Hiram Wheeler moved out to 2962 South Michigan from his house on Wabash Avenue, across from where the Y. M. C. A. Hotel now stands.

Mr. Wheeler was one of the early residents of Chicago, an incorporator of the Chamber of Commerce in 1863, and President of the Board of Trade in 1855. When he moved way out south the Wanzers had to consider seriously whether they could continue delivering milk to his family. But he was an old Wanzer customer, and of course they found a way to get out there.

It is a source of pleasure to the Wanzers that they are still serving members of the Wheeler family—a service extending well over half a century.

The history of Chicago's fine old residential districts is notably associated with the growth of the business of Sidney Wanzer & Sons. Founded in 1857, this company has grown up with Chicago—and is still owned and operated by the Wanzers.

Today, Wanzer's milk, cream, butter and eggs are available to every Chicago home, and in many of the city's suburbs. The company's business continues to increase as more and more families discover the rich quality and purity of its products.

TAX LOANS GO BEGGING; SO DO PUBLIC WORKERS

Officials Call Plight of Employes Desperate.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

There was much talk—but no money—yesterday for 40,122 public employes who are still waiting for $13,275,500 in unpaid salaries.

City controller Schmidt went shopping among the bankers for buyers of $27,600,000 of city corporate tax warrants. At each institution he was received cordially, but Mr. Schmidt said he obtained no money nor promise from any one to buy tax warrants.

New Yorker Appears.

Herbert C. Heller of New York called on the city controller, but submitted no proposal to buy warrants. Mr. Schmidt said Mr. Heller asked for figures and the amount of warrants the city wants to sell, then departed after saying he would return today.

It is reported that Mr. Heller desires the city to offer its tax warrants below par, or to make a sale on a bid at less than par. Controller Schmidt questioned this not only on the ground of sound business policy but as to legality, but Corporation Counsel Ettelson dug up an old opinion saying that "while the question is not entirely free from doubt" it was his opinion that the city council could sell "in good faith" at below par.

Urge Quick Loans.

A conversation between Ald. John J. Clark and Corporation Counsel Ettelson resulted in a typewritten statement saying that both agreed that the tax warrants should be sold on the best terms, as promptly as possible, and that propositions should be received from all potential purchasers. Those two are members of a committee appointed by the city council to find purchasers for tax warrants. In addition to passing the resolution creating this committee, the council adopted Ald. Arvey's resolution instructing the administrative officials to coöperate with the Strawn citizens' committee.

The typewritten statement of Clark and Ettelson said they "recognize that under the law" the mayor has the power to approve or veto or permit to become effective without action either or both of the resolutions. Then Ald. Clark departed for a Florida vacation. Mr. Ettelson is to ask Mayor Thompson for his attitude on the resolutions.

Caldwell Remains in New York.

While these various efforts were being made in Chicago to raise cash, President Caldwell of the school board was remaining in New York, where he is trying to persuade eastern financiers to buy tax warrants.

With Mr. Caldwell is Thomas V. Sullivan, formerly a St. Paul lawyer, now a $10,000 a year attorney for the Chicago school board, and regarded as a spokesman for Mayor Thompson in school board affairs. Thompson and his appointee, Mr. Caldwell, are the two holdouts against coöperating with the Silas Strawn committee in plans for financial relief of tax spending bodies. It is recalled that Thompson met Sullivan during the mayor's "middle west demonstration" for waterways. The mayor was impressed with the lawyer's ability as a hip hurrah orator, and by his companionable qualities. It is said, and he persuaded Sullivan to leave the northwest and cast his lot with the Chicago city hall forces.

As night came on Chicago officials abandoned further efforts to get money for the public employés for another day. City employés have not been paid for five weeks; county employés, seven weeks, and school teachers, six weeks. Some of them are in a serious plight.

"Something has to be done the first of next week," said Harry A. Newby, chairman of the county board finance committee. "We've coöperated with the Strawn committee 100 per cent. If they cannot help us early next week, we will be forced to issue tax warrants to employés in lieu of cash."

The county is being held off because the Strawn committee has been unable to obtain coöperation from Mayor Thompson and President Caldwell.

School Trustees' Opinion.

Regarding Caldwell's attitude, Mrs. William S. Hefferan, school trustee, said yesterday: "I believe we should coöperate fully with the Strawn committee, because I am convinced it has the cash. I think we should forget our pride and personal quarrels and get money for the employés. I shall so argue to the other trustees Monday. Why don't Mr. Caldwell consult other trustees about running around the country trying to sell warrants?"

As a feature of tax anticipation warrants, added to attract buyers, Corporation Counsel Ettelson recommended yesterday that the city promise in the warrant to redeem every warrant at par upon call. His idea is for the city to say that upon 10 or 15 days' notice the city will redeem warrants at par, but he does not propose that the city shall obligate itself to issue any call.

Rumors of New Bank.

As further evidence of the earnest desire to get money for the employés, a rumor was started that Mayor Thompson and friends are considering the opening of a new bank to act as a depository of city funds and otherwise aid the local governments in financing. But it was impossible to trace the rumor to any definite source.

The expected rush of city creditors to take up corporate tax anticipation warrants in lieu of cash consisted of the Lake Zurich Milk company accepting a 1929 tax warrant for $15,000. This company delivers milk to the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium. No city employé applied to the controller for a tax warrant in lieu of salary.

The finance committee of the county board rejected the bid of A. B. Leach & Co. for $500,000 worth of forest preserve bonds. The Leach firm bid 90.5. About a week ago the board sold the same amount of the same kind of bonds at a record low price of 90. One of the commissioners charged that there is a conspiracy by the bankers and investment houses against the local governments.

Criticizes Strawn Statement.

Before leaving for the south Ald. Clark wrote Silas H. Strawn saying that his figures showing the city is spending more than its cash income gave "an erroneous impression," although the figures quoted by Mr. Strawn are correct.

State's Attorney Swanson announced that he would make personal loans to his employés.

The hearing of the board of education complaints against loop land tax valuations was concluded. As on the previous day, the figures are in such shape that they are impossible of comparison with the assessments of the board of assessors. The board promised to translate its figures by Monday afternoon into the basis prescribed by the state tax commission. The school board voted $25,000 to get this information in shape on Sept. 25, 1929, and in the annual budget raised the amount to $35,000.

In urging the appropriation Attorney Sullivan, the board's legel adviser from St. Paul, said to the school trustees: "There has been a half billion reduction in the loop." The board was in a hurry then. It suspended its rules of order to pass this appropriation.

CROWN POINT ALSO HAS ITS TROUBLES IN RAISING MONEY

A financial situation described as critical confronted the city administration of Crown Point, Ind., yesterday. Mayor Vincent Youkey has refused to pay a $4,000 bill for street lights, claiming it is excessive, and there are fears that the utility company may shut off the service. Furthermore, city employés have not received their pay checks for the last half of January and the mayor is going among his friends trying to sell $5,000 in tax warrants, the Crown Point banks having declined to bid for them. Tax collections are in arrears

CALDWELL TELLS OF RISING HOPES FOR SCHOOL CASH

But He Keeps Name of N. Y. Prospect Secret.

BY TOM PETTEY.

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—"Considerable progress" was reported by President Caldwell of the Chicago school board at the close of his second day of canvassing Wall street for a buyer of $48,725,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants.

"I feel better about obtaining the money than at any time since I began negotiations," Caldwell told interviewers tonight, "but one cannot just walk into an office and borrow $48,000,000. It takes time. I hope to have something definite to tell you on Monday."

Refuses to Give Names.

Mr. Caldwell continued to withhold the name of the prospective purchaser of the tax securities, but it is known that he has been in conference with members of Halsey, Stuart & Co. The only information from the brokerage office was that Harry T. Stuart had "returned to Chicago on an afternoon train."

"We are trying to sell the school board's warrants to any reputable house that can handle them," said Mr. Caldwell, "and have several prospects. Beggars cannot be choosers. We will sell to the first buyer, but I am not going to make the same mistake twice of telling where I am trading."

Mr. Caldwell has moved his quarters from a double room to suite with drawing room up near the roof of the Biltmore hotel. Some of the conferences on the sale of the tax warrants are being conducted in the drawing room.

Strawn Also in New York.

Silas H. Strawn, head of the citizens' committee of Chicago, arrived in New York from Washington this afternoon.

The fact that he was here at the same time as Mr. Caldwell was pure coincidence, Mr. Strawn said.

"I am not here on any business for the city of Chicago," said Mr. Strawn, "and I have no intention to interfere with Mr. Caldwell's efforts to raise money to pay Chicago's school teachers. I hope Wally gets the money, and, as any other good citizen of Chicago, I would help instead of hindering.

"However, I believe if the young man would coöperate we could get the money together back home. I think when we arrive at the solution of this financial trouble it will begin at home."

Portuguese Theater Floor Gives Way; 40 Injured

DEATH IN BAY STARTS TALK OF ROCKEFELLER DIAMOND COLLECTION

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP)—An attempt to sell two Russian crown jewels to John D. Rockefeller Jr. was disclosed today after the body of Leopold Strasser, New York diamond dealer, was taken out of Jamaica bay in the closed automobile in which he had driven to his death in the early morning.

In Strasser's pockets was a paper indicating that "if Strasser is able to sell the Rockefeller Foundation two diamonds for $1,000,000, he is to receive $250,000 commission."

The unsigned paper baffled the police after the Rockefeller Foundation denied knowledge of the diamonds until Samuel H. Draisin, diamond merchant and importer, said he had purchased the diamonds in Belgium in 1922. Strasser, he said, told him a relative "knew some people who were buying diamonds for the private collection of John D. Rockefeller Jr."

At Mr. Rockefeller's office there was neither affirmation nor denial of this report.

SHORT OF PAPER; COPS CAN'T COPY CRIME STORIES

Police officials last night began to wonder just what they will do in the next few days if a criminal decides to confess his crimes. With only a few sheets of the official brown police paper on hand in the bureau of records, the policemen employed there were writing on both sides of the sheets in an effort to make the supply last as long as possible.

Six weeks ago a requisition was made to the city purchasing agent for 50,000 sheets of paper, but because of the city's lack of cash the order was ignored and there is no immediate prospect of receiving the paper. When news of the paper shortage at the headquarters spread to the forty-one outlying stations the district captains began to husband their supply.

MEDICAL COUNCIL TO DECIDE TODAY IN SCHMIDT CASE

The judicial council of the American Medical association, which met for several hours yesterday in the headquarters at Dearborn street and Grand avenue, this afternoon will return a decision in the case of Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, Chicago surgeon, who was ousted from the Chicago Medical society. Dr. Schmidt was dismissed from the society because of an indirect connection with the Public Health institute, an advertising medical clinic. The Illinois State society upheld the Chicago organization's action and the judicial council of the American Medical association, to which the surgeon appealed, is his court of last resort.

CHICAGO IS SICK BUT NOT LOST, 'DOCTOR' FINDS

Hatton Likens City to Boy with Green Apples.

A city that gobbles a political green apple can't hope to escape the pains that convulse a small boy who does likewise. That Chicago has swallowed such a morsel was the theme presented last night to the Young People's Civic council, in its first annual meeting at te City club, by Dr. A. R. Hatton, head of the political science department of Northwestern university. Dr. Hatton has acted as adviser to several cities in municipal crises, he said.

Summing up the civic situation in parables that not even the youngest youngster misunderstood, Dr. Hatton assailed the present generation for what he termed pitiable failures in the qualities that make for good government.

He Diagnoses Chicago's Ills.

Then he diagnosed Chicago's case thus:

"You've got a pretty bad dose of different kinds of colic. It is desperate, but not hopeless. It will take a rigorous diet over a fairly long period of time to effect a cure. But I've seen communities in even worse shape come through it beautifully.

"We hear it said that we lack principle in our city governments. There is no trustworthy evidence that our American cities are hopelessly besotted. They are careless, but not unscrupulously dishonest. Chicago is the only large city in this country that has actually retrogressed in her civic politics during the last twenty-five years. All the others have shown progress.

The Case of Cincinnati.

"Take Cincinnati, where a week ago I spoke to a crowd of 1,000 volunteer workers, not one of whom receives a penny for services. That group elected six or seven out of nine city councilmen in the last three elections. Six years ago there wasn't as badly governed a city in the country as Cincinnati. I don't except Chicago, wallowing in the dirt of all her degradation. Today I firmly believe there isn't a better governed community in the whole world than Cincinnati.

"Both Cincinnati and Cleveland acted, however, without the legal shackles that have bound Chicago hand and foot in the mess in which she finds herself. If only the state constitution could be amended or the state legislature free Chicago to make her own decisions and to act independently, we could take the measures that should be taken at this time. Fifteen other states have such provisions."

Judge Henry Horner of the Probate court presided at the meeting.

FIRE ROUTS FIFTEEN FAMILIES.

Fifteen families were routed from a three story apartment building at 5486 Blackstone avenue yesterday afternoon by a blaze which flared up in the kitchen of Mrs. Max Brenner, who left food cooking on the gas stove while she went shopping. Damage was estimated at $100.

RAIDS BY POLICE TO HARASS GANGS OUT OF CHICAGO

main exit was David Ablin, known as "Cockeyed Mulligan," proprietor of the recently padlocked Epicure club. His brother, Sam, his reputed partner in the Club Algiers, which is still operating, was taken in with "Cockeyed Mulligan." The brothers Ablin feigned amazement that men of their standing should be seized in a police raid but were told to save their complaints for Chief of Detectives Egan.

How Other Hoodlums Took It.

Jimmy Cohn and Frankie Foster, described by Lieut. William Cusack as a pair of prominent panders, took their arrest with composure. George Kreiss, manager of the C. and O. restaurant, reputed hangout of Moran gangsters in North Clark street, was morosely silent. Isadore Lazarus, gambler and, according to the police, a former pickpocket, was grievously offended.

The only recognized hoodlum who escaped the trip to the bureau was John [Dingbat] Oberta, once an associate of Joe Saltis, later a political bravo, and now, by his own statement, a florist. Oberta was collared as he swept out with the crowd accompanied by his wife, the widow of the late Tim Murphy. Searched and found unarmed, he was permitted to go home.

Seized Men Warned.

Chief Egan personally interviewed each of the men in custody. In substance he told them his department would permit no more congregating by hoodlums at prize fights, no more swaggering in loop hotels and restaurants.

Every racketeer is subject to arrest on sight, the chief said. Hereafter an arrest will mean a trip to the bureau of identification, at presentation at the detective bureau showup, and incarceration until the prisoner's lawyer procures a writ of habeas corpus. Detention is unpleasant and writs mean heavy legal fees, the chief pointed out.

CITIZENS DEMAND ACTION

Members of the executive committee of the association of commerce yesterday called Police Commissioner Russell and State's Attorney Swanson into a conference concerning the crime situation in Chicago. Their action was brought about by the shooting on Wednesday of Philip Meagher, a superintendent of construction on the new Lying-In hospital at the University of Chicago. The H. B. Barnard Construction company, Meagher's employer, is a member of the association.

The business men asked the state's attorney and police commissioner to tell what they were doing to cope with crime in the city. Mr. Swanson made a somewhat extended speech and Commissioner Russell a brief one in executive session. Afterwards the business men passed a resolution offering a reward of $5,000 for the arrest and conviction of the men who shot and wounded Meagher, and the formation of a special committee of "citizens of courage and action" to study the crime problem in the city.

Criticizes Law Enforcers.

In a statement issued after the meeting the committee criticized Mr. Swanson's office and the police referring to "hundreds of indictments without subsequent convictions, countless felonies where no arrests have followed. . . ."

Some of the business men after the meeting declared they were unable to remember any important points in the speech of the state's attorney but they quoted freely the main points from what Commissioner Russell had told them. Several of those present declared that Russell had convinced them that the police department at present is undermanned.

"We have enough policemen to prosecute crime, that is to fight criminals after the crimes are committed, but we have not nearly enough men effectively to prevent crime," the police commissioner was quoted as saying.

Commissioner Russell would not comment on the business men's meeting. Nor would he discuss the subsequent statement.

"I told the business men what I had to say in the meeting," the police chief said. "It was their meeting."

Prosecutor Swanson, after reading the business men's statement, said the criticism of himself and his office was not justified.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Association of Commerce and ex-officio head of its executive committee, said last night he would announce today the membership of the committee authorized at yesterday's meeting.

The statement setting forth the business leaders' views and authorizing the new committee of action and the $5,000 reward, read, in full, as follows:

"The problem of law enforcement in Chicago has reached a stage where representative citizens and business organizations must take personal and direct action.

"While it is true that statistics compiled by prominent casualty companies and other unbiased authorities outside of Chicago show that, compared on a per capita basis with other large American cities, Chicago is far down on the list of serious felonies, and while the city continues to advance in commercial and cultural undertakings, the facts remain that the recent failure of law enforcement bodies to check persons of known criminal tendencies in their operations against law and order can no longer be countenanced by those who have the best interests of the city at heart.

Rap Failures of Officials.

"Hundreds of indictments without subsequent convictions, countless felonies where no arrests have followed, the almost total failure of the responsible agencies to halt bombings and other criminal attacks upon legitimate business, and the attempt during the last few days of paid killers to murder Philip H. Meagher, a Chicago builder of unquestionable reputation and long service to the community, indicate conclusively that the time has arrived when the legally responsible authorities must be called upon either to show why they cannot carry out their oath of office, or for the citizens of the city to take steps to assure the maintenance of justice and a definite curtailment of crime.

"In line with the principles of civic interest that have previously marked its sponsorship of the Chicago crime commission, the Empolyers' association, the Citizens' committee to enforce the Landis award and other agencies whose earnest efforts are recognized, the Chicago Association of Commerce therefore:

"Offers a reward of $5,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who shot Philip H. Meagher, a Chicago business man, at noon, Wednesday, and for those who planned this crime; and authorizes the formation of a committee of citizens of known courage and action to make an immediate study of the situation and to prepare a definite plan of action to be submitted to the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce not later than Feb. 21.

"To facilitate the operations of this committee, the Chicago Association of Commerce will place at its disposal confidential information now in its possession."

ON WAY HOME

MARY HOWE.

Mary Howe, fresh from a runaway jaunt to the open spaces, arrived in Chicago last night from Montana. Corduroy breeches, boots and a ten gallon hat identified her for the Traveler's Aid, who took her in charge at the La Salle street station.

Mary is 19 years old and the daughter of Dr. Edward Howe, a dentist of Pepperell, Mass. Last July 10, after completing her junior year at the Colby School for Girls, New London, N. H., she ran away from home and headed west.

"I hitch-hiked by automobile to Rapid City, S. D., jumped a freight to Marmarth, N. D., and worked on the Duffield ranch thrashing crew," Mary said last night. "I drove teams for a month, then jumped a freight to Butte. But the police found me there and held me six weeks. After that I went to Alta, Mont., to the Three Circle ranch, a dude ranch, and worked two months. I'd still be there if it weren't for my family. When I finish school next summer I'm going back to Montana."

Mary was put aboard an east bound train last night by the Traveler's Aid.

INSISTS ILLINOIS LAW IS SET UP TO FREE CRIMINALS

Shurtleff Sees Change if Home Owners Revolt.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rockford, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—A modernist picture of transient criminals swarming out of Chicago for depredations on the countryside protected by the "presumption of innocense" chorus in the courts was painted today at the conference of the Illinois judicial advisory council and the Winnebago County Bar association.

Judge Edward Shurtleff of Marengo, former speaker of the house, in analyzing felony trials, said no matter how guilty a prisoner may be the judge has to keep harping on presumed innocence until it is difficult to get a conviction. It was an echo from the downstate courts of what the Cook county criminal judges have been declaring for years, that the machinery of justice in Illinois is set up more for the protection of the malefactor than of society.

Demand Changes in Law.

Judge Shurtleff said an uprising of home owners will bring about changes in the law:

"No matter how guilty a man is," he said, "even if the man on the witness stand admits it or substantially so, yet the judge has to sit before the jury and read instructions which the Supreme court says it is error to leave out, until the judge has told that jury a dozen times that 'the man is innocent, that he is presumed to be innocent, you must consider him innocent and keep him innocent until you get clear inside that jury room.'

"The man may have admitted the crime, and yet the Supreme court will reverse even Judge Kavanagh, who feels as strongly on that subject as do Harry Fisher and I, unless we continually reiterate and reiterate that the man must be found innocent, kept innocent, maintained innocent even until the very last minute. What's the use of trying to convict anybody? Not one felony out of twenty in Illinois has a conviction.

They Even Stole Rag Carpets.

"The criminals are descending upon the country. They went to a place south of where I live and even took up the rag carpets. This week on the lake shore two citizens' homes were robbed, one in Winnetka and one in Lake Forest. Criminals are coming to country homes.

"I sometimes wonder why try to amend the criminal law in Illinois when everybody seems in favor of criminals going free. They have not murdered enough people yet, they have not robbed enough and taken out silver and carpets enough.

"The time will come and it is coming, when they will start a revolution among the home owners and will change the criminal law of Illinois so that a judge will not have to sit and be ashamed because he has to tell a jury, 'keep the poor man innocent, give him a reward and a chromo, take him away, not guilty.'"

Assail Prison Farm.

The state farm at Vandalia, to which counties can send misdemeanor offenders, came in for criticism. Some members charged the institution is little more than "a summer resort for convicted bootleggers, who get three meals a day and live in idleness."

The council voted to hold its next session March 15 at Vandalia to visit the state farm.

Coöperation between the bar associations in all the counties was dwelt upon. Senator A. S. Cuthbertson of Bunker Hill, chairman, is projecting meetings in many parts of the state before the legislature meets next year. The council was given a luncheon by the Winnebago bar, David D. Madden, president, presiding.

Victim and Bandits Shoot at Each Other, Don't Hit

After two gunmen had robbed John Lukoscewicz, 34 years old, of $30 in his shoe store at 4836 South Crawford avenue last night, he drew a pistol from under the counter and fired a shot at the departing bandits. They turned and fired five shots in return. Lukoscewicz decided to drop the hostilities there and ducked under the counter, where he remained until the bandits had left the store.

SEIZE BANDIT AS PAL JUMPS THROUGH GLASS

Abraham Devorkin, 29 years old, 1130 South Sacramento boulevard, was captured last night by Policeman Charles Bingaman of the Woodlawn station as he was rifling a cash register in a Berland shoe store at 1009 East 63d street. A second bandit who was guarding the manager and three employés in a rear room escaped by plunging head first through a glass door at the side of the store.

Devorkin and his accomplice entered the store and while Devorkin was robbing the register, the other man forced the manager, R. E. Fitzgerald, 2937 Warren avenue, and two clerks, C. L. Baker, 6232 University avenue, and A. L. Gisin, 2827 Cambridge avenue, into the room at the back. Bingaman, passing the store, saw Devorkin behind the counter and, stepping inside, covered him with a revolver just as the other bandit sent Fitzgerald into the front room to open a safe.

Fitzgerald signaled to the policeman that another bandit was in the place, but Devorkin's companion heard the clatter of his pal's gun falling on the floor and leaped through the door pane, leaving his own gun behind him.

Hold Up 8 in Cake Co. Office; Escape with $600

Two gunmen last night intimidated eight men in the office of the Service Cake company at 844 North Western avenue and after forcing them to lie on the floor in a rear room, the bandits escaped with $600.

HEFLIN RAISES SENATE ROOF FOR AN HOUR

Walsh Silences His Blast at Catholics.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Senator J. Thomas Heflin [Dem., Ala.], whose tirades against the Roman Catholic church are usually ignored by his colleagues, received a stinging public rebuke today when Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.] answered a characteristic outburst with an appeal for religious and racial tolerance.

A more formal censure of Heflin may follow a special committee investigation to determine if the insertion in the Congressional Record of a letter he wrote attacking the intermarriage of white and colored persons violated senate rules. In the letter, Heflin cited the recent marriage of Phil Edwards, New York university Negro athlete, to a white girl. He charged that such unions are encouraged by the "Roman Tammany régime in New York."

Copeland Up in Arms.

Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], discovering the letter in the Record today, demanded that it be expunged as "extremely and decidedly offensive to my state." Heflin leaped to his feet, and after succeeding in having the whole letter read to the senate, launched into an even more vitriolic attack on the Catholic church, Tammany, Al Smith, Gov. Franklin Roosevelt, and Mayor James Walker of New York, who, he charged in the letter, could have prevented the Edwards wedding.

For nearly an hour Heflin raged, denouncing the "rotten," "damnable," or "horrible" conditions in New York. Challenged by Heflin to point to a falsehood in the letter, Copeland asserted that the Alabama senator knew when he wrote it that neither former Gov. Smith, Gov. Roosevelt, nor Mayor Walker knew of the Edwards marriage until after it had taken place and that none of the officials approved intermarriage between the races.

Walsh Takes Up Cudgels.

Copeland renewed his motion that the letter be expunged from the Record, but before the vote could be ordered Senator Walsh demanded recognition to direct attention to a portion of Heflin's letter which asserted: "The fact that the Roman Catholic church permits Negroes and whites to belong to the same Catholic church and to go to the same Catholic church and to the same Catholic schools, and permits and sanctions marriage between whites and Negroes, is largely responsible for the loose, dangerous, and sickening conditions."

Red with anger, Walsh, himself a Catholic, pointed out that every state university and public school system, except those of southern states, admits colored children on equal basis with white children, and added, "For once the Catholic church has made a mistake in following public authority."

Warns of Intolerance.

"God banish jealousy and rivalry, religious and racial hatred, from this land of ours," Walsh concluded. "The sooner we forget sectionalism and religious prejudice and race hatred, the better for our government. If we do not, I fear very much for the security and safety of our beloved institutions."

A vote on Copeland's motion was avoided when Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] secured unanimous consent for reference of the question of the propriety of Heflin's letter to a special committee of three senators, to be agreed upon, it was arranged, by Heflin and Copeland.

2 LEVEL STREETS CALLED SOLUTION OF TRAFFIC JAMS

The construction of double decked highways rediating from the loop is the most logical solution of the traffic congestion problem Ald. John A. Massen [48th] told members of the Chicago Realty club yesterday. The highways are important not only to passenger automobile traffic, he said, but to the growing business of moving commodities by truck.

"Widening the streets is not the solution," said Ald. Massen. "The problem is one of speedy access and egress rather than bulk movement. The final solution lies in elevated highways without stoplights to permit continuous speedy travel for trucking and passing traffic."

The town of Highland Park on the north shore can be reached from the loop by automobile in one hour, Ald. Massen pointed out. If the highway were elevated, he said, Winthrop Harbor near the Wisconsin-Illinois state line could be reached in an hour.

Jail Break Leaders, Pals Sentenced to U. S. Cells

Rudolph Cerney, 26 year old leader of a jail delivery from the county jail last Dec. 19, was sentenced to 12 years in Leavenworth penitentiary by Federal Judge Carpenter yesterday. Cerney, with three others, pleaded guilty to charge of robbing postoffice substations at 854 Madison street, Oak Park, and 5173 Archer avenue. When Cerney was sentenced he lunged at Joseph Duvall, 19 years old, a co-defendant, shouting "stool pigeon." Duvall and John Zator, 18 years old, 4236 South California avenue, were sentenced to 10 years each, and Thomas Kotrba, 24 years old, 2057 West 17th street, was sentenced to 25 years.

Rumanian Leader Visits City

Nicolas Iorga, historian, statesman, and president of the University of Bucharest, Rumania, arrived yesterday for a week's visit. He is in this country at the invitation of the Nicolas Iorga society of Indiana Harbor, which will observe its 20th anniversary beginning tomorrow. The visitor was accompanied by Mrs. Iorga and George Boncesca, financial counselor of the Rumanian legation at Washington. Prof. Iorga and his party were entertained at a dinner last night by Dr. William A. Craigie, at the University of Chicago.

Find Body of Victim Who Drowned Posing on Ice

The body of Henry Prusa, 33 year old deaf mute of 2712 North Ridgeland avenue, who slipped into an ice crevice and was drowned a month ago while posing for a photograph on the lake shore at Oak street, was yesterday recovered from the water at the foot of Division street by a crew from the central coast guard station.

PANA BANK GETS $250,000 BY AIR TO PREVENT RUN

Two Other Institutions Close Doors.

Pana, Ill., Feb. 7. — [Special.] — A quarter of a million dollars was brought here by airplane from Chicago today to protect the Pana National bank from withdrawals that began this morning in the wake of the closing here yesterday of the H. N. Schuyler State bank. Although there was a small run on the national bank early in the day, arrival of the money by air restored confidence and conditions were virtually normal at closing time.

Two additional banks in this district were closed today. They were the Rosamond State bank, Rosamond, four miles west of here, and the Nokomis State bank, Nokomis, thirteen miles east. The Rosamond bank had a capital of $25,000, and surplus of $2,500. A notice posted on the door said the bank was closed for examination and readjustment. The Nokomis bank, state officials said, has frozen assets, but is expected to pay depositors in full.

Money Arrives in Two Hours.

When withdrawals of more than normal volume began at the Pana National bank this morning, President C. B. Parris of the institution telegraphed the Chicago Federal Reserve bank to forward $250,000 in cash by airplane. Two hours later a plane with armed guards aboard arrived with the money. Sheriff D. L. Dunbar and armed deputies transported the money to the bank's vault.

Citizens at a massmeeting yesterday had declared their confidence in the national bank and President Parris said today that obtaining funds from Chicago was only a precautionary measure.

A number of business houses, including all the meat markets, early today went on a cash and carry basis. Heretofore these merchants had carried their customers for indefinite periods. Late today the volume of business was declared virtually normal. A number of business, fraternal and social events, including banquets, scheduled for next week, however, have been canceled.

Both the Penwell and Pana coal mining companies announced today that they would continue operations at the present volume.

Milford Bank Closed.

Watseka, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The First National bank of Milford, twelve miles south of here, was closed today. A notice on the door said that the action was taken for the protection of depositors. Officers said that the bank is solvent, but that a run had been feared as the result of rumors in circulation. The bank is 53 years old. It has deposits of $350,000.

Cornell Bank Suspends.

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—The Farmers State bank of Cornell, Livingston county, was closed today. Directors announced that the action was taken because of frozen assets.

Louisiana Bank Closed.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The Bank of Napoleonville of Napoleonville, La., was closed today by order of the state bank commisisoners because of frozen assets and sugar loans. Officers of the bank were working on a plan of reorganization.

Deposits of the bank were estimated at $400,000 with $500,000 in resources. Emile Sundberry, former state senator, was president of the bank.

Receives $2,000 Reward for Finding $35,000 in Pearls

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Minnie Garrett, who on Jan. 31 found a "string of beads" on the Ambassador hotel lawn and forgot them after sticking them in her purse, today received $2,000 reward money for restoring the "beads" to Mrs. William Spiegelberg, a wealthy New Yorker. The necklace was composed of matched pearls and was valued at $35,000.

Plane Hunts 12 Fishermen Swept to Sea on Ice Floe

ROSTOV, Russia, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Twelve fishermen were carried away near here today on a huge ice floe and were swept out into the gulf of Taganrog. A Red army airplane was sent from Sebastopol in search of them.

A Great Ship
A Favored Ship
. . . the Aquitania

Driven swiftly and steadily by the 56,000 horsepower leaping in the steel swirl of her turbines . . . the Aquitania breaks her frothy trail across the Atlantic in six short days.

Within this great ship are staterooms that rival in charm the most effective apartments and country houses ashore. The Aquitania is a distinguished ship, and a favorite one with those worldly-wise travelers who take so profound a satisfaction in Cunard food and service. Splendidly, in the Cunard tradition, the Aquitania carries her weekly clientele to their appointed pleasures and engagements over the sea.

TWO PINT BUYER INDICTED BY U. S. FOR COURT TEST

First Step in Drive to Jail Rum Purchasers.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—A federal grand jury today indicted a man for purchasing two pints of liquor. It was the first indictment of a purchaser to be returned in Massachusetts in the 10 years of prohibition.

The United States attorney's office regards it as a test case. If it is successfully prosecuted other buyers of liquor in small quantities, patronizers of bootleggers and speakeasies, will be prosecuted.

James E. Farrar, 31, of Watertown, was indicted for "unlawfully and knowingly purchasing" from Frank Retonda of Medford two pints of liquor for beverage purposes "in violation of section 6, title 2, of the national prohibition act."

What the Law Says.

This act, according to Assistant United States Attorney Elihu D. Stone, who is in charge of prosecution of liquor law violations and who submitted the evidence in the Farrar case to the grand jury, provides as follows:

"No one shall manufacture, sell, purchase, transport, or prescribe any liquor without first obtaining a permit from the commissioner so to do, except that a person may, without a permit, purchase and use liquor for medicinal purposes when prescribed by a physician as herein provided."

The local federal office believes that the responsibility of the purchaser is clearly set forth in the above section and will test its belief in the prosecution of Farrar's case.

Why It's the First Case.

In reply to a question why the buyer at retail had never before been prosecuted in Massachusetts it was stated that the reason was difficulty in obtaining direct evidence and the further complication of dry law enforcement machinery, already sadly overtaxed by larger cases.

A second indictment, charging possession and transportation, was returned against Farrar, and Retonda was indicted for the sale.

FILE PETITIONS FOR WARD COMMITTEEMEN

Filings of petitions of candidates for ward committeemen at County Clerk Sweitzer's office brought out the fact that the Republicans, at least, have an opportunity on April 8 to compel a change of management in the local organization of their party. On the Democratic side there was not so much opportunity for a shakeup because so many of the regular candidates had no serious opposition in sight.

The filings showed that in addition to the seven vacancies on the Republican committee during the last two years, twelve additional vacancies were caused by failures of the present ward committeemen to present petitions. This makes a total of 19 of the fifty ward seats for which new men will be elected on primary day.

Ward Candidates Listed.

In the following list an asterisk [*] before a candidate's name shows that he is the present committeeman of the ward. BECK PHILIPPIC ASKS END OF DRY "DEMAGOGUERY"

Not Necessary to Kill the 18th Amendment.

"When the American people thus recognize that the nonexercise of a power is not necessarily a challenge to the constitution, they will, in due time, wholly sweep away that monstrous compound of iniquity and folly, the Volstead law, and upon its ruins, build afresh. They will recognize that the normal use of light wines and beer not only does not lead to intoxication, but promotes temperance by preventing hard drinking and the use of narcotics.

"The American people often think slowly, but surely. They are too wise not to acknowledge a demonstrated error. Above all, they have not lost their love of individual liberty and their jealousy of governmental power, and if they do not, in their own good time, end 'the witches' Sabbath' of moral demagoguery, hypocrisy and corruption, then I have misjudged the character of the American people."

Compared with Bloody Assizes.

Present dry law enforcement, Representative Beck compared to the "bloody assizes" of England when "Lord Chief Justice Jeffreys, within four weeks, convicted twelve hundred persons."

Maintaining that no government can long continue to indict and jail a portion of its people, Mr. Beck recalled the three century effort of Rome to stamp out Christianity and the more recent failure of the czars of Russia to stop the use of alcoholic beverages.

Mr. Beck referred frequently to the Wickersham commission, cautioning the lessons of history in law enforcement. He singled out a reference to "the Whig tradition of a 'right of revolution'" as a warning to his colleagues of the Republican party. In trying to compromise on the slavery issue, he declared, the Whig party destroyed itself.

"I say it with regret, but I say it as a necessary warning, that the Republican party cannot longer afford to sell its soul to the 'fanatical drys,'" he asserted, "and if it does, and thus becomes the party of prohibition, it may have a like fate. The party did not emancipate the slave to put the white man in the chains of an intolerant policy."

MANAGER OF LINCOLN PARK QUITS; APPOINT H. O. WEEGE TO POST

Emil A. W. Johnson, general superintendent and manager of Lincoln park for four years and for seven years in the service of the park board, yesterday submitted his resignation at a special meeting of the park's trustees. Immediately after accepting his resignation the board approved the appointment of H. Otto Weege, head of the Weege Sales company, 134 North La Salle street.

H. O. WEEGE.

Mr. Johnson said he resigned in order to devote all his efforts to his campaign for election to the Illinois legislature from the Sixth district.

The new superintendent is 66 years old and has been a resident of Chicago for 40 years. His home in at 600 Diversey parkway. He has been a yardmaster and traffic manager for railroads, a contractor and an electrical engineer. He has not held a public office before.

President Wright announced at the board meeting that contracts for the repairing of the outer drive would be let to a number of contractors so that the work might be completed by April.

FAST N. Y. C. TRAIN DERAILED NEAR GARY; NONE HURT

The locomotive, baggage coach and six of the eight Pullman coaches of the Advance Century, 20 hour train of the New York Central lines from Chicago to New York, jumped the track at Pine station, a mile and a half west at Gary, at 12:30 p. m. yesterday, half an hour after leaving the La Salle street station.

The train, which was traveling 50 miles an hour, plowed up a quarter mile of tracks before it was halted. None of the derailed coaches overturned nor were any of the 110 passengers injured, although all were severely jolted, according to New York Central officials at Chicago.

The stranded passengers were taken aboard the first section of the Twentieth Century limited, leaving Chicago at 12:40 p. m., and transferred to a replacement of the Advance Century, made up at Elkhart, Ind., which proceeded towards New York an hour behind schedule. Service on the tracks torn up was restored at 10 o'clock last night. Officials of the road said the cause of the derailment had not been determined.

FOUND GUILTY OF ATTEMPTING TO SLAY PRIEST

Gaetano Menna, 55 years old, 737 South Damen avenue, yesterday was found guilty of assault with intent to murder the Rev. Charles A. Erkenswick, pastor of the Holy Ghost Roman Catholic church. He faces a sentence of 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary if Judge Peter Schwaba of the Criminal court overrules his motion for a new trial on Feb. 14. Menna wounded the priest three times on March 29, 1929, as the latter approached him in the church yard at Adams street and Kildare avenue.

Assistant State's Attorney James Brown said the shoting was evidently the result of the arrest a short time before of Menna's two sons, who were suspected of robbing the poor box in the church. Menna's defense was that he was temporarily insane and not responsible for the shooting.

INDUCES EX-WIFE TO DROP NAME OF RHINELANDER

Las Vegas, Nev., Feb. 7.—[Special.] Leonard Kip Rhinelander delivered an ultimatum today to Alice Beatrice Jones, his dusky ex-wife. He informed her, through his Nevada lawyers:

"I am willing to settle a third of my income upon you for the rest of our natural lives if you will sign a quitclaim on me and relinquish your legal right to the use of my family name, Rhinelander."

On the other hand, if Alice declines his proposition, Kip declares he will cease paying her the $220 monthly she has been receiving since they parted.

She Accepts Offer.

New Rochelle, N. Y., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Alice Jones Rhinelander and her legal advisers tonight indicated they would accept the terms of Kip Rhinelander's settlement offer.

BOOZE FLOWED FOR GOVERNORS, WRITER CHARGES

New York, Feb. 7. — [Special.] — Charges that liquor was openly served in large quantities in the presence of high state officials of Michigan at the national conference of governors at Mackinac island in July, 1927, are contained in an article in the March issue of Plain Talk, made public tonight.

The article is by Walter W. Liggett, who was called before grand juries in the District of Columbia and Boston several months ago following his publication of articles concerning the liquor traffic in those places.

"Liquor was served openly at the banquet which concluded the conference," Mr. Liggett asserts. "Certain Michigan officials incurred heavy expense accounts in the shape of 'bar bills,' and actually put these bar bills in the vouchers which they turned in to the state auditor."

Mrs. Reinecke Takes Oath Today at Election Board

An enthusiastic demonstration of women is expected in the rooms of the election board at 12:15 today when Mrs. Mabel Reinecke is sworn in as the one Republican commissioner. Her appointment was announced Thursday by County Judge Jarecki, who is expected to administer the oath of office.

MEXICO PRESSES HUNT FOR RUBIO DEATH PLOTTERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 7.—President Pascual Ortiz Rubio, who was shot two hours after being inaugurated on Wednesday, is out of danger, according to reports issued by his doctors this afternoon. The reports said the president's respiration and pulse are normal and he has no fever.

Arrests connected with the attempted assassination continued today. Six members of Jose Vasconselos' political organization in the state of San Luis Potosi, including two brothers of the assassin, Daniel Flores, and Dr. Juan Guerra, were ordered brought here. Señorita Guillermina Ruiz, secretary to the Vasconselos Woman's league in the capital, is still held incommunicado.

Watch Vasconselos' Followers.

Although the police refused to make public any information about the persons arrested it is known they are working on the theory that the assassination was plotted by followers of Vasconselos. Officials and prominent members of Vasconcelos' organizations throughout Mexico are under strict surveillance and many are in hiding, fearing arrest.

From all parts of the republic come condemnations of the attempt on President Rubio's life and every section reports absolute tranquillity. The authorities point to these facts as an indication that the plot, whatever the nature and whoever the intellectual authors, will have no far reaching ramifications.

Resume Inaugurad Fêtes.

At the request of President Rubio numerous functions planned for the entertainment of the tourists and visitors from the interior of Mexico and the guests of the government were ordered continued and numerous Americans here for the inaugural ceremonies who had made arrangements to leave the city have decided to stay.

The members of the cabinet have begun work in their respective departments and the government machinery is reported to be moving along smoothly.

Outside the lines of police and military detachments drawn around the home of President Rubio thousands of curious persons gather from early morning and inquire of those entering and coming out as to the condition of the president.

MEETS OPPOSITION

MAJ. GEN. HEBERT B. CROSBY.

CROSBY OPPOSED AS CAPITAL CITY POLICE OFFICER

Senators May Refuse to Confirm Army Man.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—President Hoover's nomination of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby as a District of Columbia commissioner in charge of the police department today appeared to have aroused so much antagonism that his confirmation by the senate is uncertain.

Ostensibly with a view to checking crime and particularly to effective enforcement of the proposed new dry law for Washington, the President selected the army man as one of the commission members who rule the capital city. Maj. Gen. Crosby now is chief of cavalry. He will go on the army retired list next March 21.

Three Papers Oppose Him.

Resenting what has been termed a move to put the city under "military rule," three of the five local newspapers are strongly opposing the appointment and several citizens' associations have lined up with them. Much has been made of the argument that the 1878 act incorporating the municipal government of the district provided that the two commissioners, other than the engineer commissioner, should be appointed from civil life.

Prior to March 21 Maj. Gen. Crosby will be a noncivilian.

Despite the protests it was stated authoritatively at the White House today that Maj. Gen. Crosby's name will be withdrawn "under no circumstances." The White House also let it be known that the President had offered the commissionership to seven or eight residents of Washington, each of whom declined to accept it.

Model City is Goal.

It was stated further that the President has no thought of "militarizing" the police department, or to suggest the idea that the city needed a cleaning up. It was explained, however, that the President is desirous of making Washington a model city and believes that a capable, strong officer could bring about improvements in the police department.

Appointment of Maj. Gen. Crosby was debated in the senate yesterday with Senator Cole Blease [Dem., S. C.], defending the selection, and Senator Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], calling attention to the possibilities of the city being under military rule. Both senators are members of the district committee which will consider the nomination when it is sent to the senate.

WOODMEN RATE CASE IS REOPENED BY HIGH COURT

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Validity of the changes in rates announced last June by the head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America will be subject to further review by the Supreme court as the result of an order for rehearing granted today.

The Supreme court in December ordered the Cook County Circuit court to issue an injunction restraining officers of the society from putting the rate change into effect or otherwise enforcing changes in the by-laws of the society.

In attacking the changes, certain members of the organization alleged that the new rate by-laws of the society were unreasonable, discriminatory and void, and impaired other members' contracts and that the by-laws were adopted under an unconstitutional act of the legislature.

When the petition for injunction was heard in the Circuit court of Cook county, Judge William Brothers entered a decree affirming the action of the head camp in making the changes. An appeal from this decree was taken to the Supreme court.

Granting of a rehearing in effect reopens the entire case in the Supreme court for further review and opinion.

TAFT CONTINUES TO IMPROVE; HE IS NOT YET OUT OF DANGER

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—A continued improvement in the condition of William Howard Taft was reported tonight by his physicians, but the celebrated jurist was not regarded as entirely out of danger.

Increased nourishment had restored his strength a little. It was pointed out, however, that the improvement essentially was comparative. Arriving here from the south on Tuesday the former chief justice was in a serious condition.

Mr. Taft was cheered today by the arrival of his brother, Horace D. Taft of Watertown, Conn., with whom he was able to exchange a few words.

Almost simultaneously with the encouraging reports of the physicians the house expressed a "hope and a prayer" that the distinguished jurist soon would be restored to health. Offered by Representative Bankhead, Democrat, Alabama, the resolution expressed regret over the illness.

20 DIE IN UTAH MINE DISASTER; 9 OF 29 SURVIVE

Salt Lake City, Utah, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Twenty dead was the definitely established toll tonight of the gas explosion in the mine of the Standard Coal company at Standardville, Utah, in the heart of Carbon county's mining district.

Nine of the 29 men who were at work when the explosion occurred last night survived. Five were rescued by crews from nearby communities today, the other four escaped last night. The five taken out today had bratticed themselves from the deadly gas fumes, far back in the workings, leaving notes directing their rescuers where to find them.

The explanation of the explosion advanced is that a pocket of carbon monoxide gas became ignited by spontaneous combustion. The disaster was the first major accident this mine had suffered. It was inspected recently by the state mine inspector.

Many of the dead in the disaster were married men with large families. Frank Pritchett, one of those rescued, discovered today that his brother, T. E. Pritcheet, had sacrificed his own life in a useless effort to find him.

CROWDS FLOCK TO PEIPING'S HUNT FOR BURIED GOLD

PEIPING, China, Feb. 7.—(AP)—This ancient capital was all aquiver today in the midst of a buried treasure hunt. Police and troops were needed to handle huge crowds that flocked to the scene where enormous quantities of gold were reported hidden.

The buried treasure story was related by two aged servants, formerly of the Kung household, who said that 60 years ago Prince Kung, brother of the emperor, Hsien Fung, buried gold variously estimated at up to $15,000,000 at a place now occupied by a lumber yard.

Friends began searching for the gold, which was said to be buried at a depth of eight feet. The digging attracted enormous crowds. Mayor Chang Yingou sent representatives to witness the search. He said that if the treasure were found part of it would be distributed to feed Peiping's 400,000 unemployed.

BISHOP DEFENDS RIGHT TO DIVORCE FOR ADULTERY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 7.—"There is nothing in divorce for adultery which is irreconcilable with Christian principles."

This declaration was contained in a message to his diocese by the Bishop of St. Edmundbury and Ipswich. The innocent party is always entitled to be married in the church, the bishop declared.

"I am not prepared to say that in no case ought a person against whom the decree has been obtained to be married in the church," he added.

The bishop added, however, that in the case of remarriage of the guilty party there should certainly be some evidence of repentance and some kind of guarantee before the church could be expected to sanction the new union.

Firemen and fellow workers yesterday rescued Patrick McLoughlin, 2131 Gladys avenue, a caisson digger, from a gas filled well which had been sunk for the construction of a building at 801 North Dearborn street. The rescue was made with the aid of air pumps, which partly cleared the 115 foot well. McLoughlin was hoisted to the surface in a bucket.

The caisson diggers work in three shifts. One is lowered to the bottom of the well, while two remain at the opening and empty the buckets. McLoughlin began work and immediately his signal apparatus showed he had been overcome. He was given first aid in the offices of the Jackson Construction company and was then taken home.

Jump Off Engine, Rescue Aged Woman in Night Fire

Petersburg, Ind., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—When W. H. Cundiff, Big Four engineer, and his fireman, Clarence Graham, saw the home of Mrs. Albert Hawkins, 94 year old ex-slave, in flames at 1 o'clock last night they blew the whistle frantically, jumped from the engine, broke into the Hawkins home and carried out the aged woman, half unconscious.

Asks Court to Keep Wife from Selling the Furniture

John F. Grigoleit yesterday filed a bill for an injunction in the Circuit court to restrain his wife, Mrs. Maye Grigoleit, from selling furniture valued at $5,000 in their home at 536 East 88th street. The bill states that the wife has threatened to dispose of their furniture since Grigoleit reduced her allowance from $34 to $25 a week because of financial depression. He is living with his wife and their daughter, Margaret, 15 years old.

DANCE for PLEASURE AND PROFIT

DANCING is a pleasant, healthful and profitable habit to acquire. Perhaps to a greater extent than any other one form of diversion, it offers mental, physical and social benefits to those who indulge in it.

DANCING focuses the mind upon rhythm and motion and grace, and so dispels many cares and anxieties.

IT BRINGS into play all of the vital muscles of the body and agreeably stimulates the whole human system.

IT CREATES friendships that are most charming, enduring and advantageous.

DANCERS are not merely onlookers—they are participants in the kind of recreation and amusement they most enjoy. No wonder millions of persons

THE FINANCIAL CRISIS.
III. THE APPROPRIATIONS.

The reassessment was a contributing factor but it is not the first cause of Chicago's financial plight. That cause was the deficits piled up by many of the governments, and notably by those under the direct control of the city hall machine. The city corporate fund and the school funds have been particularly hard hit.

No one familiar with the operations of our local governments can doubt that money has been wasted and stolen. The spenders not only have taken what was in the treasuries but they have even spent money that was not there. Through mismanagement and raiding, the money which should have been spent in the public services has been frittered away and deficits have been piled up despite heavier taxation. Until the spenders who are the prime cause of all the trouble are ousted, no real progress in clearing up the financial difficulties of the local governments is possible.

It is important, desirable, and necessary, of course, to maintain the essential public services meanwhile by one means of financing or another, but there can be no thought of refilling the treasury, at the expense of the taxpayers, in the certainty that the wreckers will empty it again as quickly as possible.

A CLEARING HOUSE FOR JOBS.

The Association of Commerce has undertaken to relieve the unemployment situation here. Members have been asked to advise the Illinois free employment bureau of any services they may require in offices, factories, or homes. The plan is sure to be helpful. We hope that the members of the association will respond to the communication of their president. Experienced workmen are available today and employment managers have an exceptional opportunity to strengthen their staffs. The arrangement has virtue for employer as well as for worker.

We would suggest to Col. Randolph that residents of Chicago be considered first in assigning applicants to interviews with employers. To provide for our own citizens, if provision can be made, is a moral obligation. The Chicago Association of Commerce cannot assume responsibility for the nation's unemployed. It must promote Chicago's prosperity and this purpose would not be served by providing for outsiders at the expense of Chicago men and women.

POLITICAL DYNASTIES.

The Wisconsin state Supreme court has held that the Wisconsin corrupt practices act is valid and that a candidate who violates it cannot hold the office to which he may be elected. If he has been inducted he is an intruder, and a judgment of ouster will end the term of his intrusion. The case is that of Gov. Kohler, accused by the La Follette faction of spending personally or directly through his agents more than is permitted under the statute. Only the law itself is considered in the Supreme court decision. A determination of the facts lies in the Circuit court.

The legislature made the limit of expenses lawfully to be incurred by a candidate for governor, by personal expenditure or by agents at his direction, $4,000. Apparently a committee could expend contributed funds, but a candidate could use only $4,000 of his own money to further his ambitions and gain the office of governor.

Gov. Kohler was a wealthy manufacturer with a sense of public duty. The moral dictum of the statute he is accused of violating is that public policy cannot permit a man of wealth to use his money in campaigning, it being held of no consequence how the money is spent or what the character of the candidate may be. That dictum is exploited all through the various corrupt practice acts of the nation and the states. As a doctrine of public morality it will need examining, and Wisconsin offers a good case.

Political control in this state has come to be dynastic through the vigorous political personalities of the La Follette family, chiefly that of the elder governor and senator. It is not frequently the case that a succession can be arranged for a family, but Wisconsin proves it possible, although even there the second generation is not as strong as the first. More frequently the succession is held in an organization as in Tammany.

The basis on which these personal or group controls rest is that of the old Norman feudal system, service in exchange for rewards. It is called patronage, and the general public furnishes the money, through taxation, to provide the rewards the disposition of which is made by the head of the feudal system. The Wisconsin statute, and similar laws, can be interpreted into plain political terms. It shall be illegal to oppose candidates having the use of public funds by the use of the personal funds of a rival candidate no matter how honestly or inoffensively the latter may be employed. It shall be illegal to undertake in such fashion to disturb the control of politics made possible by public office and public funds.

The Wisconsin dynasty has a law which makes it difficult for independent political action to get into the Norman keep. It is a law of dynastic succession put forth with moral authority. If it were not such, the concern of the statute would not be the amount of the money used, but the manner of spending it. To be against public policy it would have to be used corruptly.

The heads of feudal systems will always try to disarm their possible or probable opponents. That idea prevails in congress and it prevails in the states. Another step would be to suppress criticism of elected officers and thus prepare the way for the acceptance of a governing class with the succession either through the dynastic line of a dominant family or through the headship of dominant groups.

MR. STIMSON PROPOSES.

If Secretary Stimson's proposal upon naval limitation is inclusive of all terms of agreement with Great Britain, it represents an acceptance by our government of American subordination on the high seas. Mr. Stimson's reference to "the historical fact of the agreement in principle for parity between Great Britain and the United States" is an astonishing preface to this proposal. The terms do not even provide for parity, ship for ship, and as for parity in naval power no reference is made to the disparity now existing and apparently sanctified in this proposal.

We have no disposition to exaggerate the margin of advantage conceded by Mr. Stimson's proposal to the British fleet. It does not represent parity even in the narrower interpretation of ship comparison which Mr. Stimson, and presumably Mr. Hoover, seem to have adopted, but the discrepancies in favor of the British fleet are not of great military importance in a situation greatly disadvantageous to us on account of factors which our government has evidently ignored. The significance of the proposed further concessions, our abandonment of our claims to 21 cruisers—itself a drastic reduction from the number estimated by our naval experts as needed to cover our communications and protect our vast overseas commerce—our acceptance of a formula of equality in capital ships which does not represent the fact of British superiority in that category, our failure, so far as this proposal goes or any understanding we have been informed of indicates, to come to any agreement on bases or upon neutral rights, is that our delegation is retreating, not advancing. Its negotiations, which have been taking place behind the curtain of official secrecy, to the extent they are now revealed, represent a diplomatic defeat and we believe will not receive the approval of the American people, except that minority which is willing to subordinate any American interest to British policy or make any sacrifice for the sake of international agreement.

We protest especially against the assertion that the Stimson proposal would achieve parity or even tend toward parity, in the sense of parity of power. Parity is not a concession of Great Britain to the United States, but of the United States to Great Britain. In its proper sense—namely: equality of sea power—it represents the pacific and friendly policy of our country toward the British empire and toward all nations. It should not be used as a cover for unnecessary concessions of organized strength, for subordination in fact, for the acceptance of disadvantages not imposed upon us by our conditions nor justified by the international situation.

BULKIER AND BRIGHTER PRIZE FIGHTS.

Primo Carnera continues to slap them flat in accordance with specifications, adding Cowboy Bill Owens to the list of horizontal items. Mr. Owens went into the second round, which is the record to date. None of the elephant child's opponents has had far to fall when he started, but the sports writers nevertheless are not yet prepared to say that a real menace has not been imported in bulk in this bit of prehistoric physical culture. He may be really good, but it would be investor's folly to let him discover it now. It might not be true and he is the only Santa Claus the heavyweight ring has seen in a year. It would be insane to spoil the prospect of a good Christmas by blowing it up on Fourth of July.

Primo probably will be routed for all the obscurities who can be persuaded by a bit of desirable and possibly needed change to submit their faces for exhibition purposes. If this program goes through and if Mussolini puts up a monument to the gladiator with the names of his victims on it the thing will look like a record of the conquest of America.

Ever since the Great Shires proved that a bright boy can make the prize fight game take a joke there has been an apparent purpose to brighten up the business with the comic strip. If Charlie Chaplin finds the talkies offensive to his sense of art he might get in this new development of the prize ring. There isn't a place in the country big enough to hold the customers who would pay cash to see him answering the bell with Primo.

Editorial of the Day

SUFFERING NEAR HOME.

[Decatur (Ill.) Herald.]

Some one remarked the other day that we have become anesthetized against being moved by great disasters. News that a million people are doomed to die by reason of flood and famine does not move us. We simply do not comprehend it.

We wonder how much of this indifference is due to the war. Before 1915 disasters in eastern Europe moved us a good deal. Then came the sack of Belgium, the occupation of northern France, the depopulation of a part of Prussia and Russia, and the typhus scourge in the Balkans. Misery among civilian populations was everywhere. It was simply too much for the mind to compass. People whose hearts were moved at first in behalf of people that had to live in chicken houses and barns, and particularly of children that were starving, finally became deadened to appeals.

Disasters have to be visualized in order to move. Less than 150 miles from central Illinois people living in a flooded valley have been crowded in attic rooms to escape the water. They have gone for days cold and hungry. Airplanes have dropped food to them on the ice by which they are surrounded.

This, it is to be remembered, is not on the Don or the Vistula, but on the swollen Wabash. It does not count as a major flood, but for suffering there have been few disasters of its size that equal this. It is hard to realize that people that a few weeks ago were living in comfortable farm homes have seen their houses, barns, stock, and farming implements swept away and are existing on Red Cross supplies.

BUSINESS FIRST.

Patient—Doctor, I'm afraid I'm losing my memory.
Doctor—In that case, you'll have to pay me cash for this visit.—Answers.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Gosh! Have We Got to Explain Everything to You?

Well, all right, we will. This morning we'll tell you about this here emergency wheat relief for the farmers. You see, it's like this: Wheat is down now to a low price so the government will buy it in at a high price. Then the farmers can buy 1930 model cars and new radios and fancy red and green suspenders and everything. It's as simple as falling off a tin roof. Then, what'll the government do with all the wheat it's got? Howinell do we know? That's the government's business. We're just explaining the thing so anybody can understand it.

And it's like this: Bill Jinks is a farmer, we'll say. He goes out to the barn and he sees five bushels of wheat there. If he sold it in the market he would only get a buck and twelve cents a bushel for it, and it costs him more than that to raise it. So he takes it over to the government and they pay him a dollar and thirty-five cents a bushel, or whatever they pay him. And then that will make Bill Jinks happy. Yes, it will. Lykell, lykell, lykell!

Anyhow, whatever the government pays the farmer it won't be enough and he'll vote the Democratic ticket next election. That is, he says he will. That's what keeps the Democratic party alive—people howling around and saying they're going to vote for it next time. Nobody believes it but the Democrats. We always believe it up to about two weeks before election, and then we say, What's the use? and shut down the headquarters. There's nobody so full of hope as a Democrat. And when he gets walked all over at an election he just smiles and says, "Well, better luck next time."

Oh, well. What does the farmer do with all the money he gets from the government? Well, he's like the wife of the fellow who was moaning and complaining about his wife being so extravagant. "Yessir," he says, "two weeks ago she wanted fifteen dollars, and last week she wanted ten dollars, and yesterday she was beggin' me for five dollars." "What does she do with all that money?" another fellow asked him. "I don't know," said the first man; "I hain't give her any yet."

TWO SONNETS.

I am not all your own, for there are days
I must be lonely. I must go apart,
A traveler on the rarely-trodden ways
Of high unreachable beauty, all my heart
Mixed with the moaning of the mighty seas
And the wild wailing wind among the stars,
And the mysterious pale transcendent peace
Of the lone moon asleep at heaven's bars.
Bid me not love you more than I love these,
These I have loved so long before you came;
So strong, so constant, wind, and sun, and seas,
Unbound, untrammeled, evermore the same;
And this bright dwelling you and I have found
Is after all built up on crumbling ground.

So fair, so high, so beautiful, so frail!
Its burnished splendor less than melting snows,
So much less strong than summer's lighest gale,
So much less strange than summer's palest rose;
Among the universal mysteries
So small a thing, so trivial a toy,
An airy castle by the surging seas
O touch it lightly; here, and here and here,
Delicate dreams bear up the fragile ties
So slight, so made of very gossamer,

DOROTHY R. KISSLING.

WHAT'S THE USE! Washington announces that with the coming of the new British ambassador the embassy will flop off the water wagon—if, indeed, it could be said that it was ever on the water wagon. But, anyhow, the Drys cheered and cheered when Sir Esme announced last year that he would not import any more likker; and as he already had enough on hand to liquefy all the embassy dinners and luncheons until he went home for keeps, everybody was happy. And now Sir Esme's Washington days are drawing in, the cellars are about empty, the new ambassador will begin importing again, and all will be as of yore. Ah, the poor Drys—'tis indeed a world full of crushed illusions and bitter disappointments.

Ach! Herr Goethe, Das Ist Recht!

We are obliged to call upon Johann Wolfgang von Goethe to speak sharply to Herr A. F. M., who raps our knuckles because we said Goethe was born in Weimar when the poet was born in Frankfort-on-Main. Hören Sie! Herr A. F. M., we didn't say Goethe was born in Weimar; we said Weimar was his old home town. And so it was, for while he was born in Frankfort-on-Main that was a matter entirely out of his control. But when he was old enough to pick out a home town he chose Weimar, and in Weimar he lived for fifty-seven years, and there he died. Ach! Herr A. F. M., heraus mit you! We have ourself stood before the old house of Goethe, in Weimar, and we have laid flowers at the base of Goethe's statue, in Weimar, and more than that right now: we live on Goethe street. Es ist genug! But to cap the climax we call upon the great poet himself to say a word right here. Listen:

Das glücklichste Wort es wird verhönt
Wen der Hörer ein Schiefohr ist.

LAGNIAPPE.

MEXICO is slowing down. They had an inauguration and shot at the president, and still no revolution. But maybe now the regular revolutions only begin on every alternate Friday.

STATISTICS (if you pay any attention to the foolish things) say that every man, woman, and child of us in the U. S. A. smokes a thousand cigarets a year. What's become of the old fashioned man who used to smoke Pittsburgh stogies?

SO ENDS a dull gray week. But next week comes Lincoln's birthday, and St. Valentine's day, and much whoopee. Not much chance of excitement on Lincoln's birthday, but right after it comes St. Valentine's day, and here in Chicago St. Valentine's day—oh—Bing! Bang! Boom! And much whoopee!

CHOLESTEROL; WHAT IT IS.

CHOLESTEROL is a modified form of fat belonging to a class which is known as lipoids. It is found in fair quantities in the human body, and several very important disorders have been charged to an excess of it, though as to most of them the evidence is not final. That some gallstones are composed of practically pure cholesterol and others contain it in considerable amounts has long been known.

This information led to the charge that excess cholesterol was either the principal cause or an important contributing cause of gallstones. The next step was to accuse cholesterol of causing or contributing to other gall bladder and liver troubles, for the liver is always found crippled to some extent when gallstones are present in the bile duct.

There is very excellent evidence that excess cholesterol is the cause of atheroma of the aorta in rabbits and other vegetable eating animals. The proof is not good in this disorder in meat eating animals on a mixed diet. Man is one of the latter.

Apoplexy and aneurism result from atheroma of the blood vessels. Excess cholesterol has been charged with some part of the responsibility for arteriosclerosis, commonly known as high blood pressure; the group of cases of heart disease associated with arteriosclerosis, and some forms of Bright's disease. Also some forms of retinitis. Possibly some forms of diabetes may be due to it. It is responsible for the haze which forms in the eyeball and which goes by the name arcus senilis and is accounted an evidence of advancing age.

Among the foods which supply the human body with cholesterol are the yellow of eggs, brain, liver, and skin. A person who has any reason to suspect or who knows that he has an excess of cholesterol, or any disease caused by it, will do well to eat sparingly of these foods.

In addition to the cholesterol derived from foods, the human body has the power to manufacture it. The claim is made that this is done by the suprarenal glands and by the spleen. However, this is very uncertain. Nothing can be done to lessen the manufacture of the lipoid and we must depend on limiting its intake.

CHEESE NOT SO BAD.

Inquirer writes:

1. Is it harmful to eat a moderate amount of cheese when one's blood pressure is very high? I understand cheese leaves an alkaline ash.
2. How about buttermilk's effect on high blood pressure?
3. I have frequent dizzy spells and my legs often get wabbly, especially in traffic or downtown. Is this just nervousness, or part of the game for a person of 57?
4. Is it not more important to avoid acid foods, or foods that leave an acid ash, than anything else?
5. I see you recommend sour milk and vegetables, but is not sour milk in the same category with cheese, buttermilk, etc.?

May I state that several years' study of this trouble has convinced me that there is no certain remedy for all, but each case may differ from others, and that in the main liver and bowels and their functioning are holding the secret of the entire problem, save when arteries are hardened by very old age?

REPLY.

1. I do not think so. Cheese is a high protein food, but such foods are not as harmful in high blood pressure as was once thought.
2. All milk preparations produce a very slightly alkaline ash. Buttermilk is a good food for one with this disorder.
3. I cannot say.
4. I expect that ranks high, probably next to avoidance of overeating, heavy meals, and condiments. Diet is not the outstanding factor in control of high blood pressure.
5. Yes.

FIND THE CAUSE FIRST.

Mrs. R. F. writes: How can I cure a bulbous nose? It's the tip of the nose that bothers so. It swells up on both sides and has a bump on top. I have heard it called elephant nose. At times it is red and sore.

REPLY.

I judge you have a form of acne rosacea, which Sutton calls rhinophyma. In some cases of this disorder a nose specialist will find some condition within the nose to be a cause. More frequently it is caused by some constitutional disorder.

Treatment consists in having a thorough general examination to find a cause followed by treatment to remove that cause. The best form of local treatment is surgery or radium treatment. The condition is disfiguring, but otherwise harmless.

EXECUTION OF WILL.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Please advise if a will is legal which is made out and witnessed by a notary public and signed by the party making the will and two witnesses in the notary public's office. 2. If the original copy should be lost, would the duplicate, which has been signed by the above witnesses in pencil, and in ink by the party making the will and the notary public, be legal? B. J.

1. Yes, as far as the facts stated are concerned. 2. A duplicate would be sufficient if it is signed in the manner specified in the statute.

We strongly advise you to employ an attorney, in the drafting and execution of so important a document.

RATIFICATION OF "NOBLE EXPERIMENT."

Council Grove, Kas., Feb. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. When did prohibition go into effect. 2. Was there any war time prohibition? T. E.

1. Ratification of the prohibition amendment to the federal constitution was formally proclaimed Jan. 29, 1919, by Frank L. Polk, acting secretary of state in the absence of Secretary Robert Lansing, who was attending the peace conference in Paris. Though the document was dated the 29th, legal authorities in the department held that the ratification was accomplished when the thirty-sixth state acted affirmatively on Jan. 16, and that under the terms of the amendment itself prohibition would become effective one year from that date, or Jan. 16, 1920.
2. Yes. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SENDING FOR FATHER IN ENGLAND.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like to bring my father over here from England. I have been here two years and have applied for my first citizenship papers. My father has lived in England 25 years, coming originally from Riga, Latvia. L. B.

There is no provision in the immigration act whereby an alien daughter in this country can bring her parents or sisters and brothers here as nonquota or preference-quota immigrants. The only thing the daughter can do is send the father an affidavit of support showing that when he arrives here he will not become a public charge.

Have the persons who desire to come to the United States apply at the American consulate nearest their home in England for an appropriate immigration visa and then wait their turn in the quota of the country of their birth. S. D. SMITH,
District Director of Immigration.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 8, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—President Lincoln's message detailing his recent peace negotiations with the rebel commissioners was still further delayed by the failure of the senate to pass a resolution asking for it, John Sherman having objected. The message will be sent just as soon as called for.

NEW YORK.—The Richmond Examiner says that Representative Atkins of Tennessee offered a resolution in the rebel house authorizing the confederate government to purchase and put in the field 100,000 Negroes and to give each white person now in the army or who may volunteer within three months one slave, to be his absolute property.

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.—Gen. Grant's army is once more in motion. The movement started three days ago when the 5th corps, preceded by Gregg's cavalry, started for Ream's station. The 2d and 3d divisions of the 2d corps went to Hatcher's Run, where the 3d division charged and took a line of the rebels' rifle pits. The 2d division advanced toward Armstrong's Mill, but soon ran into the enemy in a strong position and considerable force. Our men entrenched and the rebels charged, but met such a galling fire they fell back in disorder, leaving many dead and wounded on the field. A great battle is expected tomorrow.

CHICAGO.—Lieut. Julian R. Fitch, U. S. A., and Miss Louie R. Bragdon of Evanston were married on Feb. 7 by the Rev. C. W. Fitch. James W. Taylor and Miss Almira M. Vosburgh, both of Chicago, were married in Oshkosh, Wis., on Feb. 2 by the Rev. W. W. Whitcomb. Lieut. Col. Joseph Stockton of the 72d regiment, Illinois volunteers, and Miss Kate E. Dennis-ton of Pittsburgh, Pa., were married in the latter city on Feb. 7 by the Rev. W. M. Paxton.

FEBRUARY 8, 1900.

LONDON.—The mystery of Gen. Buller's operations is ended. He crossed the Tugela river on Feb. 5 with 24,000 men under heavy fire north of Doorne Kop, eleven miles east of Spion Kop, in his latest move to relieve Ladysmith. Gen. Lyttleton captured one kop, but terrific shelling by the Boers prevented further advance. It is stated the British loss was 250 men killed and wounded. The fighting has been continuous since the 5th. At one time Lyttleton lost his position, but the British regained it by a bayonet charge.

WASHINGTON.—Miss Susan B. Anthony, 80 years old, opened the 32d annual convention of the North American Woman Suffrage association at the Riggs house. It is the last session at which she will preside and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt is slated to succeed her.

WASHINGTON.—Mrs. William D. Washburn of Chicago is visiting Mrs. James R. Mann.

CHICAGO.—James W. Morrisson of Chicago and Miss Mary Foulke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dudley Foulke of Richmond, Ind., were married at the residence of the bride's parents in Richmond. Another wedding of yesterday was that of Miss Pearl Libby and James C. Clow, who were married at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. William F. Burrows, 3357 Michigan avenue.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Thousands attended the funeral of Maj. John* A. Logan, who lost his life in the Philippines. The services were held at St. John's Episcopal church.

FEBRUARY 8, 1920.

CHICAGO.—State's Attorney Hoyne reached a stone wall in his efforts to apprehend the murderers of "Moss" Enright. He has a net of circumstantial evidence but no proof. Two men remain in custody. They are Ralph "Bragge" Buglio, whose automobile was identified by eyewitnesses as that from which the labor chief was shot to death, and Tony Cifaldo, formerly a bartender for "Dago Mike" Carozzo, youthful president of the street sweepers' union and protégé of "Big Tim" Murphy, Enright's rival for labor leadership.

COPENHAGEN. — The British, French and Italian missions in Siberia have been captured by the bolsheviki. They are being well treated, according to a message M. Litvinoff, bolshevik representative here, says he has received from Trotzky, the soviet war minister.

LOS ANGELES. — Richard Bullock, said to have been the original "Deadwood Dick," is dead. He was 75 years old.

WASHINGTON, D. C. — President Wilson accepted the resignation of Franklin K. Lane, for nearly seven years secretary of the interior. Mr. Lane, it was reported, will become president of the Sinclair Oil company.

CHICAGO. — John M. Armstrong, "father of Lincoln park," and one of Chicago's oldest native citizens, died at his home, 615 Briar place, at the age of 82. Mr. Armstrong was elected an alderman at 20, and it was he who introduced the ordinance that created Lincoln park. He was the oldest living graduate of Notre Dame university.

SUBMARINES.

Oak Park, Feb. 5.—The news from the naval conference in London is that the United States joins Great Britain to challenge the very existence of the submarine.

There is no method of defense so economical and dependable as the submarine for this country. With the largest continuous coast line in the world to defend it is the ideal sort of defense for us.

The United States should have submarine bases all the way from Maine to the state of Washington and have these bases equipped with the most powerful and modern submarines that money will buy and the genius of American shipbuilders can contrive and construct. What Britain wants will be found to be against the best interests of our country.

Equipped with good submarines and plenty of them, this country can defy the world to invade it by sea; that is, prevent any country landing any considerable number of soldiers on American soil. And unless that can be done no country or countries can very well attack this country.

The blowing up of coastwise cities from the air by an enemy is not as feasible as popularly supposed.

Please warn our representatives in London that they play England's game when submarines are prohibited as a means of defense and attack by the United States. D. A. WHITE.

SHREWD APPOINTMENT.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—The midnight appointment of Hughes to be chief justice is the first clever thing Hoover has done since he left his own flock to join the wild asses.

There is nobody in the circle of his new friends fit to sit upon the Supreme bench. If he had hesitated even twenty-four hours he would have been coerced to appoint another Hopkins!

OLD GUARD.

NEWS OF COLONIALS.

Lake Forest, Ill., Feb. 6.—I see that the Toronto Globe complains the English newspapers do not print enough Canadian news.

Why should they? Who wants to read about a lot of middle and lower class colonials? Certainly not the British aristocracy. JOHN BULL.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 4.—The prohibition law is not as unjust in the way it is enforced as the compulsory education law. Originally we copied this law from Germany, which had compulsory education up to 14. Up to 14 you can enforce it. Beyond that you have to entertain students with athletics, dramatics, etc.

In Illinois compulsory education is not enforced on farmers' children even up to 14. In Chicago they try to bluff you that you must go to continuation schools even up to 18. Few towns in Illinois have continuation schools. Mothers in Chicago are forced to go out to work because fathers can't earn enough to support grown up children. If these children have ambition and appreciate what is done for them, well enough. If there is no ambition, no appreciation, they become lazier than ever.

MRS. FRED C. HUBBARD.

WHILE MURDER STALKS THE STREETS.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—I wish to congratulate you very much for Orr's cartoon "While Murder Stalks the Streets."

It has always been my contention that practically all law abiding people are not concerning themselves very much about gambling houses, houses of fame, and hand book agencies, but why we are wondering about is if we can go over to the corner drug store a night without being held up or shot.

We also care about what happens to the members of our families, and have always contended that if the population are protected these other matters will take care of themselves, because nobody needs to gamble or frequent these other resorts unless they so choose, and I believe if you keep bombarding the state's attorney with editorials and cartoons it finally will get him to see the light.

F. A. ROSSIG.

GAMBLER AND KILLER.

Chicago, Feb. 5.—Compliments on your cartoon "While Murder Stalks the Streets." It speaks the truth. It is easier to kill a man and get away than make a bet on a horse race. A. M. D.

BUNK!

Chicago, Feb. 1.—The central idea behind the prohibition movement, as behind all law, is one that your paper never seems to get—namely: personal liberty in certain respects is restricted because experience has shown that what that liberty is not restricted injury is done, not only to the person so restrained, but [more important from the legal side] never fails in the aggregate to work serious and irreparable injury to other and innocent parties.

All law is based on such reasoning, and without such reasoning we would have anarchists. No wet has ever shown that the injury to others [literally the state] is as real and as inevitable when the consumption of alcohol is carried on by numbers of people as when traffic laws are violated. The number of violations does not indicate rebellion against prohibition any more than the universal violation of traffic rules indicates acceptance of such rules as just and necessary for the safety of the public.

GERMAN SAMOA.

Chicago, Feb. 2.—The misgovernment of the New Zealand mandate of German Samoa is just another result of the campaign of lies by which the allies succeeded in robbing Germany of her colonies. In the Cameroons, now a French mandate, prevail similar conditions, and all this shows that the colonial charges against Germany were nothing else but swindles.

Neither New Zealand nor America has any business in German Samoa. An American mandate over German Samoa would mean that the United States intends to participate in these dirty mandates deals as practiced by the allies. The only rightful claimant to German Samoa is Germany, and therefore it is not more than just to return to Germany these possessions which were stolen by the allies under false pretenses. OSCAR C. PFAU.

"SHE FELL LIKE A RIPE PEACH," EARLE PLEADS

Artist's Reply to Girl in $30,000 Suit Heard.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Reading of the first of three depositions made by Ferdinand Pinney "Affinity" Earle, artist, denying charges of breach of prenuptial contract in a $50,000 damage suit brought against him by Dolores Salazar, Spanish dancer, was begun in Superior court today. The prosecution rested yesterday.

After Earle's statement that "she [Miss Salazar] fell into my lap like a ripe peach," was heard, reading of the deposition was halted and the jury excused to permit the lawyers to peruse the remaining assertions.

Earle deposed that he first met Miss Salazar at his home in Hollywood. Then he moved to Juarez, Mexico, he said, she followed him there.

Several days later, the deposition said, they continued on to Vera Cruz and sailed for St. Nazaire, France. Arriving in France in April, 1927, they registered at a hotel and then spent a week touring France. On their return to Paris they separated.

"There was no quarrel; just a friendly argument," Earle said.

"I pleaded incessantly for her to come back and go to London with me. I was as kind as one human being could be to another."

TRACES BULLETS TO CULTIST'S GUN AT MURDER TRIAL

CRIMINAL COURT.

Shipley Jones and William Kane, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Lee Edison, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge John P. McGoorty.

Edward Weldon, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge E. I. Frankhauser.

Lieut. Col. Calvin Goddard, ballistics expert, was the chief witness for the state yesterday against three colored members of the American Moorish temple, who are charged with having murdered Policemen Jesse Hults and William Gallagher last fall during a gun battle at 4139 South Park way. He testified that he was able to trace the fatal bullets to a revolver held by Ira Johnson Bey, one of the cultists, who is co-defendant with Eugene Jackson and Mose Jackson.

After the session in Judge Harry B. Miller's court Assistant State's Attorney George Lavin, in charge of the prosecution, asked Lieut. Col. Goddard if it could be arranged to educate all the assistant prosecutors in the science of ballistics. It was later agreed that Lieut. Col. Goddard will give lectures at the weekly meetings of the assistant state's attorneys.

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin and Coroner Bundesen were other state witnesses at the trial yesterday. They testified that Johnson, who confessed, showed no signs of alleged police brutality at the inquest. Gen. Clinnin was foreman of the coroner's jury.

MICHAEL CROWE IN COURT TODAY FOR AUTO DEATH

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that Michael Crowe, former owner of the Peep o' Day roadhouse, be held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter for the death of John Shea, 45 years old, 1331 Granville avenue. Crowe will be arraigned in the Felony court today.

Shea was struck by Crowe's auto at Broadway and Ardmore avenue last Jan. 6 and died in the Rogers Park hospital a week later. Crowe fled after the accident but was arrested at the Richmont hotel at Greenview and Birchwood avenues with Miss Florence Torrey, 7719 North Paulina street. Miss Torrey was released.

With no deaths reported yesterday the 1930 Cook county motor toll remained at 70.

Judge Approves $1,122,000 Bryn Mawr Sewer Project

The Bryn Mawr sewer project was approved yesterday by Judge J. G. Van Kueren, assisting County Judge Barecki, after he had heard objections to the assessments for three months. The improvement will cost $1,122,000. It is hoped the system may be completed this year. The objectors filed an appeal. The judge also issued final confirmation for the paving of Catalpa avenue between Ashland avenue and Clark street.

This letter came from the most southerly city in the world, Magallanes, until recently known as Punta Arenas, capital of the territory of Patagonia, Chile, South America.

In this far away land of Patagonia and Penguins in latitude 50 degrees south, Magallanes has grown to an up to date town of 20,000 as the center of a prosperous sheep raising country. Rye and barley also are successfully grown and there is some coal mining. The town is on the shores of Magellan strait at its easterly end.

FORBES TO HEAD COMMISSION TO ADVISE ON HAITI

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—William Cameron Forbes, former governor general of the Philippines and Boston banker, was named chairman of the Haitian investigation commission by President Hoover today. The other members are Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, former ambassador to Italy; Elie Vezina of Rhode Island, James Kerney, New Jersey Democrat and William Allen White, Kansas publisher.

W. C. FORBES.

The President had planned to have both the senate and house represented on the commission, but thus far members of congress have declined to serve. The matter is still being discussed, the President said today, with the possibility that two more commissioners may be selected.

President Hoover announced that R. E. Moton, president of Tuskegee institute, has been asked to undertake an exhaustive investigation into the educational system of Haiti with a view to submitting recommendations for the future. No Negroes will be placed on the investigating commission.

GERMANY'S CHIEF BANS STATE BEER FOR SAKE OF POOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—President Hindenburg today abolished the parliamentary "beer evenings," where he, as host, had been meeting the legislators from time to time for the purpose of persuading them, over flowing steins and generous sandwiches, to forget their political differences and remember only their loyalty to the Fatherland.

President Hindenburg announced that the not inconsiderable saving that will be effected by his sumptuary edict will be used to ameliorate the misery of war orphans and disabled veterans whom Germany, in her present low financial state, is unable to care for properly. The president will accomplish this end by pouring the "beer evening" savings into the "Hindenburg fund," a charity endowment which was established in the former field marshal's honor on his 80th birthday two years ago.

Chancellor Herman Mueller and President of the Reichstag Dr. Paul Loebe, announced they would follow the presidential example, donating the beer money saved to various charitable enterprises for Germany's destitute jobless.

ANNUL MARRIAGE OF GIRL AFTER BEING KIDNAPED

Mary Chambers Manolis, 18 years old, 518 North Green street, yesterday was granted an annulment of her marriage to Thomas Manolis by Superior Judge Sabath. She testified that she had been kidnaped and forced to go through a marriage at the point of a revolver.

She said she was kidnaped at Halsted street and Chicago avenue on Sept. 15, 1927. She was driven to Crown Point by Manolis and two other men who drew guns. After the wedding she was brought to a rooming house on Blackstone avenue. She locked herself in a room for a week to keep away from Manolis. She was found by her mother, who had been told of her captivity by one of the kidnappers. Manolis has since fled to Europe.

HIT BY STREET CAR; DIES.

Miss Jane Mullen, 52 years old, a nurse of 522 Surf street died yesterday in the county hospital of injuries suffered two weeks ago when a Clark street car struck her as she crossed Center street.

CAPTAIN TELLS HOW REDS CONDEMNED HIM AFTER MERCY ERRAND

An example of soviet bad faith was related at a luncheon of the Executives' club yesterday at the Hotel Sherman by Capt. Sigurdur K. Gudmundson, a grizzled mariner, now retired.

He was in command of the ship Polar Bear in the port of Nome, Alaska, some years ago when, in answer to the plea of the head of the Siberian council of the soviet, he outfitted the ship with medicine and supplies to go to the rescue of the Russian naval ship Atavrapool, lost for a year in the Arctic sea.

He reached the stricken ship in time to save a majority of the crew and was rewarded for his pains when the Red confiscated his own vessel and took him, a prisoner, to the soviet Siberian headquarters where he was tried for piracy and condemned to death. The captain escaped from a dungeon and escaped from Russia, disguised as a bolshevik, he said.

FANNIE MAY DIVORCE WAR ON IN FLORIDA

The suit of Mrs. Mildred King Archibald to set aside the Florida divorce decree granted a year ago to H. Teller Archibald, head of the Fannie May candy shops, was argued yesterday in Circuit court at Miami.

Mrs. Archibald, who declares that she was the founder of the Fannie May candy business, charges that her husband was not a resident of Dade county, Florida, when he obtained the divorce and that she was not served properly with notice of the proceedings. A demurrer, challenging these statements, was filed by counsel for Archibald.

A short time before Archibald obtained the Florida divorce his wife filed suit for separate maintenance in the Superior court here, charging desertion. The bill also asked an accounting for the estimated $300,000 annual income from the candy business on the allegation that she financed the business at its inception.

The Archibalds were married in 1901 and separated in 1926. After the Florida divorce Archibald married Miss Dorothy Wooden of Washington, D. C.

Hazlitt, Dead 100 Years, Still Lives as Critic

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—This year sees the centenary of the death of William Hazlitt. I never pass the house in Frith street, Soho, which bears the tablet announcing that Hazlitt lived there, without a feeling of reverence; for Hazlitt is one of the best writers of the nineteenth century.

MICHAEL SADLEIR.

It is with great pleasure that I learn of Messrs. J. M. Dents' decision to bring out a new complete edition of Hazlitt's works, under the editorship of P. P. Howe. The basis of this new edition will be the old Waller-Glover limited edition, of which America had 500 sets and England the same number; but Mr. Howe is now the best living authority on Hazlitt, and enthusiasts already owe him a great debt for his two volumes of "discoveries" of writings by Hazlitt which had escaped the attention of Waller and Glover.

These discoveries will be included in the centenary edition, to be published, I believe, in 24 volumes. Mr. Howe is the author of the standard "Life" of Hazlitt. He wrote, before the war, critical studies of J. M. Synge and Bernard Shaw, and a very brilliant volume of criticisms of leading dramatists of that period, entitled "Dramatic Portraits."

If he chose he could give us a survey of the modern drama as erudite as any that could be written. But for many years now he has been absorbed in the study of Hazlitt, so that he is a walking encyclopædia to the works of the master. The "Life" was begun before Mr. Howe went to the great war, was then laid aside for four years, and was completed after the armistice.

Michael Sadleir, whose studies in Victorian authors have been of the greatest value, is engaged upon a long and elaborate biography of another "eminent Victorian"; but first he is going to publish a small collection of the essays which he has written from time to time upon different aspects of the publishing trade. This little book will be ready shortly; the biography will not be available for some months.

In the meanwhile Mr. Sadleir's firm, Messrs. Constable, is upon the point of bringing out in England the American success, "Laughing Boy." If it does as well as its companion in the American best seller lists of last autumn, "A Farewell to Arms," it will have a great success. "A Farewell to Arms" still is being read with enthusiasm; and it has even been made the subject of printed cries of horror in the newspapers. But in that respect it is in no way unusual, for even such a book as "A High Wind in Jamaica" ["The Innocent Voyage"] caused lengthy newspaper correspondence among shocked readers.

There is a great run upon the newest war book, "Her Privates We," published anonymously, and attributed to Col. Lawrence. It is said to be the very last word in accuracy. Rumor was busy with it months before publication, and rumor is still busy.

THORNTON WILDER'S LATEST NOVEL WILL BE READY FEB. 21

Official word has just reached us about the publication date of Thornton Wilder's novel. "The Woman of Andros" it is to be called and it will be published "on or about the 21st of February."

There are three unusual features of its publication. First, there is to be no limited edition; the first printing includes all orders [from booksellers] received prior to Feb. 1. That probably will mean that the first edition will have a printing of something from fifty to a hundred thousand. Second, three offers to serialize it have been refused by the author, so that as you storm the bookshops on Feb. 21 [on or about] you will get the first words of it to appear anywhere.

Third, "The Woman of Andros" will not be submitted to any book club. But the best news of all wasn't contained in the letter, but is: "Thornton Wilder will come to the University of Chicago to give a course in the English department during the spring term, which begins March 31."

Louis XI. Now Appears as France Maker

In Briton's Book Entitled "King Spider."

BY ALFRED KREYMBORG.

"King Spider," by D. B. Wyndham Lewis [Coward-McCann].

In "King Spider," D. B. Wyndham Lewis has attempted "neither a biography of Louis XI. nor a chronicle of his packed reign." He has written instead an enthusiastic series of chapters or papers revealing the dramatic rise of the amazingly subtle Capet.

Despite the glorious work of Joan of Arc in setting Louis' father, Charles VII., back on the throne, France still was a feeble state, more than half of whose territories were ruled by dukes and princes, some of whom still were in league with the traditional enemy across the channel.

Charles, ably aided by a dauphin who hated his father and conspired against him, won back further territory after St. Joan's death, but it remained for the crafty Louis to rehabilitate and reunite France and set her on her modern road.

The ageing Charles fell into the clutches of mistresses and rapidly degenerated as a leader of men. Louis never was ordered by any woman, wife or concubine. He was in love solely with France, and, from his earliest years, bent his extraordinary mind to the conquest of the dukes (mostly through war) and the removal of the English (through peace, the hundred years peace). He literally was the single handed creator of the France we know, love and respect, and the ablest of the long line that fell when Marie Antoinette lost her lovely head.

In the eyes of future historians and romantic novelists and poets, Louis was "a universal spider." They describe him as a creature of crooked moves and shifts by no means worthy of moral admiration. In his youth a fugitive from his father, Louis accepted the hospitality of his uncle, the duke of Burgundy, the most powerful ruler in France, and remained there six years, during which time he plotted not alone against his sire but against his host.

As soon as Charles died and the duke crowned Louis at Reims the poorly dressed young king, duly grateful to his glittering uncle, set out upon the destruction of the duke and the other great princes. By a series of strategic moves, some of them warlike, others peaceful, and most of them thoroughly hypocritical, "the spider" resembled a profound chess master dealing with complicated situations with complete subtlety and patience. No king ever was confronted with a more varied succession of hopeless looking situations. But this king was the possessor of a weapon far above the heads, the armies and the wealth of his opponents: namely, the highest intelligence of his age. His devout Catholicism, his loyalty to the people, his enmity to the upper classes, his incredible double dealings, his pacts true and false, these and many other factors were subservient to his intelligence, and that intelligence served but one master or pair of masters: himself and France.

It has been the task of the author of "King Spider" to refute the many charges of evil brought against Louis. His enthusiasm carries him into idolatry at times, however, and his attacks on later historians and fictionists are often too drastic.

The 15th century background, a maze of fascinating contradictions, is drawn with rare power and skill. We get a vivid, mounting impression of a dark France, divided among prelates, clean and unclean, of the houses of Burgundy, Orleans, Brittany, of the growing middle class which Louis made his own, and of the terrific bandits and riffraff who terrorized rulers and people alike. Many of the single portraits woven into the texture of the narrative are positively thrilling. The best portrait of all is the unforgettable Commynes. In contrast with Commynes, there is a rollicking chapter on the Merry Book of Genappe—the best chapter in the volume.

Mr. Wyndham Lewis is particularly incensed with the critics of Catholicism, and his book is even more a defense of the church than it is of "King Spider."

Gossip Among Various Authors in New York

With Due Attention to Teas, Novels.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—There are two ways to achieve the literary limelight. Write and make a name for yourself. Or vice versa.

Latest exponent of the latter method, Peggy Hopkins Joyce ("Men, Marriage, and Me")—fair haired, rose leaf complexioned, wearing one or two of the diamonds and a subtly simple black velvet frock—was guest of honor at a tea given by her publishers, the Macaulay company, at the Ritz-Carlton on Wednesday afternoon.

Gay was the tea party and crowded as a night club . . . jazz orchestra for dancing . . . tables at which the world parked his wife and made the most of the cut-in system . . . sustenance in liquid and sandwich form . . . thick haze from cigarets which, for Manhattanites, is the pure air of enjoyment . . .

Julia Peterkin was there . . . also William Bolitho, Princess Gervee Baronti, Robert Nathan, James Thurber, Lewis Mumford, Malcolm Cowley . . . lots and lots of Broadway names . . . all the literary press.

And the new author, Don Ryan—tall, well built young man with his own individual nuance as to petit mustache—whose Hollywood tale, "A Roman Holiday," might never have been written, he says, had he not worked at one time for a certain movie director who specializes in "horse operas." Searching for cowboy material in the book catalogs, this gentleman sent for Spengler's "Decline of the West." The German philosopher couldn't be filmed, but he gave Don the theme for his book.

From the Peggy Joyce party a procession of taxis went to Irita Van Doren's house—there to celebrate Blair Niles' and her first novel, "Free," that day off the press. Red, a favorite color, becomes Miss Niles' rather bold features and bright, dark eyes. She is enthusiastic over the freedom afforded by the form of the novel. "Devil's Island," had, of course, to be written chiefly from the on-looker viewpoint.

Short stories tether one by their very shortness. "But the novel gives complete scope to the writer's imagination and intuition. It offers the soaring limits of the sky—your flight depends on your wings."

Publisher announcements indicate the growing vogue of Colette . . . last year's "Cherie" is to be followed this year by translations of "La Vagabond," "L'Ingenue Libertine," and "Claudine," each issued by a different firm . . . And speaking of growing vogues, take note of Humanism.

Two books on this new philosophical cult are being rushed through the presses for our enlightenment . . . In the meantime there is Robert Shafer's pro-Humanism article in the current Bookman replying to Allen Tate's anti-Humanism article in the July London Criterion. Read Shafer's last paragraph if you want to learn how to "call names" in true academic fashion.

Lincoln Myths Lure Ludwig, View of Lewis

Latest Biography Conceded Many Good Points.

BY LLOYD LEWIS.

[Author of "Myths After Lincoln."]

"Lincoln," by Emil Ludwig. [Little-Brown.]

Like the successful entertainer that he is, confident from sustained popularity, Emil Ludwig approaches his American public with many a gracious apology and modest self-recommendation as he comes upon the literary stage to introduce his latest creation, "Lincoln."

"For a foreigner to attempt to write the biography of a country's national hero is at best a difficult and a dangerous task," he says in his preface. . . . "I beg my American readers to consider the portrait as a whole and not to be too critical of minute parts . . . I am sure that my American friends are not expecting me to give them a new Lincoln . . . but rather to present Lincoln in a new historical method."

Mr. Ludwig's idea of a new historical method, it appears, is to write for the greater part of 500 pages in the present tense.

When a writer of Ludwig's technical ability sets out to write in the present tense he is sure to achieve vividness, and his "Lincoln" is a story of large and easy charm—big, glib, engaging, unmemorable. It is "clever" in the old American sense of the term, affable, pleasant, smooth, entertaining, rather than instructive, interesting instead of informing or absorbing. Superficial though it may be, it holds surprisingly few errors considering that it comes from a man unacquainted with the American scene.

What Ludwig has obviously done has been to take the most popular American works on Lincoln back to Germany with him and use them for his sources—a wise procedure under the circumstances, but one that makes his book seem like the examination paper of a student who has memorized the right answers without ever having understood how the problems were worked.

So long as he is dealing with Lincoln's private characteristics, such as his gentle irony and deftly hidden skepticism, Ludwig is an understanding biographer. Such phases of his subject the author can catch from recorded speeches and conversations, but when the writer attempts to explain, on a similarly narrow basis of observation, certain of the war President's acts in the White House, he descends to the level of a romanticist drawing a highly colored picture for Sunday school children.

As an instance, Ludwig would have Lincoln's inborn superstition and sentimentality as the paramount forces behind the emancipation proclamation. He overvalues, for his purpose, Lincoln's reputed passion against human bondage—a passion that he, with certain American writers, believes burned intensely in Lincoln from boyhood upwards.

Ludwig finds the key for this in a statement made by Lincoln to his cabinet, a statement that, during the invasion of confederates in midsummer, 1862, he had promised to himself and "to my Maker" that he would issue a proclamation of emancipation when the rebel army was driven out of Maryland.

Says Ludwig: "He made a vow born of faith and superstition. . . . Like all great men at decisive moments and in desperate emergencies, he was prone to guide his footsteps through the confusion of events by secret directives, pointers, and stars."

While it is true that Lincoln did have some minor traits of woodland superstition about him and was fond of discussing in a gossiping fashion his bad dreams and wondering about their possible significance, he was not one to be moved on drastic measures by anything much but realism. The importance of his superstitions was magnified out of all reason by worshipers who, after his martyrdom, felt that he had been superhuman, if not supernatural.

While there can be no question as to Lincoln's lifelong disapproval of slavery, it is obvious that he scrupulously refrained from allowing his likes and dislikes to complicate his course in administrative justice. He said slavery was wrong, but he studiously avoided aligning himself with the Anti-Slavery party; so much so that from pulpit, editorial desk, and United States senate halls the abolitionists denounced him as being at heart "a pro-slavery man." It, of course, gave his heart satisfaction when he liberated several million slaves, but there is no question that his primary and dominating motive was to save the Union, no matter who was hurt or who was pleased.

William E. Dodd, best equipped and informed of American civil war authorities, makes it clear that Lincoln issued the proclamation at a time most strategic for the purpose of preventing European rulers from recognizing the confederacy and thus sealing the Union's doom. The emancipation was a master stroke of world politics, performed to show foreign masses that the cause of Lincoln was at one with liberty, equality, and fraternity. As such it was profoundly successful.

Where Ludwig's present tense method is most effective is in his narration of Lincoln anecdotes, sayings, ways of handling people. These he describes in a manner more popular, perhaps, than that employed by any American to date. His explanation of Lincoln's melancholy is undoubtedly more to the general taste than that given by the partners of the Illinois lawyer. They thought a great part of it came from his bad digestion and sluggish secretions.

The book holds temperate, eloquent, correctly sequenced pictures of Lincoln's youth, married life, experiences on the circuit, and his personal habits, all of which rise here in their familiar outlines. Readers who want, first of all, a heroic Lincoln will find him so.

On the whole, Ludwig's picture of Lincoln will, no doubt, fascinate European readers who are now receiving it in many translations, and it is sure to entertain those Americans who want their Lincoln served in the form of light summer reading.

Peggy Joyce Shows Fate Prefers Blonde

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

Julia Peterkin and I were leaving the Peggy Hopkins Joyce party together. "Miss Joyce," as she so naively calls herself [having, to date, had only a minimum of four husbands], had lured everybody in literary and Bohemian New York to her coming out party as an author. She turned on her charm to a fellow author.

PEGGY JOYCE.

She greeted Julia Peterkin. "Mrs. Peterkin, I'm so happy to meet you. We're both from the south [pronounced sooth], you know, and we ought to be very congenial."

"Sisters under the skin food," somebody translated it. Anyway, Julia Peterkin, who looks like nobody else in the world, with a tallness that is almost majestic, and blue eyes and red vibrant hair that sing a harmony, and has something about her that you'd never forget if you met even on the upper reaches of the Amazon—Julia Peterkin, was saying a little wistfully, "It must be wonderful to be as pretty as Peggy Joyce."

"Would you know her if you saw her on Park avenue tomorrow?" I asked. "Or would she be just another of the blondes that gentlemen prefer?"

And how they preferred the blonde called Peggy she herself tells in her life history frankly labeled "Men, Marriage and Me." It was the most talked of book of the moment in New York [before publication last Wednesday], what with Peggy turning lit'ry, and saying [in it] that she is going to write a novel, and what with the gentlemen mentioned and not mentioned rushing for copies to confirm their worst fears, and what with every one speculating about who really wrote it.

Whoever did made a swell joke out of the heroine. She is as naive as Lorelei Lee. In fact, if "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" hadn't preceded it, any one might say this was the source book of that screamer. The book is an amplification of a diary, which she actually did keep, but which, so those in the know whisper to you, has to be kept in a safety deposit box, a fireproof one. Names and dates and particulars fill it.

Not so "Men, Marriage and Me." All of the gentlemen in it have toward her the most exalted intentions. There isn't a "strictly dishonorable" one among them. Jewels, sables, and other bouquets worn by the poor working girl are fragrant offerings to her pure and exalted beauty. They all want to marry her, and it breaks her heart that she can't make them all happy. She naively tells of a week in New York in which she spent a million dollars on clothes and jewelry (when she was married to Joyce), and of a dear, sweet friend of hers who, after giving her a villa on the Mediterranean, furnishing it with priceless antiques and providing her with luxuries incredible, misunderstood her when she lost her temper and had a fight with him because he told her he would have to curtail his expenses for a little while. The book is an epic of feminine accomplishment, measured in carats and pelts. It starts out to bore you. It ends by giving you one of the biggest laughs of the year.

It had its advantages on a train from Boston to Chicago. It made one speculate on its fate in the city of the Watch and Ward. It would be just like the keepers of Boston's morals to suppress it. But, except for a sentence or two, they will find it extremely difficult to hang the author, the publisher, or the bookseller for its contents. "Miss Joyce" and her ghost writer have made the little girl just a sweet, misunderstood, unappreciated little thing whom life has treated harshly ever since her first husband took advantage of her innocence by persuading her to marry him.

Two Australian Women Win Prize with Book

"A House Is Built" [Harcourt-Brace] was the winner of a prize of £1,000 offered by the Sydney Bulletin for the best book submitted by an Australian writer. It was signed M. Bernard Eldershaw and proved to have been written by two women, graduates of Sydney university, Miss Eldershaw and Miss Bernard. It received high praise from Arnold Bennett in England. He said there were two curious and satisfactory things about it—first, it gave no external sign of collaboration, it was an entity and a unity, and, second, that it is not often that a truly fine piece of work takes first prize in such a competition.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Arts club placed three interesting exhibitions on view yesterday. The one which will find the most ready acceptance is that of "Black Plastic" by Ugo Mochi. Black plastic resolved into plain English is the silhouette, but as Mochi does it, it is as unlike the usual cut work as anything one can imagine. Ugo Mochi is a sculptor by profession and he chooses to play in this fragile medium. His backgrounds are subtly colored fabrics, silks and nets, and on this background his exquisitely spirited characters, animals, trees, people, stand out in beautiful and exact relief. One of the larger panels shows the artist's projected design for a gate to the Chicago Zoölogical park; in fact, there are two of these projects, each fascinating in its grouping of mountain goats and birds, with, for post tops, cheerful and saucy little squirrels.

The paintings by Norman Jacobson come as rather a rough shock to a mind attuned to silhouettes. Still, after a moment, they make their own appeal. Mr. Jacobson's long suit is his sense of humor. A general impression gives the room as foggy; fogged by plump bodies and robust color and a huge appetite for life.

These paintings must be taken separately to be enjoyed. Patience will reward one with many a good cause for a chuckle. Probably "South Sea Isle" is the richest tit-bit. The blonde and bearded male tourist is in a pink bathing suit; his porty spouse sits exhausted on the ground turning up a face from which the smile will never be wiped, and displaying in the innocent abandon of her position the fringes and more of a scant garment which a reticent disposal of her legs would have concealed. The South Sea Island air is certainly there.

The "Burlesque Try-Out" is another very amusing canvas; the "Opera Singer" is insolent and capitally painted, though her face belongs more to the café than the grand opera stage; the "Bull Fight" is glorious, both the hurtling figure fleeing to safety from the upraised horns, and the faces of the audience, Goyaesk in their humanness. "Daddy Goes a-Hunting" is a puppet play, humorously attractive. The portrait of "Guy Pene Du Bois" is one of the best things in the exhibit.

The paintings by Emile-Othon Friesz are in the adjoining gallery and leave one with a confused impression of blue water and gray skies. Many of the canvases are of shipping, chiefly sailing vessels. The "Woman with a Jug" has warm color. In the "Kite" the woman seated and the one reclining are not tied to the ground; they might sail up themselves at any second. "The Wake," "Clouds" and "Garden, 22" are the best of this show. Segonzac and Signac fathered many of the paintings. The exhibitions will run to Feb. 21.

Heirs of Donor Seek Covered Wagon Relief Fund, Now Million

St. Louis, Mo., Feb. 7.—(AP)—A court interpretation of where "the west" begins is asked in the trial here of a suit over a $1,000,000 charity fund created eighty years ago by Byran Mullanphy, then mayor, for the aid of westward travelers. The question is raised now before Circuit Judge Pearcy.

Mullanphy, son of John Mullanphy, cotton speculator, gave in trust $200,000 in 1849 to the city of St. Louis "to constitute a fund to furnish relief to all poor emigrants and travelers coming to St. Louis on their way to settle in the west." He died two years later.

The fund now exceeds $1,000,000, and eighteen living heirs seek to dissolve the trust on the ground that the original condition cannot be fulfilled because there are no more poor emigrants going west. The heirs want the money divided among them.

The city and the state attorney general's office contend that Mullanphy's will made no provision for any reversion of the property to heirs and suggest the fund be used for other charitable purposes, not inconsistent with the testator's intent, and be used as a general fund to aid stranded travelers.

Antoinette Gives Makeup Tips to the Older Woman

by Gabrielle Donnay

I caught a notation in one of the papers the other day to the effect that the average woman spends some fifty odd dollars on her cosmetic articles per annum to three dollars spent on tooth pastes, powders, etc.

As I have no definite authority for the statement, I'll let it stand as is.

What I planned to do today was to appeal to the older woman with the $50 to spend and to urge that she use a little more moderation in her paint outlay.

Youth can paint its face vivid as a signboard and the worst that it will earn is a laugh for its flamboyancy. But changes do occur in the skin and in the coloring of the eyes and hair, so that the same color liberties cannot be taken when one is past the gay young period. Of all the pathetic sights, it is commonly voted, the old-ish woman painted up like a crimson sunset is just one of the most tragic. The attempt at youth recapture is lost completely because where the natural flesh peers through the neighboring color casts additionally ageing aspersions upon it. No one is fooled with the loud camouflage.

Use makeup. Use it for two reasons—first, because it can be made to serve its legitimate purpose and second, because there does not breathe a woman with soul so dead that she does not feel the tug on the purse strings of a tempting bit of pigment.

The mistake commonly made by the older woman is that she ignores the the dryness that comes to most skins with the advancing years. Upon a dry surface, then, she daubs her colors, and adjusts them faultily. A faint flush of cheek and lip is all she wants, never a florid tinting. And this is most easily acquired if the foundation cream is applied first, the delicate bit of coloring next and the powder gently rubbed over that.

Refinement, after all, is the beauty of age—and it must be brought into makeup practices as well as dress and conduct. Always one must remember that eye dimming that comes with time, and that it is best never to dare the eye to shine in close proximity to a brilliant splotch of red cheek.

Schools' Art Society.

The annual meeting of the Chicago Public School Art society will be held today at the Arts club in the Wrigley building. The society was founded thirty-six years ago for the purpose of placing art masterpieces in the public schools. With the coöperation of the Art institute nearly 600 prints were given to the schools by the society last year. Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan will be guest of honor at the meeting which has been arranged by Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, president.

Best Not Interfere in Love Triangle, Advises Doris Blake

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"What would you do? A young man makes love to a girl. They go everywhere together for months. Then he falls ill, has an operation, and needs assistance, so Mary takes him into her apartment along with an elderly relative for chaperonage.

"He professes his love for her and Mary adores him. She is a girl of high salary and, of course, is practically supporting him until he is able to resume work. What money he has has to go for bills, clothes, and so, but he pays no board or rent money.

"In the meantime, he meets an old friend, takes her out to lunch, matinée, and buys her gifts. Mary believes he is out with some men friends and has the most implicit faith in the man and his protestations of love. The other girl laughs about it all. She is not in love with him.

"Mary believes when he gets back to good health he will get a good job and they will be married. She has received no gifts; nothing in the way of appreciation. Florence likes him and he loves her. He likes Mary and Mary loves him. As a friend of them all, what would you do?

"ALICE GREY."

As a friend of them all, I suppose the best thing is to keep out of the problem entirely. It usually is the wisest course. There's little appreciation for a friend who comes bearing ill news. And what more ill than a disclosure of disloyalty! Besides, the Marys usually do receive exactly that sort of treatment.

I am not cynical about men, but they do so often show ingratitude toward the woman who is overanxious to help them that the wise girl thinks a few times before she puts herself in the position of being the butt of a cruel situation. There's something ornery in human nature that makes the state of being grateful a stinging thing.

And with most men it is not the girl who makes the sacrifices, but the one who exacts them that gets the devotion. There's something just a bit unfair, too, about putting a person in a position of indebtedness with love as the hopeful outcome. Anyway, love is something a girl can't control by sacrifices she is willing to make or does make for a man.

Asks for Riding Boots.

"I am a young girl of 18 working to support my mother and myself. I love horseback riding but my circumstances wil not allow me to buy riding boots. If one of your readers has a pair to give, size 4½ or 5, I would be most grateful for them. R. B."

Does your wardrobe include an extra pair of riding boots which would fit this young equestrienne? Or perhaps you are planning to invest in new ones and will give those you are discarding to her. It is a handicap to be without the necessary equipment.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Winter Strawberries.

The winter strawberries are hard and acid things in general, or always in part. Because they are so firm we can therefore give them stern treatment in order to make them perfectly wholesome.

We cannot see it, but practically all market berries are decidedly dirty, and contain on their surface invisible forms of dirt that are risky, yet these same berries washed and sterilized can be used to make attractive garnishes for our dessert creams, or they can be sliced and stand with sugar so that they can be eaten with cream with a good deal of enjoyment. Or they may be glazed and put into little tart shells.

First, and last, we hear of many skin troubles that come from the first eating of strawberries, and it, is my own conviction that this trouble is usually due to the invisible dirt on them. To begin with, when strawberry plants are set out they are usually packed in stable straw. Then, another reason for dirt is that strawberry pickers are not likely to have good facilities for having immaculate hands, nor any that can be within a long distance of being surgically clean.

Another form of dirt common on strawberries is that of the dust of stores, and, what we might have placed first, they come to us with some of the soil on them in which they were grown. When it is sand we notice it quickly enough and try to get it off by dousing them in cold water. But dousing is not an effective method, after all.

To make the strawberries immaculate, wash them first in cold water, then dash enough boiling water over them, pouring it off instantly, to sterilize them. They should be well spread out before the water is put over them so that each one gets fair treatment. Good, firm berries will come out bright and plump without any softening after such a treatment, and far safer for people to eat during the period of low endurance than berries which are merely washed. Utterly clean foods have other virtues, also, besides those of not endangering our health.

Often part of a quart box of strawberries may be cooked to advantage, in which case the first washing is all that is necessary.

Paris Smartens the "Woolies" for St. Moritz

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence]—A girl can learn quite a few things about chic, sitting on the snowy side lines of the skating rink at St. Moritz this season. The first great fact that filters through is that the cachet of the mighty style aristocrats, now having a play day at this resort, is a mighty comfortable thing. That's a comforting knowledge, knowing that there's both beauty and comfort in fashions, and this is demonstrated before the naked eyes of the spectators.

What the English call "woolies" are worn everywhere, but in passing by Paris they have lost their shapelessness and become smart. Great, big tweeds make the coats that women wear over their skating and skiing costumes. These materials are made up into wraps with lines of an astonishing chic, and they haven't sacrificed an inch of their practicability, either. Some of these coats that I saw at St. Moritz are certainly going to emigrate to the far corners of the earth before many more months.

One particular kind of tweed coat [the thickest and most wooly of that breed of cloth] is conspicuous for its style. It reminds you of the coats that the Cossacks wear, in a vague way, but it has a chic of its own that has just been originated. This novel and pleasing aspect arises from a new way of placing the belt and from a new way of buttoning the coat, but most of all from the side lines, which are different. I've had it sketched for you in Paris so you may see for yourself.

The tweed of which this coat is made is beige and dahlia, in a diagonal stripe pattern. It is cut princess, and is flared at the side by set-on godets that begin at an empire waistline. The belt that is placed at the normal waistline across the back passes under these godets at the sides and makes them stand out.

The coat is closed by four buttoned down tabs down the center front, and two buttoned tabs are placed at the center back and on each sleeve for ornamentation.

It take little interest in city elections. My boss had come to this city too late to vote in the last election, but being interested in the proposed city zoning restrictions, he asked me if I would be willing to vote for zoning.

I answered that I had never heard of Mr. Zoning, but would be glad to vote for him if it would be such a favor.

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Rutledge, accompanied by Slim Hart, is sent out with a herd of cattle to fulfill a contract made by his father, Chandler Rutledge. On the trail they are overtaken by some men from the Moss outfit, enemies of Rutledge. The Moss men start a stampede and drive off some of the Rutledge cattle. Jim recovers them, but in doing so shoots and injures one of the Moss raiders. The men of the Moss outfit swear to be revenged for the injury and pursue him. Jim takes refuge in a ranch house, where he finds Ellen Lawson alone in the house. She hides him when the Moss gang comes to the door inquiring for him and sends them off on another trail, even though she learns that he has injured her brother. Jim rides on into the town, after saving Ellen from the unwelcome attentions of Pete Moss. Shear, the town marshal, threatens to arrest him for the attack on Steve Lawson, but Harrison Pendleton, an old trail driver, arrives on the scene in time to save him from arrest. Shortly afterward Shear kills Doc Brown, who, he claimed, had threatened his life. This causes a great deal of excitement in the little cattle town. Jim meets Sackville, who is buying his cattle and who offers him a job with him.

INSTALLMENT XII.

THE PIRATE.

"All right. Spill any you have."

"Of man Moss is in town. At the K. C. house. Four—five of yore Circle R boys rode in a while ago an' they sure been tankin' up, Mr. Rutledge. Had pleasure of drink or two with them myself."

Jerry continued to unload his budget. "Young fellow you shot down the trail—red headed guy called Steve Lawson—is in a poker game downstairs with Joe Shear. He's sure gettin' skinned plenty. Mostly the big games are off in private rooms, but this one started kinda small an' gathered most, as you might say."

Jerry grinned. He had discovered that he was unconsciously a wit. "Gathered Pete Moss," he explained.

Pendleton looked at Jim. "Got that little difference patched up maybe," he said. "Such loving friends as Joe Shear an' the Moss outfit ought not to let any angry feelings disturb their harmony."

"Sam Moss isn't playing?" Jim asked.

"No, sir. I ain't seen Sam." Having proved himself a humorist, Jerry proceeded to leave no doubt of it. "If you want to see Joe Shear a lamb you better drap in downstairs."

Jim rose. "Not interested. Where did you see my waddies raising hell?"

"Why did you send some one in? Don't you know what kind of a place it is?"

"At the Green Parrot. But they're making the rounds.

"I'll go round 'em up," Jim said. "Much obliged for yore trouble, Jerry. See you tomorrow, Mr. Pendleton."

As Jim left the room the orchestra downstairs was playing "Old Dan Tucker." By the time he had reached the street the dance was over and the music had died down. He stood for a moment in the doorway hesitating as to which way to go. He did not want to make a round of the saloons, for that would increase the chance of meeting his enemies. If Jerry had been a little less lit up he would have gone back to get him as a scout to find the Circle R cowboys.

While he stood there uncertain what to do, watching the stream of life that seemed to be tossed up and down the crowded thoroughfare, a woman crossed the road and passed through the swing doors into the Longhorn. Jim caught only one swift glimpse of her as she disappeared, but that was enough to startle him. Surely that quick animal grace, that light freedom of movement, could belong to no other woman than Ellen Lawson. Of course, he must be wrong. He realized that. It could not be she. No good woman ever went into a dance hall. It was forbidden territory. And yet—he could almost have sworn that this was Ellen.

He pushed through the swing doors into the Longhorn. His eyes swept the big crowded room and did not find the woman for whom they sought. She had been swallowed up in that vortex of milling humanity. The scene was one that could have been duplicated only on the frontier. Laborer and cowpuncher, mule skinner and floater, moved to and fro. Hard eyed professional gamblers presided at faro and roulette and chuck-a-luck games to fleece the cowboys released from the hardship of the trail and eager to spend what they had earned or double it. Dance hall girls in short dresses wheedled drunken men to buy champagne for them. Passions showed themselves raw and uncurbed. Cold avarice and hot lust, the gay good temper of youth, wild recklessness, the wariness of cold cupidity, were reflected in one or another of the faces upon which Jim looked.

Then he saw the girl whom he had followed into the dance hall—and again the sight of her shocked him. For the girl was Ellen Lawson. She stood by herself, near the front of the room, trying to make herself inconspicuous. She was frightened, aghast at the garish place in which she found herself.

A man moved toward her. Evidently he was asking her to take a drink or to dance. She shrank back against the wall.

The man speaking to Ellen wore the costume of an eighteenth century buccaneer. His turban was Roman striped. A scarlet sash, knotted around the waist, contrasted strikingly with the blue pantaloons. A black beard and long mustachios covered the face to the cheek bones. Over one eye was a green patch.

"Zounds, madam! 'Tis Blackbeard—the great Teach in person, king of all the pirate crew," Jim heard him say. "Tread a measure with him—and tell the story to your grandchildren."

"I—I do not want to dance, please," the girl murmured.

"But with Blackbeard," he protested in an assumed voice that came from the chest, and twirled the end of a mustachio fiercely.

Jim spoke in the vein adopted by the man. "Up anchor and unfurl sails, Blackbeard, or shiver my timbers! I'll sink you fifty fathoms deep."

The pirate was above medium height, slender, and not ungraceful of posture. The single eye that turned to observe Jim was a very light gray.

"Blood and thunder, fellow! Who are you that throws a challenge at Blackbeard?" he demanded. "Would ye walk the plank, young sir?"

Blackbeard threw out a hand in token of surrender, while the fingers of his other hand clutched, in burlesque melodrama, the handle of a knife fastened to his side.

"A day will come," he said darkly, bowed to the girl, and backed away.

"Who is he?" Ellen asked in a low voice.

"I don't know. It doesn't matter." Jim spoke impatiently, his mind pushing on to the question troubling him. "What are you doing here?"

At sight of him her eyes had flung out lights of gladness. She felt less helpless in this dreadful place. He would know what to do. But the stern note in his voice drenched the relief and was a counter-irritant to her shame.

"I came to find Steve," she said, on the defensive.

"I had to come," she answered sulkily.

"That's tommyrot. You can't be so dumb as not to know better than that. You ought to be shut up on bread and water for a week. If I was yore dad—"

"You'd whip me," she finished for him. "Well, you're not."

"You shouldn't have come. I'll take you out right now," he said, exasperated.

"No, you won't," Ellen replied, very quietly. She was looking at him with a surprisingly stubborn expression.

"I'm not going till I see Steve."

"Why didn't you send some one in? Don't you know what kind of a place it is? Haven't you been taught anything?"

"I've got to see my brother. He's here—gambling."

"Go outside and wait. I'll bring him to you."

"He won't come, unless I can see him a minute myself."

★ ★

Presented at the United Artists' theater.

THE CAST.
[Features 77 Well Known Players.]

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

The movie revue phase was ushered in by "Fox Movietone Follies." Since then we have had bigger and better productions of the kind, also, smaller and worse. "The Show of Shows" is the biggest of the clan and is good entertainment because of the varied talent it presents, some gorgeous ensembles and a great deal [too much in fact] of beautiful dancing.

The picture's drawbacks are unwieldy length, unoriginality of sketch material, and lack of laugh numbers. Many numbers intended as laugh numbers fail to realize their hoped for response.

Who are the who's in this Who's Who? Far too many to permit us a roll call in this column. But among those present are, John Barrymore, Richard Barthelmess, Beatrice Lille, Winnie Lightner, Nick Lucas, Ted Lewis, Bull Montana, Chester Morris, Louise Fazenda, Rin-Tin-Tin—O, such a lot of folks you know!

John Barrymore's delivery of Gloucester's soliloquy from "Henry VI." is easily the most effective bit on the program. He appears in ordinary street clothes and tells you what he's going to do, disappears and, in the twinkling of an eye the distorted body and malignant face of Gloucester are before you. Clad in a coat of mail, crouching atop a crag composed of dead bodies, the hideousness of him flung against a fiery sky, he delivers his ominous lines and makes your blood run cold.

This character work is what Mr. Barrymore should be doing. Relieved of the necessity of appearing young and presenting his cameo profile to the camera, he demonstrates the genius we had almost forgotten he possesses.

Well, let's see: Irene Bordoni sings one of her hot, hungry songs. Richard Barthelmess in a little speech introduces the sister teams of Hollywood—the Costello girls, Alice and Marceline Day, Shirley Mason and Viola Dana, and so on. A Floradora sextette of screen ladies sings sweetly wondering what has become of their men partners of other days, whereat the gentlemen appear, and lo, time has not dealt too generously with them.

Nick Lucas croons and croons, besides appearing with Myrna Loy in a Chinese fantasy that is one of the most eye pleasing skits on the program. Rin-Tin-Tin barks heartily. Bull Montana roars out "Singing in the Bath Tub" with an unknown accent. Beatrice Lille obliges as does Winnie Lightner—neither lady being at her best—and I could go on and on only I won't.

No doubt about it, "The Show of Shows" cost Warner Brothers a pretty penny. They could have saved considerable by simplifying and shortening, but the boys just weren't in that sort of a mood, it seems.

There's one nice thing about revues such as this, you can walk in or out at any time without breaking a story thread.

Couzens Meets New Son-in-Law and They Like Each Other

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Margaret Couzens Chewning, 19 year old daughter of the multi-millionaire senator from Michigan, introduced her bank clerk husband of six days to her father today and prepared to set up housekeeping in a one room kitchenette and bath apartment. They eloped and were married in Baltimore last Saturday.

William Jeffries Chewning, the 26 year old bridegroom, made a good impression in the brief but warm first meeting with his father-in-law. Senator Couzens said afterward that he "seemed a very nice young man."

The bridegroom, however, still must do a bit of explaining after he and his wife are ensconced in their modest home. Senator Couzens is expecting him to do so in a "long, long talk," he said.

Newly painted and papered for them, the apartment in which the young Chewnings will live is one of 89 in a cooperatively owned building where radios must be tuned down not to sound louder than the ordinary speaking voice, where no unnecessary noise is permitted after 11 p. m., and where the rules provide "no cats, dogs or children under 12 years old."

Mrs. Chewning drove her husband to the palatial family residence early today in her own little automobile—the same they used for their wedding trip. Mrs. Couzens, who knew the bridegroom only slightly, welcomed them and regretted that a luncheon engagement with Mrs. Woodrow Wilson prevented a longer meeting.

The Chewnings telephoned the senator's office, and Frank Couzens, son of the senator, asked them to join him and the father. They drove to to the senate office building. Brother and brother-in-law were talking warmly when Senator Couzens joined them.

"What did your father say?" the white-haired senator smilingly asked his son-in-law.

"He said plenty," responded Chewning, "but it's all right now."

BEG YOUR PARDON

A notice on Feb. 6 of the divorce suit filed against W. J. Greenebaum by his wife, Mrs. Adah Stern Greenebaum, stated that he was a director of the Greenebaum Sons Investment company. According to Arthur A. Newfield, president of the company, Greenebaum was not reelected at the annual meeting on Jan. 13.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Mrs. Raymond Rogers, 7327 Clayton court, was awarded $5.

The Question.

The Answers.

George Sanger, 7619 Kingston avenue, circulation manager—If I ever got a chance to go to Europe, there wouldn't be anything that wouldn't interest me. Labor conditions would come first, the scenery next, then the customs of the people, the various modes of transportation.

Miss Vlasta Blecha, 1703 South Fisk street, high school student—Paris; I hear so much about it, so it must be interesting to see. I also would like to see the ruins in Rome. My father and mother were born in Czecho-Slovakia and I have a brother living there. My mother says that when cross-oceanic airplane trips are established she will take me over there in an airplane.

James Brigham, 1503 East 65th street, high school student—I would want to see about all of it. I think everybody who has the money and the time ought to see Europe. I would like most of all to see Vatican City, the Alhambra in Spain, as well as all of Paris and London.

Marie Franklin, 5140 Woodlawn avenue, secretary — Naturally I would like to step into Paris and do as much shopping as my purse would allow. I would get a big thrill if I could see my sister in Russia, whom I haven't seen since I was two years old, but we wouldn't be able to converse, because I can't speak Russian and she can't speak English.

Ellsworth E. Zook, 106 Michaux road, Riverside, Ill., lawyer—I have traveled over Europe considerably and the things that would be of greatest interest to me might not be of greatest interest to those taking their first trip there.

Chicago Fair Will Be Epic of Electricity

From Ben Franklin to Superpower Use.

From Ben Franklin, fiddling industriously with a kite and a key one stormy June night back in 1752, to the Chicago centennial of 1933 is a far cry. Yesterday a group of men at the Midland club spent the better part of one day planning how best to bridge the gap, and to present electricity as the marvel as well as the motive power of the coming World's Fair.

Tenative plans were far advanced when the group, comprising some of the country's ablest electrical engineers, disbanded last evening. The romance and the rapid evolution of the spark Franklin drew from the clouds will be portrayed for the layman in language he can understand and demonstrations he can grasp. The mystery as well as the mastery of electricity are to be demonstrated in a building that promises to be unique.

Three features of the decisions made by the engineers' committee, working under the auspices of the National Research council, stand out conspicuously in the plans.

First, the nature of the agency that lights their homes, cooks their meals, and takes thousands of them to work each morning will be expounded to world's fair visitors in the simplest terms.

Second, the potentialities of electricity, as for instance the actual demonstration of lightning striking a high tension wire of 220,000 volts, will be produced for the curious to witness.

Third, the demonstrations in the electricity building will be arranged on a series of stages, and when one has been finished, the floor and the audience will move on to the next.

Whether the plans for a circular building to house the electrical displays will be finally approved is undecided. Such a plan was submitted yesterday, but only partly approved by the committee, headed by R. F. Schurchardt of the Commonwealth Edison company. Thirty-two stages, with a moving circular floor to swing the audience from one stage to another, were suggested.

Somewhere in the electricity building will be arranged a miniature exhibit of the entire exposition grounds, demonstrating the lighting effects and the electric power used in each structure.

Visitors to the electricity division will find all sorts of buttons to push and switches to turn, starting and stopping numerous demonstrations of the uses to which man has put the harnessed lighting, according to the plans.

ONLY EIGHT DAYS ARE LEFT TO ENTER U. S. HISTORY CONTEST

With only eight days remaining until the dead line in THE TRIBUNE contest for the best 500 word history of the United States, entries mounted yesterday to a new high record. Several novelty offerings caught the history editor's eye. But as before, it was intimated that scholarly contributions, showing thought and study, would be given more attention than freak sketches.

The contest closes at midnight Feb. 15. To the writer winning first prize will be awarded $1,000. Second and third prizes will be $500 and $250, respectively, and seven additional prizes of $50 each will be awarded the next seven best entries. The contest was inspired by the agreement of former President Coolidge to write a 500 word American history to be carved upon the Mount Rushmore memorial in South Dakota.

One writer submitted a history in twenty words. If he won the first prize his contribution would be paid for at the rate of $50 a word, probably a world's record for high priced literature. The history editor again called attention to the fact that manuscripts may be of any length. Many historians, however, have claimed that the 500 word limit was too low to tell adequately the history of this country.

Another amateur historian went to the other limit. His contribution totaled 499 words, according to the judges' count, and to make an even 500 the writer had added in the word "amen."

One contributor, taking full advantage of the rules which set no limit on the number of histories which may be submitted, had sent in fourteen contributions up to yesterday and penned a note indicating that he was framing other sketches.

The youngest contributor noted so far has been an 8 year old school girl who began her history sketch with the reliable opening, "Once upon a time——". The judges said her contribution was remarkable for her age, but, of course, her sketch will be given no extra consideration because of the youth of the author.

Another original contestant, evidently thinking to get the most information into the 500 words allowed, penned his sketch in cablese, the jargon used to save cable tolls in sending newspaper messages. Thus his first sentence read: "America discovered 1492 Chris Col ventured Atlantic search new route East Indies." The judges were inclined to think this style might prove confusing to the reader.

Count Michael Karolyi Will Talk Here on Opposition to Horthy

Count Michael Karolyi, former president of the Hungarian republic, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning to be give a series of addresses under the auspices of the Anti-Horthy league, an anti-Fascist organization, and the United Hungarian clubs of Chicago.

He will be a guest at a luncheon at Hull house, 800 South Halsted street, at 1 p. m. tomorrow, and at 2:30 will address a massmeeting in the Masonic temple at 32 West Randolph street. There Robert M. Lovett, editor of the New Republic, also will speak.

Count Karolyi will hold a private reception for friends at the roof bungalow of the Hotel Sherman Sunday evening and at noon on Monday will speak at a forum luncheon of the City club. He will address a massmeeting at the Hungarian home, 817 West 92d street, on Monday evening.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Admiral Horthy, regent of Hungary, tomorrow will open an exposition of American art under the auspices of the American Federation of Art and Hungarian Society of America. The exposition, consisting of 38 pictures and 12 statues, is in the care of Marshall Brown of Princeton.

Mei Lan-Fang, called the greatest Chinese actor in the last 300 years, passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to New York, where he and his company will play next week at the Metropolitan opera house. When the party arrived at the Union station on the Empire Builder from Seattle, not only were Chinatown's leaders on hand to greet the visitors, but Chicagoans interested in China and its drama were there too. Frank Moy, "mayor of Chinatown," a cousin of Lan-Fang, and Thomas Lee, president of the On Leong society, headed the Chicago Chinese. Mrs. Charles Hubbard, vice president of American Friends of China, Mrs. Paul Welling, and Mrs. Wesley Dixon urged the actor to return to Chicago to present operatic drama. The company plans to play here the end of the month.

"King David" Adds to Fame of Ohio Singers

Stock Conducts Them with Orchestra.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

The Cincinnati May Festival chorus became more important yesterday afternoon at Orchestra hall than it had promised to be on the night before, which is saying a good deal. On this occasion it gave a superb performance of Bach's "Magnificat" in D, and followed it with an equally superb performance, the first in Chicago, of one of the finest choral works of recent years, Arthur Honegger's "King David."

It did not take more than the first few augmented octaves to realize that this was the same Honegger who wrote "Judith," which the Civic Opera company left out of its calculations this year. The difference is that "King David" is worth a dozen of "Judith."

Honegger has an uncommon gift for choral writing. He has done more interesting things in this medium than all the rest of the modernists put together, and in this work he is extraordinarily impressive. With him the modern idiom in voices becomes dramatic, stirring, and when he desires, greatly beautiful. The final "Alleluia" of "King David", is bewitchingly lovely. It has been preceded by songs of war, of sorrow, of rejoicing, of all the emotions stirringly presented and, by this chorus, more than stirringly reproduced.

In fact, Honegger managed to put his dramatic gifts even into his solos, which he quite failed to do in "Judith." They are highly difficult—one might have felt sorry for Ethel Hayden for what she was obliged to do in the soprano register if it had not been that she was so thoroughly competent—but out of their difficulty comes expressiveness, not tune, but something that augments and amplifies the text. The text, by the way, was in English, which probably was bad art, but unquestionably pleasant hearing.

Much the same state of affairs applied to the other soloists, Merle Alcock, contralto, and Dan Gridley, tenor, difficult singing done with excellent voice and easy manner. Herbert Gould, as narrator, read the prose text resonantly, reverently, and with all the expression to which a speaking voice can be put. In the Bach number Anna Burmeister was added to the soloists, and Mr. Gould appeared in his better known function as a bass singer.

What was quite as important in both Bach and Honegger, however, was the presence of a great chorus and a great orchestra. The concert began with Mr. Stock's magnificent transcription of the Bach Passacaglia and Fugue in C minor, a complete demonstration of the art of transcribing Bach for orchestra. Then came the chorus, the soloists, and the orchestra all together, and here there was reason to marvel at what a chorus can be. In the first place it was completely honest singing. Beyond that it was accurate, expert singing, and on top of all it was fervent singing.

For the first time last night in Mozart's "Don Juan"—or perhaps you remember it better as "Don Giovanni"—the German Grand Op[illegible] put itself in direct comparison with the Civic Opera company. Up to that time, in such works as "Tristan und Isolde" and "Die Walküre," it was more or less a comparison of individual artists, Lippe against Leider, Gross against Kipnis, Conductor Knoch against Conductor Pollak, and so on.

But the Mozart work presented a direct contrast of manner, the stylized, artificial, porcelain-like version of the Civic as opposed to the earthier, homelier, more gemütlich comedy of the German company. So, in manner as in taste, we are informed that arguments are a waste of time.

After attendance upon both, one can testify that the German version provoked considerably more laughter from the audience than the Italian, and that applause for the good singing in both ran about equal. It can be further added that Conductor Ernst Melchlich is fully conversant with the tempi and shadings that make good Mozart performances, that Franz Egenieff was an energtic, vital, and entertaining man of adventures rather than man of the world, that Edna Zahm was an exceptionally fine Donna Elvira, that Carl Braun sang and acted Leporello after the fashion of an experienced comedian, that the performance as a whole was balanced and assured, and that the chorus was sprightly and melodious beyond the custom of grand opera choruses.

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A "Play Booklet" by Mrs. Bevans for mothers of pre-school children will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

It may be that you read yesterday's article and that you sympathize with the new ideals of education, but that it isn't feasible for your child to go to such a school. It may be that in his school he is not "exposed" to the richest environment. And so you feel discouraged.

Don't be so. Instead, see what you can do with his home environment so that his after school time and his week-ends and vacations offer soil in which his roots can strike out and bring him esthetic, manual, or creative satisfaction.

In fact, even if your child's school did offer him all he needed you would still want him home to carry on the work. Now, you may feel a little at sea. You may think, "What shall I expose him to first?"

Observation is always a great aid to decisions. First, watch your children and see what they already have a leaning toward. Then when you discover that leaning, encourage it by giving your child time and material for its expression.

For example, you may have heard that your son is often drawing pictures at school when he should be studying or listening. Supply him with drawing materials, and be interested in and discuss with him his work in drawing.

Your daughter may want to write poems or stories instead of lessons. See that she has note books and pencils and perhaps protect her from interruption so that she has time to satisfy her interest. The child who wants to help with a carpentry job or hang over the car when there's engine trouble has a bent—do what you can about that. And for the child who loves to dance, or to listen to music—do something consciously about those tastes. The child who shows a passionate fondness for animals should decidedly have pets.

Beginning in this way with the talent or interest that is already defined, other avenues will open up. One thing leads to another. Interests are often related. Having made a beginning, other possibilities for developing your child's capacities will present themselves.

BY THALIA

The wedding of Miss Edith Louise Newcomet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Edgar Newcomet, to James Beach Clow, son of Mrs. James C. Clow of the Ambassador hotel, is to take place next Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at St. Chrysostom's church, with a reception following at the Newcomet residence at 20 East Cedar street.

Miss Marion Newcomet is to be her sister's maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will include Miss Roberta Harwey, Mrs. Harold H. Gade of Philadelphia, Mrs. Walborn W. Newcomet, and Mrs. Ellwood Fisher of Cleveland. Elliott Donnelly is to serve Mr. Clow as best man, and the ushers include Prescott R. Taylor of Boston, W. S. K. Stage of New York City, Walborn W. Newcomet of Cleveland, Arthur D. Russell, Alexander Knott, and Harris Wilder.

Mrs. Clow is to give a dinner dance for the wedding party on Wednesday evening at the Ambassador hotel, and Miss Newcomet and Mr. Clow are to have their respective spinster and bachelor dinners on Thursday evening. Miss Harvey is to give the spinster party for Miss Newcomet, and Mr. Clow's dinner will be at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club. Mr. and Mrs. Newcomet are to give the bridal dinner on Friday evening. Mr. Clow and his bride are going to Egypt for their wedding trip.

A pleasant air of simplicity and informality pervaded the tea given yesterday by the Arts club to open exhibitions of paintings by Emile-Othon Friesz and Norman Jacobson and black plastic by Ugo Mochi. Tea was served in the comfortable lounge at two small tables covered with lace cloths and decorated with small clusters of spring flowers. The lemon colored taffeta shades were drawn across the windows and the only illumination was the flickering light of tall yellow tapers. Mrs. Parmelee McFadden acted as hostess and was assisted by Mrs. Charles O'Connor Jr., Mrs. Walter Ayer, Miss Agnes Foreman, Mrs. Stuart H. Otis, Mrs. Adolph Bolm, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, and Mrs. John H. Winterbotham. Mrs. Hubert Burnham was one of the early arrivals. Her dress was of purple velvet, with a very long and voluminous skirt and a short bolero coat over a quaint underjacket of ermine. A purple velvet toque, purple slippers, white gloves, and a tiny ermine muff completed the costume.

Among others who attended were Mrs. Augustus Carpenter, Mrs. Eric Gerstenberg and her daughter, Miss Alice Gerstenberg; Mrs. Charles Dempster, Mrs. Oakley K. Brown, Arthur Aldis, Mrs. Harry Holloway, Mrs. Edward Litsinger, and Miss Edwina Litsinger.

Mrs. Samuel A. Ettelson and Miss Gertrude Ehrhart of Boston are to give the program for the annual meeting of the Friends of Opera on Monday afternoon at the Arts club, and Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick and Mrs. Waller Borden are to preside at the tea table.

Mrs. Thomas Grover and Mrs. Margaret Tagmose will give a tea on Monday afternoon at their residence at 1366 Dearborn parkway for the Rumanian ambassador, Carol A. Davilla, and Professor and Mrs. Nicholas Porga of Bucharest.

The next to the last of the Indian lectures is to take place next Tuesday afternoon at the Petit Gourmet. Prof. Paul Radin, former lecturer at Cambridge, and now lecturer in the anthropology department of the University of Chicago, is to speak on "Indian Symbolism and Religion." "Whirling Thunder," an Indian of the Winnebago tribe, is to demonstrate the sign language. Mrs. James M. Hopkins and Mrs. James W. Young are to preside at the tea that follows the talk.

The Chicago Historical society announces an address by Judge Henry Horner on "The Universality of Lincoln" next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

More bits about the prom trotters drift west! Chicago young people attending the Yale prom included Margaret McLennan, guest of her brother, Donald R. McLennan Jr., who was treasurer of the prom committee; Janet Kirk, who accompanied John E. Haslam of Evansville, Ind., another committee member; Mary Gates Dawes, who went with Robert W. McElwain Jr., also of Chicago. Among the guests were Maj. and Mrs. John Coolidge.

Mrs. William L. Hodgkins has arrived at Pasadena, Cal., after taking the trip to Havana and through the Panama canal. Her son and daughter-in-law, the Press Hodgkinses [Louise Carr], are in California also, and will return in early March. Mrs. Hodgkins' father, Robert F. Carr, is going on a trip to Mexico City. But the Hodgkins and Carr families will all be back in Chicago toward the end of March.

Mrs. Peter Dudley, who has been "recupeing" from an automobile accident in the Passavant hospital for the last several weeks, is now able to get about on crutches. Mrs. Dudley had only arrived from Paris a few days when the accident occurred.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND COUNCIL VOTES END OF AN ANCIENT POLICY

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The present meeting of the church assembly, which already has disposed of two important questions in the Anglican church, today attacked another great issue. It considered a measure recommending abolition, or at any rate modification, of the system under which church patronage is bought and sold.

Sir Thomas Inskip, former Conservative attorney general, attacked the right of sale of patronage during discussion of a measure dealing with the present system under which "advowsoni" may be bought and sold. An advowson is the right of presentation to a church or vacant ecclesiastical benefice, or of presenting a clergyman to the bishop for induction into a benefice.

This system of church presentation still applies to many benefices, and its beginning lie somewhere in the ancient union of church and state in England. A bill for alteration of the system has been drawn up by Dr. Bell, the new bishop of Chichester.

"I want to see the right of sale of patronage abolished altogether," declared Sir Thomas Inskip. "The only criticism I have against the course is that it would be an interference with the rights of property. When the right to sell seats in parliament was abolished in 1809, nobody suggested compensation."

PARIS, Feb. 7.—Chanel shows many evening dresses with skirts above the ankles and her day clothes vary from a hand's breadth below the knee to half way to the ankles. Her day dresses have slightly princess lines with modified flares and normal waistlines. Long and semi-fitted lightweight wool ensembles, having printed crêpe or chiffon dresses are the rule for day time. Lace dresses overrun the Chanel evening clothes exhibit. Organdie evening gowns, one with a lace slip, are interesting novelties. Multicolored heavy crystal necklaces are a jewel feature.

Worth holds the day time mode to moderately short skirts and for the evening skirts reach to the instep. Dresses and jackets are embroidered all over with straw, an interesting novelty, as are the straw cloth blouses and bloused embroidered tweed patterns with wool threads to match the suits. Worth's short sleeved coats and jackets are worn with brown suede gloves.

Jenny scores a hit with tuck-in blouses and short pullovers of silk tricot, embroidered all over in natural color fruit designs. Fitted waists and jackets with ruffle pelums from normal waistlines and low flared skirts are Jenny features, as are knee length wool coats, some with ruffled hems and contrasted coats.

Scouts to See Selves at Talkie in City Theaters

Chicago Boy Scouts will see themselves as others see them today at a number of motion picture houses. Troops of Scouts under their leaders will attend a special Scout talkie in six Balaban & Katz theaters. The picture is being shown in connection with National Boy Scout anniversary week and the campaign of the Chicago Council of Boy Scouts which opened a $1,250,000 four year expansion program Thursday. The film will show Chicago Scouts leaving for summer camp, their arrival, making ready their new home, and camp activities. The film will be shown all week at McVickers, Tower, Senate, Harding, Norshore, and Riviera theaters.

Two Sects to Spend Million on School for Southern Negroes

The educational board of the Methodist Episcopal church, at a meeting here yesterday, approved the proposed merger of New Orleans university and the Flint Goodrich hospital, both Methodist institutions, with the Straight university, a Congregational institution.

Under the merger, each denomination would appropriate $500,000 to be spent in founding one large institution for Negro education, to be administered jointly by the Methodists and Congregationalists.

The Methodist school board, which approved a $500,000 appropriation for the purpose, offered the name of Dillard university for the new institution in honor of James H. Dillard, noted educator of Charlottesville, Va.

MRS. LONGWORTH STARTS FASHION OF NEW CUFF-MUFF

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—A cuff-muff was introduced to the house of representatives today by Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth.

When the speaker's wife, in rich red hat and gown and black fur coat, took her seat in the speaker's box of the gallery, the advantages of the cuff-muff were instantly apparent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME.—Feb. 7.—The first overtures towards patching up a compromise over the principal and outstanding points of dispute between the Catholic church and Italy, were made today when Augusto Turati, secretary-general of the Fascist party, was received by Pope Pius. The two conferred for half an hour on the question of the education of Italian youth.

Up to the present time the church and the state have been at swords points on the question of education, each claiming the sole right of bringing up youth along its own lines.

Duce May See Pope.

Sig. Turati's visit is interpreted as a preliminary to a conversation between Il Duce and the pontiff—a meeting which has been expected ever since the signing of the Lateran treaty. It is now believed that Premier Mussolini's visit will be brought about in the near future.

Practically all of the recent clashes between the Vatican and the government have been on the subject of education, and it is believed that a sincere attempt is to be made within a short time to clear up the question.

Both Sides Adamant.

It is difficult to predict what the nature of a compromise on the educational issue might be, however, as both sides thus far have been adamant.

After leaving the pope Sig. Turati also held a brief conference with Cardinal Gasparri.

JAIL ASKED FOR TWO POLICEMEN IN CANARY CASE

Werner W. Schroeder, attorney for the office of the public administrator, yesterday asked Probate Judge Horner to sentence Policemen Henry J. Dompke and William Tobin of the East Chicago avenue station to three months in the county jail. The policemen are charged with killing "Nimble," pet canary of Mrs. Anna Gustafson, a suicide victim.

They were stationed on guard at her home over her effects after her suicide last Oct. 6. The canary, which had survived the gas fumes, was missing the day after its mistress' death. It was returned dead a day after the public administrator's office began an investigation. Other valuables are still missing.

The policemen were placed on the stand. Tobin testified that the bird flew out of the window while he was on duty, and flew back through the same window five days later, to drop dead on the floor. The judge continued the case until Feb. 25 to take more testimony.

Foster Son Held to Grand Jury for $162,000 Swindle

William E. Ostrander, 30 years old, 2502 Balmoral avenue, who is alleged to have embezzled some $162,000 from his foster mother, Mrs. Mary McMahon, 3333 Washington boulevard, was held to the grand jury yesterday in $50,000 bonds. The defendant said that he had the power of attorney to handle the funds of Mrs. McMahon, who raised him from childhood. The money was lost in stock market gambling.

BANDITS ROB LAUNDRY DRIVER.

WASHINGTON NOTES

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Two bills by Representative Sproul of Illinois to bridge the Little Calumet river at Ashland avenue near 140th street, Chicago, and near 134th street were approved by the house commerce committee.

Retention of present government officials at the Klamath Indian reservation in Oregon was declared "indefensible" in a report submitted to the senate from the Indian affairs committee.

Unlimited extension of the time allowed world war veterans in which to apply for adjusted compensation was urged by John Thomas Taylor, vice chairman of the American Legion's national legislative committee, before the house ways and means committee.

President Hoover asked congress for $14,000 for the Fort Stanton [N. M.] Marine hospital.

Representative Collins [Dem., Miss.] urged congress to purchase the Vollbehr collection of fifteenth century printed books, owned by Dr. Otto F. Vollbehr of Berlin. He said the cost would be $1,500,000, or "about half its actual value."

The house adopted a resolution to provide for a celebration in the house of the 198th anniversary of the birth of George Washington on Feb. 22.

COALITION BLOW AT 1922 TARIFF IS PROTESTED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7. — Attempts of the radical Republican-Democratic coalition to slash the 1922 rates in the pending tariff bill without notice to the affected industries or an opportunity for those industries to be heard provoked vigorous protests in the senate today.

The coalition program was first assailed by Senator James Couzens [Rep., Mich.], a member of the senate finance committee, who, while not a high protectionist, declared the submission of such amendments "out of a clear sky" without warning to industries concerned was both unfair and unwarranted.

Couzens was joined by Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.] in the controversy, during which Senator R. M. La Follette [Rep., Wis.], Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.], and other coalitionists attacked what they described as the theory that "beneficiaries of the 1922 tariff bill have a 'vested right' to the rates it carried."

The controversy was precipitated when Senator Harrison offered an amendment to cut the present rates on red and white lead and Bingham protested. Harrison succeeded in reducing the rate on red lead from 2¾ cents to 2⅛ cents and the rate on litharge from 2½ cents to 2⅛ cents.

CHIROPODIST MAY FACE TRUE BILL ON BOMB CHARGE

Abraham Carnow, 1249 South Troy street, a chiropodist with offices at 3148 Roosevelt road, was held to the grand jury yesterday in the felony court on a charge of having explosives. He was arrested by Lieut. George Barker and the bomb squad when a dynamite bomb was found in his office. The defendant denied ownership of the package, saying that it had been left by an assistant.

Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast, however, had a different explanation of the bomb. He said that Carnow was trying to make his first wife, Mrs. Lena Joseph Carnow, 1501 South Springfield avenue, take a lump sum alimony settlement of $1,500 in lieu of his present payments of $8 per week.

PRINTED FROCKS

. . The Cape Frock!
. . The Peplum Frock!
. . The Bolero Frock!
. . The Belted Frock!

Fashion took a look at the 1930 silhouettes and decided that 1929 prints wouldn't do for them at all! So she designed NEW prints . . sweeping patterns that do fit long, slim, flaring lines! Tiny sprig patterns that do match quaint peplums . . widely spaced prints that don't spoil the line of new jackets! And these lovely frocks are the result—each surprisingly low-priced.

Flower Prints. Sizes 14-17, $10.75.

$10.75

Mandel's Junior Miss Frocks—Fourth Floor—State.

$25

The PEPLUM frock . . in a flower sprigged print that has 1890 quaintness of patterns . . and 1930 sophistication of new spacing. Others with long sleeves, sizes 14-18.

Mandel's Misses' Frocks—Fourth Floor—State.

Mandel's Olympia Sport Shop—Third Floor—Wabash

The JACKET frock as quaint as its polka-dot print . . that knows 1930 tricks of matching flounces on skirt and sleeve . . tying the neckline with a scarf—of belting a high waistline. Sizes 14-20.

Mandel's Moderately Priced Shop—Fourth Floor—Wabash.

REPORT WIEMAN WILL AID CRISLER AT MINNESOTA

Officials Silent on Appointments.

Reports that Fritz Crisler would become head coach at the University of Minnesota, first published in The Tribune Thursday, still lacked official confirmation last night. Mr. Crisler said he had received no word of his appointment.

Minneapolis, Minn., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The Minneapolis Tribune, in a copyrighted article, today declared that Fritz Crisler, of the University of Chicago, had been named head football coach and Elton E. [Tad] Wieman of Michigan, his first assistant at the University of Minnesota. Authorities at that school, however, declined to break their silence and refused either to "affirm or deny" the report.

Athletic department heads and others at the Gopher school referred all questions to President Lotus D. Coffman, who was at Madison, Wis., today. But word from there said President Coffman likewise was silent on the matter of a successor to Dr. Clarence Spears.

Both Men Approached.

The Tribune declared its information came from authoritative sources in Chicago and Detroit. Both men, the article said, have been agreed on by President Coffman and the special committee appointed to make the selection. Official announcement of the new coaches, the Tribune said, will be made Monday by the board of regents.

Despite the university's policy of secrecy, both Crisler and Wieman are known to have been approached, though recent speculation concerning a new coach has centered mostly about Bernie Bierman, of Tulane. Bierman, former Minnesota half back and captain, was considered a likely choice because of recent agitation at the school to employ alumni members in the coaching department whenever possible.

COFFMAN WAXES WITTY

Madison, Wis., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Lotus D. Coffman, president of the University of Minnesota, here today to speak on Russia before the Southern Wisconsin Teachers association, waxed jocular when queried regarding the football coaching situation at the Gopher school.

"Will Rogers may be signed to replace Dr. Spears," he smiled; "why wouldn't Will be a good man?"

Then the educator asked: "Who's Wisconsin's coach?"

"Glen Thistlethwaite," he was informed.

There to "Sign" Thistlethwaite.

"Well, that's a whale of a story," President Coffman replied. "Tell your readers that I am here to sign Thistlethwaite. I may sign Will Rogers. You know when I left my office in Minneapolis yesterday I told my secretary that I was going away on a secret mission, and that the members of your craft would be puzzling over my trip.

"Tell them I am here to sign the badger coach and also to have Wisconsin release all the coaches they are supposed to have signed in order that my school may secure their services."

This remark was occasioned by reports that Elton E. [Tad] Wieman of Michigan had been signed as line coach at Wisconsin, but that Minnesota has asked his release from the contract.

Coffman said he was unaware of any move for Minnesota to sever relations with all Big Ten schools save Wisconsin. A report of this intention made the rounds a few weeks ago.

He would make absolutely no comment on reports that Fritz Crisler of the University of Chicago had been named head coach and that Wieman would assist him. This information was released by the Minneapolis Tribune today and was based on facts gleaned from Chicago and Ann Arbor, it was said.

"I don't know anything about that," the Gopher president said. "Perhaps it's because I am an outsider and the newspapers know more than I do."

Minneapolis Infielder Wins $3,257, Auto Injury Award

Columbus, O., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Elmer J. Toter of McKeesport, Pa., third baseman for the Minneapolis American association team, was awarded $3,257.46 damages from Armour & Co. in Common Pleas court today for injuries suffered Sept. 28, 1926, in a collision between his automobile and a Armour truck. He formerly played with the Cubs.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

In a tuneup for a return to Western conference basketball competition, Northwestern university ran away from Marquette, 40 to 19, at Patten gymnasium last night. While the final score was decisive the Hilltoppers gave the Purple a scare in the first half by building up an 8 to 3 and, later, 11 to 5 advantage.

Northwestern's passing was better than any it has shown this year, but for a time the Purple cagers were missing their shots. That was all changed a bit later. Marquette tallied by quick cuts under the basket by the guards and long shots.

With Marquette leading, 13 to 8, John Whelan, a diminutive sub, went in at one forward and Bergherm shifted to replace Walter at center. Then things began to happen. The most noticeable was Whelan, who sank three consecutive shots from the sideline far down the floor. Combined with Mundy's free throw, it gave the Wildcats a 15 to 13 lead at halftime.

N. U. Style Altered.

So far the game had been good basketball, with little to choose between the teams, but the second half was a runaway for the Purple. They sank seven of the first eight shots, six of them long ones, bringing the score Northwestern, 29; Marquette, 17. After that the Wildcats had their opponents on the run. They passed to several short shots, but didn't neglect any chances to drop one in from midfloor.

The shifts in the Northwestern lineup from the early season regulars gave the team an entirely different complexion, not only in makeup but in style. Bert Riel, the ball hawk, fitted perfectly into his new job as floor guard and Merrill Mundy played well at forward. The most noticeable difference was the passing, which, after the first few minutes always was good, sometimes brilliant.

It was the long shots that made the difference, however, for Whelan's four from opposite the center circle, three in a spot when it made a difference of trailing or leading, just about broke up the ball game. Riel did some pretty long distance pitching later.

Riel Leads Purple.

Northwestern caged eight baskets on its 23 short shots and nine on its 24 long shots. Marquette made four baskets on 13 short shots and four on 14 long shots. Riel led the Purple with five baskets and a free throw. Bergherm and Whelan caged four baskets each. Andrew, a center, who got the tipoff most of the time, led Marquette with three baskets. Lineup:

Chicago Woman Golfer Wins Miami Beach Title

JOINS YANKEES

ROBERT WALSH.

Big Ed Walsh Sends Another Son to Majors

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Bent on following in the footsteps of his illustrious father and also his older brother, Robert E. Walsh, youngest son of "Big Ed" Walsh, pitching ace of the White Sox more than a score of years ago, today launched his career in professional baseball by signing a contract with the Yankees, according to announcement by Secretary Ed Barrow. He will report to Manager Bob Shawkey with the first Yankee squad at St. Petersburg on Feb. 23.

Following the departure of Ed Jr. young Bob became the ace of the Notre Dame hurlers and, according to various scouts who reported on his prowess last spring, is said to possess even greater possibilities than his brother. Like his father, whose build and stamina won for him the sobriquet of "Big Ed," Robert also is a husky fellow. Only 22, he already is a giant of a man, standing six feet four inches and scaling 205 pounds.

NORTH CENTRAL RALLY NETS WIN AT LAKE FOREST

North Central college cagers defeated Lake Forest last night at Lake Forest, 31 to 27. At half time the score was 12 to 12. In the second period Lake Forest took a lead of two points. Then, with ten minutes to play, North Central rallied.

Duffy Florals Bowl 3,226 to Head Randolph League

The Duffy Florals led the Randolph Bowling league last night, scoring a 3,226 series. The Walter Birks were next with 3,119. Upsets featured, the Edelweiss winning three from the Mineralites, and Dirigold the same number from the Quaker Oats. Adolph Carlson was high man for a series with 715. C. Leipe with 279 had high individual game.

Fuller Wins from Bass on Foul in Fifth Round

ENTRIES EXCEED 200 FOR NORTH SECTION TRIALS

Prelims Carded Thursday, Friday at Fronton.

More than 200 entries have been received for the north sectional trials of THE TRIBUNE'S third annual Golden Gloves tournament. Preliminaries will be held at the Fronton Thursday and Friday nights.

Entries for these trials closed yesterday and when all entrants have been placed in their classes the number may reach 246, the total received for the central tests at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings.

Managers and captains of teams have nominated only their best fighters, boys who have been chosen through trials held at clubs and gymnasiums. Members of these squads are receiving instruction from competent teachers, and they will enter the ring schooled in offensive and defensive tactics.

Determined to Make Team.

Chicago boys are determined the team which will meet New York at the Stadium March 19 shall not be made up entirely of out of town boxers. Ninety-six local boys will qualify for the Coliseum finals where they will clash with fighters of other cities and towns.

James Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, yesterday consented to permit the drum and bugle corps of the American Legion to appear at the Coliseum on Feb. 25. He also agreed to allow the Fort Sheridan band to furnish music on Feb. 26 and the Great Lakes musicians to play Feb. 27. On these three nights ranking officers of all branches of the service will be in the directors' box.

Managements of the Fronton and White City went to considerable trouble to provide accommodations for an extra day for sectional trials. J. S. Markstein, president of the Fronton, called off his Thursday jai alai games so that the trials could be held Thursday as well as Friday. H. A. Byfield, president of the White City company, canceled roller skating Feb. 18, and another day will be available for the south side trials.

Boxers, Be on Time.

Boxers who will compete in all trials again are warned they must be weighed and examined before 6 o'clock on each night of the preliminaries. Drawings will take place at 6:30 o'clock, and the first bout will be staged promptly at 7 o'clock. The large entry may make it necessary for all contestants to box twice on each night. Four in each class will qualify for the Coliseum finals.

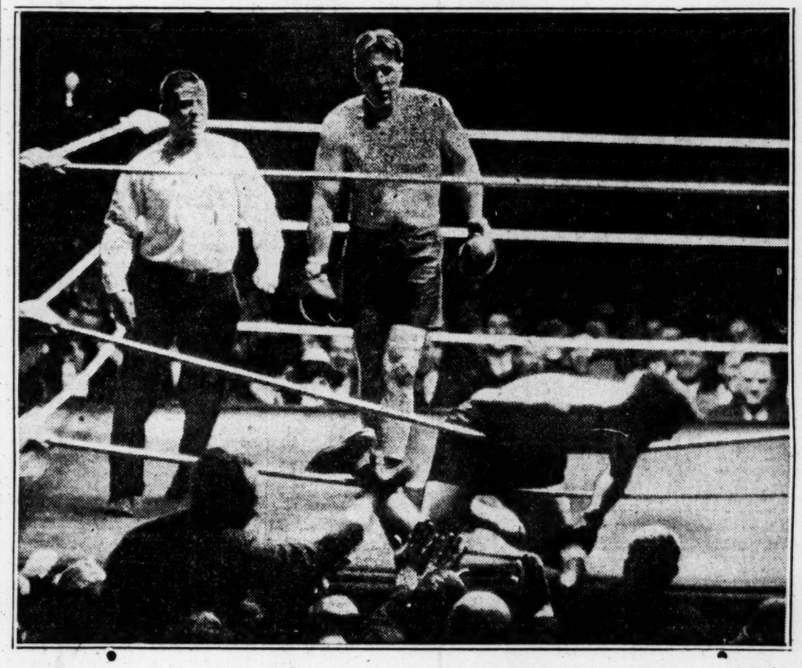
THEY FALL FOR BIG GEORGE



Big George Trafton, whose claim to fame was confined to pro football until he was ushered into the ring with Art Shires, continues to bat 1.000 in the fistic records. His punches induced Battling Criss to assume this pose in the third round at the Coliseum last night.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: May we let memory carry us back to the Monday afternoons when a certain coterie of "gallery gods" met at the "Big O" [Olympic theater] to pass judgment on the different acts of the new show just going on circuit? There we made or unmade the various acts by our applause or silence, and what a lot of attention the actors gave the "gods."

Late one afternoon among the "chasers" there appeared a very tall, slender girl billed as Clarice Vance with an absolutely new rendition of a brand new line of coon songs such as "I'm Done Dealing in Coal," "I'll Have to Telegraph My Baby," etc. How she went over! Next day she had a good spot on the bill. Next trip she was a headliner. F. O. B.

When the first cable cars were ready for operation on State street, father took me to the corner of State and Adams to see the "cable in the slot." Several men were on their knees in the center of the street looking into the slot and groups on the sidewalk were talking of the danger to life and limb from such terrific speed.

A few weeks later small boys thought it great sport to tie an old can to one end of a piece of string and drop the other end down the slot, where it would catch in a strand of the cable and pull the can down the tracks at 10 or 12 miles an hour. Dick McD.

The old Iroquois theater was first opened up not as the Colonial but as a vaudeville house under the name of Hyde and Beeman. It was there I first heard the song "Teasing" and some one placed in the audience arose and sang the chorus, a new stunt at that time. Frank B. King.

That $5.99 Price.

We have been asked by a reader why the odd price of $5.99 for admission to a boxing contest. Ah, Watson, that's easy. The federal tax on amusement admission is 10 per cent above $3. The state tax on boxing admissions is 10 per cent, and the federal tax is 10 per cent to $5, and after that 25 per cent. Thus of the $5.99 the promoters retain $4.99, which is the face value of the ticket.

Suppose the face value were $5 instead of $4.99. The tax would be 50 cents to the state and $1.25 to Uncle Sam, or $6.75 instead of $5.99 to the consumer.

The Wake always has felt that this 25 per cent levy on boxing admissions, which is not applied to other amusements, is class legislation, but there it is, like some other strange enactments emanating from Washington.

MISS HOLM SETS CANADIAN MARK FOR BACKSTROKE

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Eleanor Holm of New York set a new Canadian record of 1 minute 13 3-5 seconds in winning the 100 yard backstroke title at the Canadian Women's swimming championships here tonight.

Miss Holm set a fast pace all the way and beat out Penchon Homar of Chicago by 5 yards. Her time clipped :03 4-5 seconds off the old Canadian record and was only a fifth of a second slower than the world's record time she set in New York a week ago. Marjorie Linton of Toronto was third.

Isobel Smith of Chicago won the 200 yards free style championship with Mary Casson, Toronto, second, and Irene Pirie, Toronto, third. The time was 2:39 3-5.

Millrose Meet Attracts Stars of 4 Nations

New York, Feb. 7.—(AP) — Picked track and field stars of the United States, Canada and two European countries assembled here today for the Millrose A. A. games at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Two of the fastest sprinters ever to churn gridiron or track will meet when Jack Elder of Notre Dame and Cy Leland of Texas Christian university clash in a 60 yard sprint with a 50 yard final to race it out for recognition as "the fastest football player."

Both made reputations last fall by flashy runs for touchdowns. So that nothing will prevent them from having it out, Elder and Leland have been placed in the same heat at 60 yards. They must finish one-two to meet again in the 50 yard final.

Millrose 600 Features.

In the same event will be Jimmy Daley of Holy Cross; Chet Bowman of the Newark A. C.; Howard Kriss of the Cleveland A. C.; John Fitzpatrick of the Canadian Olympic team and Leigh Miller, another Canadian star.

In the Millrose 600, middle distance feature annually since 1915, Bernie McCafferty, winner last year, matches strides with Pete Bowen of the University of Pittsburgh, national quarter mile champion; Eddie Roll of the Newark A. C., and Phil Edwards, New York university flier.

Midwest Stars Compete.

The Rodman Wanamaker mile which in 1929 saw Ray Conger, the Iowa star, beat Paavo Nurmi, will bring together Conger, Joe Sivak of Butler university; Orval Martin of Purdue and J. L. Montgomery of the University of Pennsylvania.

A foreign flavor is added by the entry of Dr. Paul Martin of Switzerland in the half mile special and Stanislaw Petkiewicz of Poland in the two mile.

Bob King, the Olympic champion, heads a stellar field in the high jump and Fred Sturdy, former Yale performer, will attempt to raise the "ceiling" in the pole vault.

Shires Ruled Out on Fouls in Home Cage Debut

Waxahachie, Tex., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Art Shires, making his first public appearance since his return home, was put out of the game in the first half with four fouls tonight when his basketball team, the Trinity Pharmacy Cubs, was playing the Corsicana Triangles. His team lost, 15 to 3.

SHOW ATTRACTS 4,000; DEMPSEY LOSES $4,000

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Clyde Chastain of Dallas, Tex., made a successful entry into the middleweight division last night when he won a ten round decision from Harry Ebbets of Brooklyn. The bout headlined Jack Dempsey's card at the Coliseum.

The show was another financial loss for the former heavyweight champion. There were 4,000 in attendance, and the receipts were about $12,000. The show stood the promoter around $16,000, so Dempsey will have to add at least $4,000 to his red letter column.

The Chastain-Ebbets fight was billed as the feature, but George Trafton, Chicago Bears football player, stole the show. Trafton knocked out Battling Criss of Detroit in the third round with a hard cross to the jaw. Criss went down four times before he took the count.

Trafton Swings with Both Hands.

The opening round was about even. Trafton, as usual, swung with both hands. Criss scored with right uppercuts to the chin. In the second round Criss rolled out of the ring, more from a push than a punch. He was back at the count of ten. Early in the third round Trafton connected with a right to the jaw and Criss took an eight count. Trafton put him down again with a long left swing. As Criss started to go down Trafton made sure of his descent by kneeing him in the stomach. Criss appeared hurt and took the count. The end came after the round was two minuets and 43 seconds old. Criss, who scaled 177 pounds, is the fighter who is said to have refused to take an alleged dive for Art Shires in Detroit recently. Trafton weighed 216¾.

Chastain, made an uphill fight to win the decision over Ebbets. In the first round he was knocked down for an eight count with a left hook. It didn't look like he would last the round. Ebbets tried hard to land another solid punch, but Clyde held on until the bell rang.

The fourth and fifth rounds were about even. Clyde nearly upset his opponent with a stiff right in the sixth. He followed with punishing body blows and won the round by a wide margin. The Texan took the seventh and eighth sessions by forcing the fighting. He drove Ebbets to the ropes with body punches and right crosses to the jaw. In the ninth, which was even, Chastain sustained a cut over his left eye. Ebbets had a slight shade in the tenth round, but his finish did not overcome the lead which Chastain had gained. Ebbets scaled 159½ pounds and Chastain 156.

Medill Outclasses Myers.

Joey Medill of the west side won all the way from Spug Myers of Idaho in the ten round semi-windup. Medill used a left hook to advantage and had his opponent on the verge of knockdowns several times. In the seventh round Joey's left staggered the Idaho battler. He tried to put over a K. O. punch, but Myers hung on to last the round. Medill never was in danger and made one of the best fights of his career. He scaled 140½ pounds and Myers 139.

In the opening bout, Dan Gaspare of Chicago won the four round decision from Kayo Franklin of Butte, Mont. They met at 168 pounds. King Levinsky of Chicago won from Chick Rife of Toledo, O., by a technical knockout in the first round of the second bout. The fight was stopped when Rife was helpless on the ropes.

Walter Madey won by a technical knockout from Jackie Williams in the third preliminary. A towel was tossed into the ring in the third round after Williams had been knocked down three times. They are Chicago heavyweights.

JACK, ESTELLE CELEBRATE THEIR 5TH ANNIVERSARY

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight champion, returned here today with his wife to celebrate his fifth wedding anniversary and attend to some business matters.

"Talkies?" Dempsey grinned. "Well, if they can make this high tenor of mine talk bass, the talking business might be a source of income. I'm not money shy."

FOSTER LEADS BIG 10 SCORERS WITH 52 POINTS

Badger State Has 3 Point Edge Over Murphy.

By overwhelming Ohio State in its third game of the current season, Purdue remains at the top of the Big Ten with three victories and no defeats. Wisconsin with four wins and one defeat holds down second place, while Illinois with three and one fills the third position.

Foster of Wisconsin still leads in individual scoring with a total of 52 points, made from 17 field goals and 18 free throws, but his lead is now threatened by Murphy of Purdue, who in his last game scored 28 points to bring his total up three points behind Foster. Murphy leads in most goals from the field with 21, while Foster tops the list in free throws with 18.

Seligson Wins Over Hall in Net Semi-Final

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Julius Seligson today defeated J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., in the semi-final round of the national indoor singles championship, 6-4, 7-5, 6-2.

Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, ranking favorite, became Seligson's finalist opponent later in the afternoon by defeating Perrine H. Rockafellow of New York at 6-2, 6-1, 7-5, in the upper half of the semi-finals. Hunter will meet Seligson for the title tomorrow afternoon.

Julius in Form Again.

By his sparkling triumph the chunky young man from the Bronx and Lehigh university served notice that he has put his disastrous 1929 season out of mind and is thinking only of the future. Not since he earned ninth place in the national ranking two years ago has Julius given such a fine exhibition of all around play. Seligson's victory came as a distinct surprise, for Hall always has had the edge on him indoors and was ceded a notch ahead of him. But the Lehigh star left no doubt in the minds of the spectators that he was the better player today.

Seligson had his backhand, which was reminiscent of Rene Lacoste's, working to perfection.

Hall Rallies, Takes Lead.

Hall, realizing by the end of the first set, in which he was bested in a baseline duel, that his only salvation lay in taking the net, launched a determined volley attack in the second chapter and managed to establish a 3-2 lead by breaking through in the fourth game. But Seligson soon discovered how to combat these tactics, and during the remainder of the match kept his rival on the run with deep, rakish drives to the corners.

North Park Five Beats Chicago Tech for 8 in Row

North Park college of the Northern Illinois junior college conference, defeated Chicago Technical college, 22 to 20, on the latter's floor last night in a nonconference battle. It was the eighth consecutive victory for the North Park quintet.

Arcturus Wins a Race; First Since Summer

New Orleans, La., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Arcturus, a five year old son of Black Toney, which has been endeavoring to win a race for C. Graffagnini since last summer, finally succeeded today at the Fair Grounds.

In a decided setback to the form players, Arcturus, with Kenneth Russell in the saddle, captured the Varando purse, a gallop of a mile for three-year olds and up. Trailing the gelding all the way and finishing two, three was Miss Blanche Watson's entry of Lord Braedalaane and Kadiak. The defeat broke Kadiak's string of four straight victories over the winter tracks, but left unmarred his record of not being out of the money in the last nine starts.

Back of the first three horses were such good runners as Earl of Warwick, Helen Dean and Buttered Toast. Arcturus paid $10 for a $2 mutuel ticket, and stepped the mile in 1:40.

Miss Watson's attempt to put over a winner in the Airport purse also failed when her First Mission finished second to The Southerner, with George Collins' famous Old Slip third. J. Dell had the mount on The Southerner, and together with Russell won the riding honors of the day. Each had two winners, Russell riding Seth's Ballot in the first and Dell Woolorac in the sixth.

Cubs' Recruit Hurler Begins Training Early

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Charles Malcolm Moss, one of the Cubs' 1930 rookies, is eligible to labor as a lawyer, but nevertheless he takes his baseball seriously. He went to California a month ahead of the date selected for the formal opening of the training camp at Catalina island. He didn't go with the idea of seeing the country but because he wanted to get into the best possible condition. He has been working out with a varsity baseball squad so will be at his best about the time the other hurling experts begin the painful process of putting their arms on a salary basis.

Moss, who studied at the University of Chicago, was purchased from the Louisville club last December. He is left handed and a good southpaw is one of the things the Cubs need. The other is a catcher.

Last fall the Cubs, so announcement said, purchased a pitcher named Leroy Hermann from the Des Moines club of the Western league. His name failed to appear on the 1930 roster. Inquiry revealed that he had been turned over to Reading which is a Cub farm. Hermann is reported to possess great speed and excellent control. If he really has them, he'll be up for a trial at the Catalina camp a year hence.

* *

Spencer Harris, who spent the better portions of two seasons in the White Sox outfield, and who also did his bit with Washington and the Athletics, is coming back for his fourth trial. Detroit drafted him from Minneapolis and will try to make him fill the shoes occupied by Harry Heilmann.

* *

Three of the White Sox players—Red Faber, Bill Cissell, and Bob Weiland—dropped around at Comiskey park yesterday to watch Trainer Buckner drag uniforms out of the mothballs and trunk them for shipment to San Antonio. Cissell doesn't know whether he will be asked to play short or move over to second but either job will be acceptable.

Austin and Fenger Win Prep Upsets; Loyola, De Paul Split

Yesterday proved to be the day of upsets for which every fan in the City league has been waiting since the schedule opened four weeks ago. Two of the unbeaten teams, Morgan Park heavies and Roosevelt lights, were defeated, as was Marshall, a strong contender in the west section.

Austin heavies staged the greatest rally of the season to trim Marshall on the latter's floor, 19 to 12. The home lights scored their eighth victory in a row by defeating Austin's ponies, 29 to 8. Marshall heavies scored ten points on free throws in the first half against Austin's two, made by Benson. Carruthers and Benson led the winners' attack in the second half, while Marshall was held to one basket.

Morgan Park's victory string of six was broken by Fenger, 20 to 19. The winners, led by Matiasovic, Swanson and Green, held an 11 point margin at the half. The Fenger lights made it a pair with a 33 to 18 victory.

Roosevelt's lights, undefeated in six starts, bowed to Lake View, 24 to 18. The winners scored fourteen points on free throws, eight of them by Jim Demarjis. Roosevelt heavies defeated the home seniors, 23 to 14.

SARGENT ASSAILS U. S. FARM BOARD FOR BUYING GRAIN

Chicagoan Calls It Blow at Constitution.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Through creation of the federal farm board the government is violating fundamental rights of the constitution by using the powers of government and the assets of the national treasury to go into the grain business in competition with private operators," Fred W. Sargent of Chicago, president of the Chicago and North Western railroad, charged in an address here tonight.

Sargent declared that present methods of handling the nation's wheat crop are aiding in the building up of formidable foreign competition. He also stated that "steadily mounting taxation is threatening to undermine the nation's prosperity."

"Buying grain as it is, the government is taking property without due process of law and without compensation," Sargent told members of the Greater Council Bluffs association.

From Private Interests.

"When the government uses the money of the people to go into the transportation business, taking trade from private interests, and when it uses this money to subsidize water transportation, it is in effect destroying private property," he added.

"If America is to be prosperous there are two problems that must be solved," he said. "First, agricultural prosperity in the country must be revived, and, second, our steadily increasing taxation must be cut down or it will destroy American industry, already weakened in competition with foreign production."

Sees Legge Save Farmer.

C. Patterson, state senator from Beadle county and long a Nonpartisan leaguer, declared Legge to be the "only man on the farm board." The host, he said, "are merely straw dummies."

D. H. Hamilton, McHenry county state senator, said "the hopes of the 11 agricultural states in the Mississippi valley rest on Alexander Legge. He has the biggest job of any man in the history of the republic, even including George Washington."

LEGGE SILENT ON APPEAL.

Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board, declined to comment here yesterday on his way back to Washington about the recommendation of the wheat cooperatives' advisory committee for the farm board to set up a stabilization corporation at the earliest possible date to cope with the abnormally low prices prevailing in wheat markets of the world.

Mr. Legge indicated, however, that immediately upon his arrival in Washington the advisory committee's plan and the articles of incorporation for the new corporation would be given the attention of the farm board, and that further announcement would be made in a few days from Washington.

Apprehension of many was voiced yesterday that the federal government's wheat stabilization corporation, when created, might incur great risk from Canadian or other foreign wheat shipments if the American price were raised any considerable amount. With duty and handling costs that total about 45 cents on Canadian wheat, it was said yesterday that no danger of importations existed unless this differential were overlooked.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Nothing Personal

Axel, Grabbing Mike by Ears, Tickles Elmer

Entertainer Makes Good as an Announcer, Too.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Versatile Axel Christiansen wobbled over to station W-G-N and took the microphone by its ears, so to speak, on the 8 to 8:30 popular "blues" program. Mr. Christiansen proved himself an admirable announcer-entertainer, and were he to confine his talents to announcing only he would stand ace high as such.

Pat Barnes' Robert Schumann dramatization, W-G-N, 9 to 9:30, must have been especially attractive and instructive to those who were not versed in the interesting life of this great romantic composer. And I think that the symphony orchestra's playing of "Whims" showed quite clearly that this Schumann gem receives a hearing in radio none too often.

A program devoted entirely to Tschaikowsky, from WBBM, 8:30 to 9, had something pretentious about it. Albert Rappaport, tenor, was the vocal soloist. Leon Bloom, pianist, played a portion of a concerto, and this latter, though short, was the most impressive thing heard on the air last night. Less announcing and more of the concerto would have been even more to the good.

Somewhat of a novelty was an organ program played by Ralph Emmerson on the Chicago Stadium organ, through WLS, 9:30 to 10. Announcer Don Malin stated that the console alone weighs seven and one-half tons. Well, this mighty organ delivered "La Paloma," "Show Boat" selections, "Poet and Peasant" overture, and the pilgrim's chorus from "Tannhauser"; which was not so heavy for so heavy and so mighty an instrument.

Safety Commissioner of Evanston Gets Hero Award

Frank Kreml, head of the Evanston police bureau of accident prevention, yesterday was awarded the James A. Patten award of $100 for the month of January. Kreml was given the police award for his work in preventing accidents during the month, according to Chief William O. Freeman. The Patten award is given monthly to an Evanston policeman for meritorious service.

LOOT LINE OF MILK WAGONS.

The theft of milk, butter, and eggs valued at $75 from wagons of the Bowman Dairy company while they lined up in front of a branch office at 4350 South State street was reported to the Wabash avenue police yesterday by J. F. Demank, manager of the branch.

"PIG WOMAN" OF HALL-MILLS CASE DIES IN HOSPITAL

New York, Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Jane Gibson, the mule-riding pig farmer of Middlebush, N. J., died today. She was the principal witness for the state in the trial at Somerville, in 1926, of Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her two brothers, accused of the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, his choir singer sweetheart, just outside New Brunswick.

Mrs. Gibson, a woman beyond middle age, who had been married twice, was once a circus rider and a storekeeper before she became a farmer, had been stricken with cancer long before the trial. She collapsed at the first session and was taken to the court room and put on a bed in front of the witness stand to give her testimony.

Mrs. Gibson swore she was riding her mule through De Russey's lane when she heard sounds of quarreling and crept through the bushes to see a woman whom she identified as Mrs. Hall, her brothers, William and Henry H. Stevens, and another quarreling with Mr. Hall and Mrs. Mills. She said she heard shots and saw Mrs. Hall praying over the body of her husband, and then rode away back to her farm.

Mrs. Hall and her two brothers were acquitted, in spite of her testimony.

Mrs. Hall, herself ill in a hospital in New York, sent the dying woman a telegram of forgiveness late last night. The "pig woman" heard the telegram read by a nurse, but made no comment. The telegram read: "A heart without malice sends you forgiveness."

HIS OFFER OF JOBS LEADS TO FRAUD EXPOSURE

Charles Kreiselman, alias Kreisler, 921 Eastwood avenue, was arrested yesterday on complaint of Flint Grinnell of the Better Business bureau, who charged Kreiselman with operating a confidence game. Grinnell stated that Kreiselman advertised for men with automobile trucks and to all applicants said he could hire and pay them $72 a week.

But each driver was informed that a $100 bond was necessary because of the involved responsibilities. Jerry Hoback, a truck driver living at 407 West 66th place, reported the case to the Better Business bureau and an investigation showed that Kreiselman had operated the same confidence game in Pittsburgh, Atlanta, Los Angeles and Newark.

Lights of Broadway Win Electrician from Wife

When her husband, Charles Barnard, an electrician, heard that there are a million lights on Broadway, he left her two months after their marriage and never returned, Mrs. Frances Barnard, 4130 Keystone avenue, testified yesterday before Superior Judge Sabath. The Barnards were married Feb. 20, 1923. She won a divorce.

ROUGHAGE IN DIET NEEDED IN REDUCING

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Eliminates Danger

Are you one of these who are reducing by diet? If so, there is one important thing you should know—diets that do not include roughage cause constipation, often with serious consequences. Guard against it!

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains the roughage needed to insure regular elimination. It is guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or your money will be refunded. Two tablespoons daily—in serious cases, with each meal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not fattening. But it does add valuable iron to the blood which helps prevent anemia (another dieting danger) and bring a glowing, healthy color to the complexion.

You can enjoy Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in many delightful ways. As a ready-to-eat cereal with milk, honey, sprinkled over cereals and salads, in soups and soaked in fruit juices. It is appetizing in cooked food. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SECOND HUSBAND LOSES HIS WIFE HER THREE SONS

Mack Stuteville, a real estate salesman, 3759 Eddy street, yesterday lost his wife's fight to retain the custody of three sons by a former marriage when he took the witness stand in her behalf. Mrs. Louise Grabow Stuteville presented a strong plea to keep the boys, Harry, 16 years old; William, 14, and John, 9, from their father, Harry R. Grabow, whom she divorced two years ago. The decree awarded her the children. The father brought action to obtain their custody.

The case was heard by Superior Judge Lewis. Stuteville's attitude on the witness stand was censured by the judge. When Stuteville was asked by Grabow's attorney whether his wife had ever been arrested for selling liquor, he replied: "Don't you know there is a law against selling intoxicating liquor?" Other answers were in a similar fashion.

"I would not send any children to a home in which the head of the family is the kind of man who has just testified," Judge Lewis said. "It certainly would not be for the best interests of the boys to be around such a man. The father shall have the children. The mother may have them over week-ends."

Chinese Bandits Capture S. Carolina Missionary

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Cable advices to the state department from American Consul General Cunningham at Shanghai said today a report had reached him that H. L. Reeves, an American missionary of the Southern Presbyterian mission at Soochow was captured by bandits Feb. 5 at Chenmoya near Soochow. A native of Clarendon county, South Carolina, Reeves has been in China since 1917.

Dutch Gem Cutters Plan to Resume Full Work Week

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Holland, Feb. 7.—The Amsterdam diamond cutters, who decided some time ago to work only three days a week, have decided, in view of the revival in the diamond trade, to end the restriction of production on Feb. 16. The diamond cutting factories will operate on the normal full week.

ASKS SUBPOENA FOR RECORDS IN SANITARY QUIZ

First Assistant State's Attorney Northup yesterday prepared a petition for a subpoena duces tecum on the U. S. A. company, electrical contractors, 844 Rush street, calling for the books and records of the concern for production before the state grand jury. The petition is expected to be filed before Chief Justice D. J. Normoyle of the Criminal court this morning or Monday.

The investigation of the books will be the first step in the renewed inquiry into the old sanitary district régime. Prosecutor Northup hopes to trace through the books of the company and the questioning of George L. Chamberlain, president, and Fred W. Rhoades, treasurer, the spending of approximately $1,000,000 of the $4,000,000 received by the company from fifteen municipal contracts. United States Attorney Johnson recently announced income tax indictments against the two officials of the company and disclosed that much of the money received was not accounted for.

In his subpoena petition Prosecutor Northup will explain, it is reported, why the state has delayed the inquiry so long. He will say that the state did not want to hinder the federal income tax investigation.

KIN GET MOST OF S. T. MATHER'S $500,000 ESTATE

The will of Stephen T. Mather, for fifteen years director of the bureau of national parks, was filed yesterday before Edward S. Scheffler, assistant to Probate Judge Horner. It leaves most of his $500,000 estate to his widow, Mrs. Jane Floy Mather, 5638 Dorchester avenue, and their daughter, Bertha.

Horace M. Albright, former director of Yellowstone national park, who succeeded Mr. Mather as director of the national park bureau, will receive $25,000. The United Charities of Chicago and the University of California are to get $10,000 each, and the Darien Congregational church of Darien, Conn., $5,000. Smaller bequests are left to distant relatives and friends.

Mr. Mather died in Brookline, Mass., on Jan. 22. He was 62 years old.

EAGLE PUTS ON AERIAL SHOW AT FIELD MUSEUM

Mr. Ramshaw did a flying stunt yesterday in Grant park near the Field museum and motorists paused to watch. Then he glided down to the wrist of his master, Capt. C. W. R. Knight, British war veteran and ornithologist, who rewarded him with a breafast of tough beef. Mr. Ramshaw is a golden eagle from the north of Scotland with a wing spread of six feet. He is accompanying Capt. Knight on a lecture tour of the United States. The captain will give a demonstration of Mr. Ramshaw and an illustrated talk on Long Island seahawks at the museum tomorrow at 3 p. m., which will be free to the public.

POLICE TO ASK INQUIRY ON FREAK WAUKEGAN FIRE

Deputy State Fire Marshal Paul Bertram will be asked by the Waukegan police to investigate a freak fire which burned all night in the Isco-Rudwell battery and ignition shop at 632 South Genesee street, Waukegan, and then extinguished itself before the fire department arrived. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

When John Rudwell, one of the owners of the shop, opened the building yesterday morning, he discovered that the entire equipment of the place had been destroyed, although the building, a brick structure, was only slightly damaged. The fire, according to Fire Chief O'Farrell, apparently started from crossed wires in a battery charger and smoldered throughout the night, there being little flame because the building was closed tightly.

Kills Wife as Son Looks; Waits 24 Hours, Kills Self

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 7.—[Special.]—Roy Spear, 42, a private detective, shot his wife, Evelyn, 28, to death yesterday, in the presence of their 8 year old son. After keeping the lad with him for twenty-four hours, during which he straightened his accounts and wrote four letters regarding the boy's future, Spear today shot himself to death.

MIDDLE WEST ISSUE RISES IN HEAVY TRADING

Chicago Stock List Shows Irregular Trend.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Heavy trading in Middle West Utilities was again the feature in yesterday's Chicago stock transactions. The stock advanced a fraction to establish another new high for the year, closing at 31½. As far as could be learned there was no particular reason for the heavy trade. The rest of the list was irregular with a few of the other Insull utilities rising on light sales. The day's transactions approximated 315,000 shares.

Strength in Middle West, the key holding company of the Insull system, was communicated to other Insull stocks. Corporation Securities closed at 70, with a gain of a fraction, at a new high for the year. Insull Utility finished at 67. Commonwealth Edison and Public Service no par rose about 4 points each on light sales.

Automotives Ease.

An easy tone prevailed in the automotive group. Auburn dropped two more points to 225, while Bendix and Borg Warner each eased slightly. Allied Products was an exception, netting 2½ points on a turnover of about 2,300 shares.

Among the specialties, Art Metal and Gleaner Combine Harvester were up about a point and Jefferson Electric dropped back one to finish at 45¾.

Equals $4.32 a Share.

J. D. Adams Manufacturing company, makers of road building and grading machinery, reports net earnings for 1929 were $1,297,208, equal to $4.32 a share on the common stock outstanding. In 1928 the predecessor partnership earned $1,222,723, equal to $4.07 a share on the common stock. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1929, showed currents of $2,199,586, against current liabilities of $756,497.

LOWER MONEY RATES TO HELP U. S. INDUSTRY

Chicago Rediscount Cut to 4 Per Cent.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The full power of the federal reserves system was turned yesterday to the task of encouraging American business and industry by lowering money rates throughout the country. Four of the reserve banks reduced their rediscount rates, thereby immediately following similar action by the New York and Richmond banks on Thursday.

The Chicago reserve bank led off by reducing its rate from 4½ to 4 per cent, thereby establishing a parity with New York. The Minneapolis, Cleveland and Dallas reserve banks reduced their rates from 5 to 4½ per cent. The St. Louis reserve bank now is the only institution to maintain a 6 per cent rate and it is expected to fall in line quickly. The Boston, Philadelphia, Atlanta, Kansas City and San Francisco banks have been on a 4½ per cent basis for some weeks.

While it appears that the federal reserve board hesitated a week in approving the reduction by the New York reserve institution, one such permission was given the general spread of the policy of lower interest rates was quickly approved for the other reserve institutions.

Policy Meets Approval.

Unlike other occasions in the past when rediscount rates were changed, the policy of the reserve board is meeting with practically unanimous approval of the directors of the various reserve banks. There now is a general belief that easy money rates will speed up recovery from the trade recession that accompanied the stock market collapse last November.

But it also is hoped and believed that relatively cheap money will not cause a revival of excessive speculation and soaring security prices. Chicago financiers took at least temporary satisfaction yesterday from the fact that the stock markets remained quiet and irregular in spite of a flat 4 per cent call money rate.

Successive annual reports from a number and variety of investment trusts and trading companies show that the recovery in the stock markets in the last month or so has greatly minimized the earlier depreciation in assets.

The Reliance International corporation's first annual report shows that total funds paid in between Sept. 25 and Oct. 16, 1929, were $17,966,033, less organization expenses. Net assets on Dec. 31 at market value were $16,-622,120, a decrease of 7½ per cent, but on Jan. 31, this year, these assets were worth $17,391,000, a depreciation of only 3.2 per cent after payment of dividends and organization and operating expense. The liquidating value of the units, consisting of one preferred and one common share, was $43.24, compared with $60.44 at the end of 1929.

Reports Total Assets.

The Railway and Light Securities company reported total assets of $17,-991,522 on Dec. 31, 1929, an increase of $5,427,053 over a year before. The liquidating value of the common shares as of Jan. 31, this year, was placed at $76.67 a share.

Gross income last year was $2,169,-716, including $1,392,049 profit from the sale of securities. The balance after preferred dividends was $1,696,-448 for the common stock, or $14.91 a share. Such earnings in 1928 were only $390,400.

Inland Investors, Inc., had marketable securities worth $5,335,752 on Dec. 31, 1929, which was about 12 per cent below cost price. Capital and surplus were equivalent to $59.74 a share on the common stock. Net earnings last year were $855,851, equivalent to $8.85 a share.

Commonwealth Securities, Inc., had marketable securities, etc., worth $24,-302,465 at the end of 1929, a depreciation of about 13 per cent. Net profit for the year was $1,055,812, compared with $604,083 in 1928. The Passwall corporation's portfolio had a market value of $3,925,207 on Dec. 31, 1929, which was $465,430 under cost. But on Jan. 31, 1930, the investments were worth only $298,256 less than cost. Net income for last year was $341,322.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Predict Decision Soon.

News tickers are predicting an early decision on the Great Northern-Northern Pacific merger application, and the stocks of both roads have firmed up. A decision certainly is deemed overdue, but no hint of anything immediate has been received. It is known that the roads have no intention of withdrawing their original application which included the Burlington.

Outlook Betters.

According to officials of the Associate Apparel company the outlook for 1930 business is even more favorable than it seemed at the start of the year. Unfilled orders for delivery in the current month are far ahead of the corresponding period of 1929. New displays for the spring and summer season have received excellent reception from the public.

In Brisk Demand.

American Can continued in brisk demand yesterday. Can enjoyed an overnight gain of 2 points, whereas losses in other issues of this type ranged from a fraction to a point or more. Constructive operations in Can are based on the outlook for a stock dividend or splitup.

Stabilization Corp. Means Bigger Risks

BY SCRUTATOR.

Following out of the recommendation by the wheat growers advisory committee that the federal farm board immediately create a stabilization corporation will mean, in all probability, an experiment over a term of years in the minimization of private speculation and the prevention and control of crop surpluses.

All that has been done so far in the matter of advancing money for market purposes has been on the short term basis. The farm board began by making commodity commitments on hedged grain after the stock market break and the consequent fall in wheat prices near the end of October. Up to the middle of January the board had loaned to cooperatives in this manner a total of $10,444,000.

These commitments were to stand until the end of the present marketing season. They were made, as the report of the board states, to hold up the prices of wheat, which the board believed was too low in view of world conditions.

Set Arbitrary Loan Levels.

The next step was to take off the restrictions as to hedging. Arbitrary loan levels were set for certain grades of wheat, and after the formation of the twenty million dollar Farmers National Grain corporation, subsidiaries of this organization, started to purchase. Fairly extensive dealings have been carried though. The price paid for No. 1 northern wheat at Minneapolis is $1.25.* Such purchases as have been made in Chicago are at the rate of $1.20 for No. 1 hard winter wheat and $1.18 for No. 2 hard winter.

Local elevator men were quoting No. 2 hard winter here, f. o. b., at $1.15¾ yesterday, or more than two cents under the government backed buyers' price. The No. 1 northern price at Minneapolis was said to be at one time yesterday 4½ cents above the price for May delivery of futures.

The reason why the spread of prices is capable of maintenance lies in the fact that only country run wheat is accepted. The sellers at the high are limited by the exclusion of all terminal elevator men. As a consequence, the amount of wheat purchased under this arrangement is estimated—no figures have been issued—at about two million bushels.

Has Able Management.

Thus far, it can be seen, no huge losses will have to be taken. The amount of lending capital employed is not large in comparison with the funds available. By favoring the country wheat over that in terminals the advantage of withholding supplies is held up to the farmer. The management of the farm board is admittedly able.

But there is a very real possibility of loss in the wheat bought by the subsidiary grain corporations above the open market price. The possibilities are limited only by the size of the trading. It is inconceivable that dealings in small quantities could much affect the world market when the American wheat crop alone is around 800 million bushels.

Eventually the wheat must be sold. One of the dangers that it will not be sold high enough to cover the loans lies in the fact that speculation in this grain by individuals is being so far discouraged that the final end may well be a market in which the farmer, through his cooperative, is brought face to face with the miller or other processor.

Hampers Futures Market.

Futures markets, which now take the grain as it comes, are being unduly hampered. All the functions of the speculator must be performed by the farmers' corporations.

The stabilization corporation, the third big move, will be empowered to buy and sell as it will. If the scale is sufficiently great, it will alone carry the burden of buying and holding wheat until the miller wants it. It will be an experiment in big speculation, as we have had already an experiment in small speculation, with the federal treasury taking the risk over a course of years, perhaps, that official speculators can outguess the markets.

CANADIAN PAC. TO SPLIT SHARES ON 4 FOR 1 BASIS

Montreal, Que., Feb. 7.—(AP)—E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific railroad, today announced that the common stock of the company will be split four for one.

Under the railway act it will be necessary for the dominion government to authorize the change. Mr. Beatty said that application for permission to reduce the par value of the Canadian Pacific common stock from $100 to $25 per share would be made at the next session of parliament.

Name Fox Defendant in Two Damage Suits

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—William Fox, president of the Fox Film corporation, was revealed today as the defendant in two damage suits for breach of contract in which the plaintiffs ask a total of $1,600,000. Both actions are pending in the Supreme court. Mr. Fox is the sole defendant in one suit in which the Sentry Safety Control corporation of Philadelphia claims $1,-300,000. He is named jointly with his associate, John Zanft, in the second suit, which has been brought by Joseph Cohen of the Philadelphia corporation.

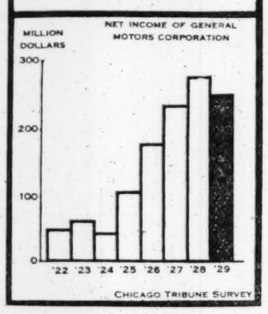
General Motors' Earnings in 1929 Were Better Than for Any Year Except 1928



REPORTS CANADA BEST CUSTOMER OF U. S. DURING 1929

Washington, D. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—European countries during 1929 purchased nearly $1,000,000,000 more of goods from the United States than they sold to the United States in the same year. The relationship of American exports and imports to the principal geographical division of the world for 1929 was disclosed today by commerce department statistics on foreign trade.

Canada was the best customer among nations for the United States during 1929, and in addition was the largest single source of imports which the United States received during the year. Total exports from the United States to Canada for 1929 were $948,-501,227, against $914,713,215 the previous year, while imports from Canada in 1929 amount to $501,276,826, against $484,303,211 the previous year.

The United Kingdom, which ranks next to Canada in purchase of American commodities, received exports of $847,979,856 from this country last year, which was practically identical with the like exports for 1928. In furnishing imports to the United States, however, Great Britain was pushed from second place by Japan, which during 1929 supplied imports to a total of $431,872,664, while imports from England were $329,766,636.

SURVEY SHOWS SHRINKAGE OF NATION'S BANKS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—The number of state and national banks was reduced by 1,104 during the year 1929, according to the annual survey issued by the American Banker.

The reduction is a continuation of contraction in banking units which started back in 1922. Mergers and closings were responsible for the shrinkage, the report says. During the year, 695 state and national banks were reported closed and 799 more institutions gave up their identity in mergers. A total of 317 new banks were chartered by various state and national authorities and 73 closed banks were reported reopened.

Of the 695 banks closed outright only 50 were national institutions. Of the 799 banks merged, only 228 were national banks. Of the 317 new banks, 119 were national and 198 were state chartered.

The total number of charters surrendered in closings and mergers was thus indicated as 1,494 and total number of new institutions 400, making the net reduction in the number of banking institutions during the year 1,104.

Reveal $2,777,500 Suit Against Grigsby-Grunow

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—A suit for $2,777,500 with interest from Oct. 2, last, against the Grigsby-Grunow company, which manufactures and sells Majestic radio products, and B. J. Grigsby, the company's agent, came to light in the United States District court today when it was transferred there from the State Supreme court. Summons and complaint were served in November. The plaintiff, Sulzberger, Granger & Co., stock exchange brokers, allege that the money is due for services rendered.

Dry Goods Men Pledge Hoover Program Support

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—Adopting resolutions pledging support to President Hoover's "sound constructive program for economic stabilization" and indorsing the prospective nationwide census of distribution, the convention of the National Dry Goods association, which has been holding daily sessions at the Hotel Pennsylvania since Monday, closed today.

BUSINESS PERSONALS

Arrangements have been made for the sale of two seats on the New York stock exchange at $390,000, the same price of the last recorded sale. One of the proposed new members is William J. McNamara, a telephone clerk on the exchange.

H. C. Blackwell, who for sometime has been president of the Cincinnati Gas and Electric company, the Union Gas and Electric corporation, has been elected a vice president of the Columbia system. He will continue in his other positions in addition to his new office.

At a meeting of the executive committee of American Locomotive company, Joseph Davis was appointed executive vice president and F. Pierce Brent was named controller.

Higher Fares Boost Net of Transit Lines

Net income of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, which operates the Chicago elevated lines, rose sharply last year due to the increased fares which were put into effect in the latter part of 1928.

The number of passengers carried during the year declined more than 11,-000,000. The total number of revenue passengers carried was 196,774,395, compared with 207,864,238 in 1929.

Nets Over Million.

"This result was due," President Britten I. Budd says in his report, "largely to abolishing use of the weekly pass, the revenue from which averaged only 5¾ cents a ride, or less than cost."

Net income for 1929 was $1,069,479, against $642,313, an increase of $427,-165. After paying dividends of $478,-991 on the cumulative prior preferred stock, $590,488 was credited to surplus, which brought that figure to $3,-712,014. Gross available for return on investment was $4,752,427, compared with $4,182,508 for the previous year, an increase of $569,918.

"In the later part of the year," President Budd reported, "during which the rates of fare were the same as those in effect in the corresponding period of 1928, there was a substantial increase in business. During the Christmas week—Dec. 18 to Dec. 24, inclusive—a new seven day record was established when 5,032,773 revenue passengers were carried."

Total assets as of Dec. 31, 1929, were $106,164,792, of which $94,893,-438 represents road and equipment. Accumulated interest on the adjustment debentures now amounts to $4,083,860.

CANADIAN WHEAT POOL ASKS GOVT. FINANCIAL HELP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 7.—The Canadian government is being asked by the Western Canadian Wheat pool for financial backing in the wheat pool's world wheat gamble.

With 125,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat withheld from world markets in anticipation of an ultimate world shortage, prices continue to decline, and the wheat interests are fearing a crash.

Canadian wheat worth $150,000,000 is involved in the gamble, and the representations made to the dominion government include the suggestion that a national financial calamity will follow a Canadian wheat crash.

No definite reply can be made by the dominion government until the return to Ottawa of Hon. Thomas Crerar, minister of railways in the king government, and former head of western private grain interests. During the war the Canadian government took action similar to that now asked, when it took over the entire season's wheat crop.

GEN. ELECTRIC PAYS INITIAL ON NEW STOCK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—The General Electric company declared today an initial quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share on the new stock, placing it on a $1.60 annual basis.

Based on the recent splitup in the old shares the latest dividend is equal to $6.40 a share on the old stock, which paid $4 regularly and $2 extra last year. The regular quarterly dividend of 15 cents a share was also declared on the special stock, both dividends payable April 25 to holders of record March 7.

An initial quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock was declared by the directors of S. M. Goldberg Stores corporation, placing the stock on a $1 yearly basis. Pittsburgh Investment Securities company has omitted the quarterly 37½ cents due on the common stock.

Estimate World Coffee Crop at 33,700,000 Bags

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—World coffee crops for the 1929-'30 season will aggregate 33,700,000 bags, consisting of 24,500,000 bags Brazil and 9,200,000 bags other kinds, according to an estimate received from the Amsterdam Coffee association by the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange.

Spiegel-May-Stern 1929 Net Profits Are Lower

Spiegel-May-Stern, Inc., mail order and chain store corporation, yesterday reported total 1929 sales of $23,921,905 compared with $20,571,845 in 1928. Net 1929 profits were $1,717,909, compared with $1,756,108 the year previous. Profits in 1929 were equal to $7.21 a share on common stock against $7.43 in 1928.

GOODYEAR TIRE CO. IS ACQUIRED BY EATON GROUP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, a $250,000,000 organization and the largest rubber concern in the world, has been acquired by Cyrus Stephen Eaton, Cleveland capitalist, and a group of associates, it became known today.

Dillon, Read & Co., who became bankers for Goodyear in the reorganization of 1921, were the dominating factors until the entrance of the Eaton group. The dissolution of voting trust in 1927 marked the beginning of Dillon, Read & Co.'s retirement from Goodyear's management.

Mr. Eaton and his associates are now completing a $350,000,000 union of middle west steel companies and their entrance into Goodyear is admittedly the first step in a consolidation of Ohio rubber companies. Although nothing definite has been arranged, it is understood a merger of Goodyear and Seiberling Rubber company is under consideration, with the possibility of United States Rubber company, controlled by the Du Pont family, if not actually joining the consolidation, effecting a working agreement with the Eaton enterprise.

Will Meet Monday.

The merger of Seiberling and Goodyear would create a corporation with total assets of more than $260,000,000 and with the addition of U. S. Rubber the combine would have total assets of $575,000,000.

Directors of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company are meeting Monday in Akron when it is expected the Eaton group will propose to seek more direct representation. Robert E. Christie Jr. is at present the only Dillon-Read director on Goodyear's board, and there is a possibility that he may be asked to make way for another director.

Control is understood to be held by the Eaton group through personal holdings of Mr. Eaton, Continental Shares, Inc., the Eaton-Otis & Co. investment trust, Goodyear Shares, Inc., a holding company for Goodyear stock, and through holdings of Edgar B. Davis and F. A. Seiberling, head of the Seiberling Rubber company and a former president of Goodyear.

Cite Holdings.

Continental Shares owns 75,800 shares of Goodyear common and in addition has 277 shares of the 1,000 outstanding of Goodyear Shares, Inc. The latter on Dec. 31 last held 285,105 Goodyear common shares. Continental Shares, Inc., equity in Goodyear Shares, Inc., amounts to 78,945 Goodyear common shares and with its own holdings has a total interest of 154,-745 shares in Goodyear common, or approximately 11 per cent of Goodyear's 1,398,126 shares outstanding. Mr. Davis and Mrs. Seiberling also are understood to have a stock interest in Goodyear Shares, Inc.

Mr. Davis is known to favor a merger of United States Rubber and Goodyear, because of the value he attaches to United States Rubber's plantations. He is a strong advocate of rubber growing by the tire manufacturers.

MILWAUKEE RY. ESTIMATES NET OF $7,074,014

A preliminary report for 1929 by the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad gives net income for the year of $7,074,014, which compares with $9,261,971 in 1928.

The 1929 net is equal to $5.93 a share on the 1,192,388 shares of 5 per cent preferred stock and after preferred dividend requirements to 94 cents a share on the 1,174,606 shares of common stock outstanding.

In 1928 earnings were equal to $7.77 a share on the 1,191,750 shares of preferred stock then outstanding and $2.81 on the common stock. Gross income showed a fair gain during 1929. The company's gross was $171,361,385 compared with $168,303,693 in 1928.

Opposes Oil Import Duty; Price Cuts

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—Declaring that California oil operators have made satisfactory progress in handling their oil conservation campaign, K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California, said that in his opinion the price of oil is too low and intimated that lower price levels are not what the oil industry needs to cure its ills.

Neither did Mr. Kingsbury favor the proposal of mid-continent independent oil operators for an import duty on foreign oil as an aid to the conservation movement.

"A tariff on foreign oil would do more harm than good to the American petroleum industry," said Mr. Kingsbury, "because it would have the effect of hurting our foreign oil trade. We export more oil from this country than we import into it.

"If we should levy an import tariff on Venezuela crude oil, that which now comes into the United States would be diverted to foreign countries, where it would displace American exported oil.

"Moreover, it would be refined abroad, whereas now it is shipped to the United States in the crude state and refined here, giving employment to American labor and building up the refining industry in this country.

"The oil operators of the state are cooperating wholeheartedly in the movement as indicated by the fact that production has been cut down about 35 per cent. California gasoline can be shipped east by water more cheaply than it can be transported here from the mid-continent field. The trouble with the gasoline market is that too much gasoline is being refined."

WILL OPERATE IN INVESTMENT TRUST FIELD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 7.—The formation of a new holding company, the Yosemite Holding corporation, which will eventually control or own a substantial interest in a nation-wide group of investment trusts of the general management type, will be completed soon by a group of financial and investment firms headed by the Fidelity Trust company of Detroit and Baker, Simonds & Co., it was learned today.

The company will eventually have assets of more than $50,000,000. The Guaranty Trust company has been appointed transfer agent for 1,500,000 shares of no par common stock of the new company.

British Type Investors, Inc., a general management investment trust with total resources of more than $10,-000,000, has established an affiliation of interests with Yosemite Holding corporation, it was learned. British Type Investors, which maintains its offices in Jersey City, is headed by Edward V. Otis. The company was organized in February, 1928, to invest and deal in securities. Luther D. Thomas, president of Fidelity Trust company, will be the president of the Yosemite Holding corporation, it was reported.

Lake Shore Co-op Gives Rebate of Assessments

Occupants of the cooperative apartments at 1120 Lake Shore drive, which were promoted and are under the management of Baird & Warner, have received a rebate of their February assessments, the total amount being $10,-666, according to an announcement by the board of directors. This is the third announcement of this character by the board.

Ben Kaufman, Inc., operator of a national chain of hat stores, has leased the store at 111 West Madison in the new Madison-Clark building, at the southwest corner of Clark and Madison, for ten years. The lessee had a store in the old building which formerly occupied this site for twenty years. Hooker & Slosson, managers of the new building, negotiated yesterday's lease.

Bulova Watch Estimates $5.10 a Share Earnings

Preliminary income statement of the Bulova Watch Company, Inc., for the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, shows net earnings, before taxes, of $1,776,979, as compared with $1,201,004. After allowing for estimated federal taxes and preferred dividends, earnings are equivalent to approximately $5.10 a share. The 1928 net income was equivalent to $3.75 a share.

Top yesterday, $12.50; average, $11.10.

The much talked of $11.00 hogs finally put in an appearance yesterday, numerous loads reaching this mark, which stands highest since Sept. 27 and $1.85 above the low days of the winter, Nov. 19 and Nov. 26. The general average price advanced 25c to $10.65, highest since Aug. 24.

Yesterday's uneven advance of 10@40c carried prices 60@65c above the close of last week, light and light butchers scoring the sharpest gains. Medium and heavy hogs were up the least, but the classification in all branches was as good as any time of the season. Only pen holders and inferior kinds remained at the close.

Only 1,000 cattle were unloaded at the yards yesterday, hardly enough to test quotations in all branches of the trade. The market, however, continued dull for all grades but well finished steers. The latter kinds have been scarce all week and finished 25c above a week ago, while others are closing 25@35c lower. The best available yesterday averaged 1,301 lbs., at $14.10.

Heifers closed in line with a week ago, but cows are still off 25c for the week. Calves were steady yesterday and $1.50@1.50 lower than a week ago.

There was an acute scarcity of choice light and handy weight fat lambs yesterday, resulting in a quick clearance of top kinds at steady prices. Others moved slowly at the recent sharp decline. Fancy 79 lb., fed western lambs topped the price list at $12.50, while bulk of the supply exceeding 90 lbs., in weight sold at $10.50@11.75.

Extreme weights ranged downwards to $9.50@9.75. Lambs are closing unevenly 75c to $1.50 lower than a week ago, while yearlings show 50c to $1.00 loss and aged sheep, 25@50c decline. Feeder lambs are closing 75c to $1.25 lower than a week ago.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 200 cattle, 12,000 hogs and 3,000 sheep, against 196 cattle, 15,799 hogs and 4,434 sheep, the previous Saturday and 362 cattle, 11,087 hogs and 1,753 sheep, a year ago.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Spot butter prices were unchanged, while fresh eggs declined 2½@3c, due to larger receipts. Live leghorn hens and geese were lc lower. Receipts, 2 cars by freight. Potatoes easy. Receipts 116 cars, with 276 cars on team track.

NEWS OF GOV'T WHEAT PLAN BRINGS RALLY

Final Quotations Show Little Change.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders placed a bullish construction yesterday on the government plan to form a stabilization corporation, and while the market had a dip of ¾@1c early in sympathy with a sharp decline in Liverpool and Buenos Aires, general buying developed on the break and a rally of 1⅞@3¼c from the low followed with shorts covering freely on the way up.

Profit taking and uncertainty as to what effect the proposed corporation would ultimately have on the market caused a recession from the top with the close unchanged to ½c higher, old crop months showing the most strength with March finishing at $1.16¾@1.16½; May, $1.20⅝@1.20⅞, and July, $1.21⅝@1.21⅞.

Considerable change in sentiment was noted amongst local professionals many changing from the bear to the bull side. Winnipeg showed more strength than Chicago and finished 1@⅝c higher. Liverpool reacted after an early break and finished ¼@ ½d higher, while Buenos Aires was weak from the start and closed at the low point of the day with net losses of 2⅜@2¾c, a decline in the foreign exchange rate having some effect on quotations in that market.

Profit Taking Checks Bulge.

There is no unanimity of opinion as to the trend of the wheat market, despite the proposed stabilization corporation, as the farm board recently announced that there would be no change in its loan figures the balance of the season, and many observers felt that under such conditions the corporation would make no effort to force a higher level of values unless there was a decided change in the world's position.

There were no signs of foreign interest of consequence in cash wheat with sales in all positions finally estimated at 200,000 bu. March wheat in Buenos Aires, which was ¼c over Chicago a few days ago, closed yesterday at 7⅛c discount, tending to place the United States out of line as far as cash business in hard winters was concerned with Europe.

Argentine offerings of wheat abroad were at a lower level of values, and were a factor in causing a decline in Liverpool early. An estimate that Russia had an exportable surplus of 10,000,000 bu wheat was forwarded by Broomhall, of wheat nearly 1,000,000 bu has been cleared so far.

Short Covering in Corn.

Covering of a line of short corn by a house with New York connections coming at the time wheat was strong caused a sharp upturn in values, but the best figures were not maintained with the finish unchanged to ⅜c higher, March being 83c and May 1⅛@1¼c. Buenos Aires futures closed 1⅛@1⅜c lower.

Commission houses and shorts were on the buying side of oats early, while longs and cash houses sold. The finish was at net gains of ⅛@⅜c, with March 44⅝c and May 46⅛c.

Rye had a sharp bulge early in sympathy with wheat and on short cover through houses with New York connections, but the market eased later with wheat and closed ⅛@1¼c lower, with March 83c and May 84½c.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw to exist today and no sales were reported. Duties were unchanged, with Cuban quoted at 1.53c and duty free and 3.54c, Raw. Refiners were firm at the outset on covering and some buying by houses with Cuban connections, prompted by the firmer London market, but subsequently turned easier on any restriction in Cuba. The close was unchanged to 1 point lower after a 1 point advance to 1 point net. A prominent local statistical bureau in a revised estimate of the world's sugar crop now places the probable outturn at 26,887,870 tons, or 669,185 tons below the previous estimate. Approximate sales, 42,-
